Nearly 100 Scientific Papers Will Be Presented

Gold Medal Will Be Given to Dr. Millikan

One of the most important scientific conventions of the year will open here Monday when the Radiological Society of North America, an organization of physicians who specialize in the use of the X-ray and radium, convenes at the Ambassador. The convention will run through until Friday and is expected to attract at least 500 radiologists from all parts of the world as well as many members of their families, commercial exhibitors and visitors.

Dr. Albert Soiland, 1407 South Hope street, a past-president of the society, is general chairman of the convention and will be assisted by many other California physicians including Drs. William E. Witter, chairman of the clinics committee, all of Los Angeles; Dr. Lloyd Bryan of San Francisco, chairman of the scientific exhibits committee, and a score of others.

Nearly 100 scientific papers will be read, including a dozen or more by Los Angeles physicians, and many of the essayists are world famous in radiology, surgery and other branches of medicine. Some of the outstanding authorities who will speak will be Dr. Joseph Colt Bloodgood of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore; Dr. J. V. Sparks of London; Dr. E. C. Ernst of St. Louis; Mme. Nadine Zavadsky, a Russian woman scientist who is an associate of Mme. Curie, co-discoverer of radium, in her Paris laboratories, and Dr. Robert A. Millikan of Pasadena.

Dr. Robert J. May of Cleveland president of the society, will preside and Dr. Sandy Allen of Tampa will take office at the annual banquet, December 4. At this dinner the coveted gold medal of the society will be awarded Dr. Millikan and Dr. Henry Schmitz of Chicago.

A special train bearing members from eastern and southern cities will arrive in Los Angeles Sunday morning, in charge of Dr. I. S. Trostler, secretary-treasurer and organizer of the convention tours for many years.

STAR RIDERS ARRIVE FOR STOCK SHOW

Champion Steer Busters Will Compete in Arena Events Saturday

Cowboy rodeo stars to take part in the fifth annual Christmas Livestock Show and Rodeo, which opens at the Union Stockyards here Saturday, began arriving in Los Angeles yesterday, according to J. A. Meffaughton, executive director of the show.

For the first time in rodeo history, night shows will be held under the glare of special arc lights which have been installed in the new permanent rodeo arena.

In contrast with the typical American cowboy, as represented by the rodeo artists will be the wild riding of the old Spanish days, when vaqueros from several famous ranches and the El Rodeo Club of Orange county will perform in the arena. Among the features of the rodeo, will be Hoot Gibson's string of wild horses, formerly known as the Baker ranch outfit.

Women Trapped for Money

New York Inquiry Uncovers Graft Involving Police and Magistrates

Jail Case Goes to Jury; Five Gangsters Killed; Shake-up Possible

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (Exclusive) Publicity smeared its trail in and out of courtroom doors, through city suites and into high places in city circles, besmirched politicians and flung a patronizing arm over policemen's shoulders in this city while, guns coughed in the street and in gymnasiums and five racketeers were killed while a grand jury, citizens' safety committee and two courts dabbled in a mire of graft that may result in the most thorough shake-up of the police department and lesser courts in the last thirty-odd years.

While the courts, and possibly the police, knocked off work for Thanksgiving eve, this is the way the day's activities tabulated:

WOMEN TRAPPED

The story of a sport that ... has no closed season—trapping women—had been told by a slick-tongued Chilean. Ten dollar bills was the bait and the gigolo charms of his ilk were the trap gun. The victims—guilty and innocent alike—were charged with violation of "the oldest profession" by policemen in on the kill. Much of the testimony before the committee division's inquiry into police courts charges that the courts are shamed in by hoodlum and shyster lawyers under the guise of agreeable magistrates and that the graft money is shared by all.

There was an official huddle between Walker and Police Commissioner Mulrooney debated what to do with the more than score of the police force ... Inspector Thomas T. ... been in the grasping patrolmen were named as coworkers in the vice ring. It was decided to ask all available evidence and ... the accused officers police ... The timecards and other ... of the law face charges ... false evidence, bribery and conspiracy.

CASE GOES TO JURY

Mercury Takes Sharp Drop

Twelve Dead in Middle West When Winter Arrives Full Tilt

Subfreezing Temperatures Move Into Dixie, Bringing Frosts to Florida

ATLANTA, Nov. 26. (AP)—Bitterly cold weather moved down on the South tonight, bringing subfreezing temperatures to the border States and heavy frosts as far south as the Gulf Coast and Northern Florida.

Fair and colder was the forecast for most of the South. The forecast indicated the cold wave will continue southward in the form of heavy frosts in interior Florida. The government Weather Bureau at Miami held out fear of frost in the Miami area and over the Everglades tonight.

BY JOHN P. GALLAGHER
"Times" Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Nov. 26. (Exclusive)—The cold wave predicted for the Middle West last night hit this section full tilt today, precipitately tumbling the mercury to near the zero mark. Snowstorms continued unabated tonight.

Farther to the west and northwest subzero temperatures spotted the weather chart for the first time this season. Another storm brewing around Medicine Hat, Man., from where proverbially most of the harsh weather of the Middle West comes, was too young to be the basis of predictions for additional inclement weather.

SIX DEAD IN CHICAGO

There were six deaths in Chicago during the day. Four persons were killed in accidents caused by ice, and an aged man and woman were found frozen to death. George Siegel, 66 years of age, a window washer, slipped on an icy window sill and fell eighteen floors to his death from the St. Clair Hotel. A score or more of injuries from falls on slippery pavements were reported.

Mrs. Marcella Oglesby, mother of thirteen children, was found dead tonight in her back yard during a snowstorm. Exposure was the cause.

Six deaths were reported from other points in the Middle West tonight.

The death toll from almost a week of storms farther west continued to mount with three more bodies recovered in Colorado and Wyoming, bringing the total deaths in that section to twenty-four.

The coldest spot in North America today was The Pas, Man., where

MILL STRIKE RIOT CALLS FOR TROOPS

Virginia Governor Sends Militia as Lawlessness Gets Beyond Control

DANVILLE (Va.) Nov. 26. (Exclusive)—Charles A. Whitmore, Visalia publisher, has been appointed State Building and Loan Commissioner by Gov. Young for a four-year term expiring October 8, 1934.

Whitmore had been holding the position at the pleasure of the Governor and he was given the term appointment in consequence of an act of the 1929 Legislature. The position pays $6000 a year.

DANVILLE (Va.) Nov. 26. (Exclusive)—The Danville textile strike situation came to a sudden head here today when the civil authorities at the mill village of Schoolfield admitted that lawlessness had got beyond control. This caused Sheriff Murphy of Pittsylvania county to wire to Gov. Pollard to send the State militia.

Tonight more than 600 men of the Virginia One Hundred and Sixteenth Infantry are concentrated here from a dozen near-by towns, all being in charge of Col. Opie of Staunton, with 200 more expected tomorrow. The Schoolfield mill is under guard and Col. Opie has the authority to proclaim martial law if necessary.

This step was taken after a night of lawlessness at the mill village in which houses were stoned, a hotel materially damaged, pistols fired into the air and dynamite discharged. A riot call took all Danville policemen to the scene but the mob had dispersed when it arrived.

Public Domain Views Decided

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. (AP)—Tentative conclusions of President Hoover to transfer the public domain to the States have been reached by the committee on conservation and administration of the public domain, but they will be withheld pending further deliberations.

The committee, which assembled in Washington the 10th inst., adjourned today until the first week in January to permit members to study possible effects of the tentative decisions when applied within their own States, Dr. James R. Garfield, chairman, announced.

Dirigible Base Choice Slated for Next Week

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. (AP)—The House Naval Affairs Committee is to vote next week on a site for the $5,000,000 west coast naval dirigible base.

Chairman Britten, who said the vote would be taken, is confident the Sunnyvale site near San Francisco Bay will be approved. An inspection of Sunnyvale and Camp Kearny, near San Diego, by naval officials and committee members showed, he said, the northern site was preferable.

Sacramento Hit by Gasoline War

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 26. (Exclusive)—Sacramento today heard the opening barrage of what appears to be another gasoline price war, when dealers on an outlying street dropped their prices from 22 cents to as low as 17 cents a gallon.

The cut was said to meet competition of dealers who had been underselling during the past few weeks. Unless settled within a day or two, the price cutting is expected to spread throughout the city.

Increase in Fire Funds Requested

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. (AP)—Increased funds for guarding against forest fires were requested today in the report of Charles C. Moore, Commissioner of the General Land Office, who urged also that a special appropriation be set aside for fighting coal fires on the public domain.

Receipts of the General Land Office were three times as large as expenditures, with revenue totaling $6,801,400, against $2,222,785 disbursed. Receipts from mineral leases totaled $4,739,095, while sales of timber added $763,498 from acreage in Oregon and California.

HOME BREW TARGET IN NEW RULING

Federal Judge in Florida Holds Maker Subject to Punishment

TAMPA (Fla.) Nov. 26. (AP)—Federal Judge Akerman ruled here today manufacture or possession of any alcoholic beverage in a home constitutes a violation of the national prohibition law.

The ruling was made in the trial of A. Ochoa, arrested by Federal agents for possession of home brew.

Judge Akerman said: "I don't think any man has the right to start a brewery in his home. . . . It is my belief that possession applies to all persons, whether they intend to sell liquor or use it themselves. The man who makes home brew or any other alcoholic drinks in his home for private use is no more exempt from punishment in Federal court than the ordinary bootlegger."

Ochoa pleaded guilty and was given a suspended sentence of three months in jail.

BACTERIA, NOT MAN, BLAMED IN WINE-MAKING

NEWARK (N. J.) Nov. 26. (AP)—You can't, said United States Commissioner Holland today, charge bacteria with a crime.

The case was that of Peter Campanaro, charged with the manufacture of intoxicating liquor. Campanaro had been found guarding several vats of fermenting wine.

"The fact that this man was sitting there while the wine was fermenting," said the commissioner, "is no evidence of guilt. The wine would have fermented just the same if he had not been there. The manufacture in this case was done by the bacteria—and you can't charge bacteria with a crime."

Duce Assists Blind Girl to Realize Dream

POLA (Italy) Nov. 26. (AP)—Maria Rinoselli's life dream has come true, because she had the courage to write a letter to Mussolini.

Maria, who is 20 years of age, was born blind, but to offset her affliction she had a natural gift for the piano.

An operation would give her sight, but her family, who are poor working people, could not afford it any more than they could afford to buy her a piano. She wrote the Duce, asking his aid.

Mussolini sent her money for the operation, which was successful, and more to enable her to buy the piano she had always wanted.

Word of Fighting Carried in Private Messages Sent to Chile

New Government Reported Retaining Its Control With Difficulty

ARICA (Chile) Nov. 26. (AP)—Private messages reaching the border from Lima tonight say grave trouble exists in the Peruvian capital, with constant fighting in the streets and gunfire heard in parts of the city.

The same information asserts several persons have been executed by order of the government and the government is holding its own with difficulty. It is understood a strict censorship has been put into effect.

The situation has been troubled in Peru for more than two weeks, or since disorders in the Cerro de Pasco mining region, which resulted in the deaths of two Americans and numerous other casualties.

The action of the Minister of the Interior in handling the disturbances was severely criticised and the suggestion was heard on many sides that a new Cabinet should replace that which took office with Provisional President Sanchez Cerro following upon a revolution in August.

This resulted in the resignation of the Ministry Friday night and a new one was sworn in Saturday. Criticism persisted, most of it to the effect that every one was loyal to Sanchez Cerro personally, but did not like his choice of Ministers. Disturbances which grew out of the unrest resulted in a riot Monday in which fifteen persons were wounded.

It is understood a number of army officers were arrested the next day.

Hindu Parade Leaders Held

BOMBAY (India) Nov. 26. (AP)—Six men, including three members of the war council of the Indian National Congress, and twenty-one women, including the president and vice-president of the council, were arrested today for defying a police ban. The letters, he said, were from Julius Wiechardt and instructed Mrs. Adams how to get a divorce and obtain community property and alimony.

Racketeer Sent Back to Prison

CHICAGO, Nov. 26. (AP)—James (Pur) Sammons today became the ninth of Chicago's twenty-eight "public enemies" to be taken out of the beer, bullets and betting business.

He went back to State prison at Joliet to serve thirty years more of a murder sentence because of a ruling by Atty.-Gen. Carlstrom that he was not eligible for parole after having had his life sentence commuted.

EINSTEIN PRAISES LONG-DEAD SCIENTIST

BERLIN, Nov. 26. (AP)—Albert Einstein, father of the relativity theory, in a lecture tonight lauded the achievements of Johannes Kepler, the sixteenth-century scientist often called the Father of Modern Astronomy. The lecture in the Academy of Sciences was in observance of the 300th anniversary of Kepler's death, and probably was Einstein's last lecture in Germany before his departure for the United States.

Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, Nov. 26.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Some of the writers are having a little trouble scraping up a reason for Thanksgiving this year. Some think we ought to skip a year and put on a big one in '31. The original idea of the day was to give thanks for "bountiful harvest." Well, the "bountiful harvest" is the very thing that's the matter with us. Too much wheat, too much corn, too much cotton, too much beef, too much production of everything; so we are going through a unique experience. We are the first nation to starve to death in a storehouse that's overfilled with everything we want.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

DEATH AND FEARS TRAIL CIRCUS FIRE

Performers Burned and Animals Loosed in Wreck of Mexican Train

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 26. (AP)—Fire aboard a circus train near Guadalajara early today caused deaths estimated at from three to twenty and released wild animals to terrify a quiet countryside.

Dispatches say that as the train conveying a circus from Irapuato to Guadalajara was halted at Guadalupe station an engine switching some of the circus cars rammed into a car filled with gasoline and exploded it.

Immediately flames shot back through the wooden coaches in which members of the circus were sleeping. Performers jumped from their beds shrieking and breaking their way out of the cars, while terrified animals lunged at their cages and many got away.

Lions, bears and elephants snorted through the streets of quiet little Guadalupe and early rising householders knew something unusual was happening but did not remain outdoors to see what it was.

Troops accompanying the train started chasing the escaped creatures and shot some of them, but many others got free and are still at large tonight.

The elephants which got away are reported to be wrecking everything in their path.

Japanese Speed Relief Work

Casualties Total Expected to Be Made Greater by Reported Landslide

(Copyright, 1930, by New York Times)

TOKIO, Nov. 27. (Thursday) (Exclusive)—The death toll from an earthquake which rocked a large part of Central Japan early yesterday and wrought havoc in the Izu Peninsula, grew hour by hour as reports continued to come in from the various localities. The number of dead officially reported up to 10 o'clock this morning was 228, the number injured 117, with a total of 681 houses reported to be completely destroyed and 2916 houses partly destroyed.

In addition, ninety persons are reported to have been buried in a landslide at Shusenji, although the confirmation of this is obtainable. This would bring the total of dead up to 318. The western portal of the Tanna tunnel, under construction near Atami, caved in with 250 workmen at work in the tunnel, but no report has yet been received as to their fate.

DEATH STATISTICS

The number killed is reported by locality as follows: Nirayama, 75; Mishima, 50; Nishikida, 7; Kannan, 28; Kitakano, 18; Konama, 3; Tanaka, 7; Kawanishi, 15; Shusenji, 15; Kamiomi, 1; Shimoomi, 3; Nakamo, 7; Ito, 1; Namasu, 1; Shimizura, 1; Chimizu, 6; Atami, 3; Nishikano, 15; Nakano, 11; Joto, 6; Chinokano, 1; Izumi, 1. This list was compiled by the Shizuoka prefectural authorities and does not cover all of the localities which were affected. When the full reports are received it is expected the total dead will be far greater.

Several towns and villages in the Izu Peninsula were entirely wiped out while fire broke out in a number of places, and a landslide added to the death toll. In Hakone, a famous mountain resort, only three houses were left standing. At Nagaoka, only two houses were standing.

GREAT DAMAGE

At Mishima, where the shock was most severe, two-thirds of the town was destroyed and all the buildings were damaged. The number of dead in Mishima is officially placed at fifty, but other reports indicate the number may exceed 100. According to a reporter for the newspaper Nichi Nichi who visited the town, there are 140 dead. 20,000 are homeless and not a single one of the 3200 homes is intact. The inhabitants are busy today propping up the houses, but all the people are remaining outdoors fearing another shock.

Two stone bridges on the road between Odawara and Atami were demolished and there are three large cracks in the road. At Atami, 150 houses were destroyed including the primary school where three were killed when buildings collapsed due to a landslide.

A number of landslides occurred in the Hakone Mountain district in the vicinity of Miyanoshita a well-known resort, but there were no casualties there. Miyanoshita and Hakone are cut off from all communication.

AREA OF QUAKE

The area of destruction covered the northern part of the Izu Peninsula embracing 3000 square miles and extending from west to east from Numazu to Doawara and from north to south from Golemba to Shuseenji. The quake was felt over a much larger area extending from Osaka to Fukui, but little

FIRST PRESIDENT BEGAN IT

Washington's Initial Thanksgiving Proclamation Safe Again After Being Lost 132 Years

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. (AP)—The first Presidential Thanksgiving proclamation ever issued—signed by George Washington in 1789—now reposes in the Library of Congress after being lost 132 years. The story of the document, one of the prize possessions of the Congressional Library, was related today by the George Washington Bicentennial Commission. It dropped from sight soon after being signed with the bold handwriting of America's first President and was not located until 1921, when it came to view at a New York auction sale.

Dr. J. C. Fitzpatrick, then assistant chief of the manuscripts division of the Library of Congress and an expert in Washingtonia, examined the document and pronounced it authentic. He bought it for the Congressional Library for $300.

OBJECTION MADE

The proclamation, written in long hand by William Jackson, secretary to President Washington, was issued under a Congressional resolution introduced in the House by Elias Boudinot.

The resolution, presented only a few months after the American government was formed, called upon President Washington to "recommend to the people of the United States a day of public thanksgiving and prayer, to be observed by acknowledging, with grateful hearts, the many signal favors of Almighty God, especially by affording them an opportunity to establish a constitution of government for their safety and happiness."

Immediately objection was made. Representative Aedamus Burke of South Carolina thought the United States should not mimic Europe, "where they made a mere mockery of thanksgiving." Representative Thomas Tudor Tucker, also of South Carolina, argued it was not the business of Congress to ask for a national day of thanksgiving.

DOUBT EXPRESSED

"They (the people) may not be inclined to return thanks for a constitution," he said, "until they have experienced that it promotes their safety and happiness."

The objections were overridden, however, and President Washington issued the proclamation on October 3, calling upon the nation to devote November 26 "to the service of that great and glorious Being who is the beneficent Author of all the good that was, that is, or that will be."

It also called upon the people to offer prayers to "the great Lord and Ruler of nations," to "render our national government a blessing to all the people by constantly being a government of wise, just and constitutional laws, discreetly and faithfully executed and obeyed."

CHICAGO POLICE SCORED BY JURY

Connivance With Gangland Charged in Report

Department Morale Broken, Crime Justice Told

Special Investigation Urged to Uncover Corruption

CHICAGO, Nov. 26. (AP)—The November grand jury today handed to Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal Court a report bristling with charges of police corruption and connivance with criminals, and urging a special grand jury be summoned solely to investigate the police department.

The jury, which had questioned Acting Commissioner of Police Alcock and several captains, asserted the morale of the police department has been broken, "because efficiency and faithfulness go unrewarded."

Charges contained in the report included:

The police force is largely under the domination of unscrupulous politicians and criminals; police advancement often is based upon subserviency to corruptionists; actual fear prompts many courageous men to do little but their routine duty; there is a system of regular monthly payments of large sums by organized crime to numbers of police officials; without the connivance of dishonest police officials crime would be reduced to a minimum.

The jury indorsed action of Judge Lyle's policy of setting high bonds for known criminals.

San Francisco and San Mateo Merger Drawn

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 26. (Exclusive)—A definite plan for consolidation of San Francisco and San Mateo counties, long advocated, was presented to the Board of Freeholders today by Maj. Charles N. Kirkpatrick of San Mateo, attorney member of the consolidation committee.

His plan, predicated on approval by the voters, would combine the two counties under the name of San Francisco but with adequate representation for San Mateo county as it now exists; that San Mateo need not assume any financial obligations of this city and county and that the borough form of government be instituted.

the jury that took more than half an hour Supreme Court Justice McCook declared: "Woe to the nation; woe to the city whose streets and theaters and over whose dinner tables the buying and selling of judgeships can become a jest." Late tonight the jury had reached no decision.

(4.) Five racketeers were shot down in the metropolitan district while Prosecuter Crain and his public safety committee of fifty civic leaders were striving to end the "gun rule in business" by conferences and promises of "protection" to informers on racketeers. Four of the gangsters ran into a tartar in the person of a young patrolman in Brooklyn. They were engaged in the rather commonplace activity of sticking up a speakeasy when the officer, in civilian clothes, opened fire and brought down the quartet. Before the policeman opened fire the proprietor of the place had been wounded and two girl customers beaten.

SNIPERS GET ONE

The fifth racketeer was "Ritchie" Boiardo, a power in First Ward politics across the Hudson in Newark. He was put on the spot in front of his home and dropped with six teen shotgun pellets in him by snipers who fired from an upstairs window. Three bystanders were wounded by the hail of bullets, one seriously.

Today's evidence linking the courts and police with graft on vice was fully as sensational as that gathered in three previous investigations of the police system which ousted Tammany Hall from control of the city government for the only three periods in the last thirty-six years. Back in 1894 there was the Lexow investigation which resulted in the election of the Republican Mayor, William L. Strong. The next investigation came in the heyday of the old Tenderloin and brought about the election of the fusion Mayor, Seth Low, in 1899. Then there was the Emory Buckner-Henry H. Curran investigation of 1913 that elected another fusion Mayor, John Purroy Mitchel.

SENSATION CAUSED

The exposure today of the police methods in the asserted framing of young girls on vice charges was engineered by Isidor Kresel, a graduate of the William Travers Jerome "school" of investigation. Under his direction, "Chile" Mapocho Acuna, a dapper, smirking little stool pigeon, tossed a bomb into the police department, the reverberations of which shook every precinct station in the city.

Inspector Ryan, the highest officer named by the young Chilean, was quick to deny the charges. He called Acuna a liar and said he never had worked "with a stool pigeon." Commissioner Mulrooney backed him up, declaring "If Ryan is wrong then everybody in the world is wrong."

"Chile" Acuna, a black-haired, suave young South American, was dressed like a dandy and told his story with apparent relish, for his rise from dish washer to "vice falcon" was ended a year ago when his police employers framed him on a charge of extortion and sent him to prison for a sentence of one to three years, of which he served eleven months.

"TRAINED" FOR WORK

Acuna testified he was "trained" for his work by Inspector Ryan and then he named a list of "co-operating policemen" which sounded like a miniature roster of the police department. He said he was told to "get the addresses of houses of prostitution not for raids but to get money from them." He told of his work in 150 cases in "almost every inspection district in town" and declared that forty innocent women were railroaded to jail on perjured testimony by supporting officers when they were unable or unwilling to "fix it with the money." Out of his recollection he identified seventeen victims of the vice ring.

Women were not permitted to hear the Chilean's story. The men in the room kept their eyes averted from the dapper little man with the slick patent-leather hair and rouged fingernails. "Chile" Acuna was unbothered, however, as he sat and linked the Tammany administration with graft and houses of ill fame.

DEFECTIVE-EYESIGHT CHILDREN GIVEN AID

CHICAGO, Nov. 26. (AP)—Many pupils at the Talcott school will see a different world tomorrow, for as a Thanksgiving gesture the teachers of that school sponsored a fund to put glasses on children with defective eyesight whose parents were too poor to furnish them.

VETERAN PULLMAN SERVICE MAN DIES

CHICAGO, Nov. 26. (AP)—Palmer L. Randall, 68 years of age, chief of car service for the Pullman Company, died today. He became noted for his remarkable memory, being able to tell the whereabouts of Pullman cars by name without resorting to records.

Red Cross Gains Royal Worker

Princess Ingrid (indicated by arrow) practicing the application of a bandage to an injured hand.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 26. (Exclusive)—Princess Ingrid, only daughter of Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf, is not content with being just a member of the Red Cross. She wants to be of real service if ever called upon. This was disclosed when she started a course in one of the city's largest hospitals.

This new royal worker for the Red Cross is demonstrating splendid ability in rendering first aid to wounded or injured persons. During the course of instruction, at her own suggestion, she is accorded the same treatment as given the many other students by instructors.

JAPAN QUAKE DEATHS MOUNT

damage was done outside this territory.

Since the 7th inst. 1600 tremors have been recorded in Central Japan, most of them in the Izu peninsula. Atami and Ito have been subjected to such frequent tremors that Atami, which has been a popular hot spring resort, has been deserted by visitors. A lake condition existed last winter which puzzled meteorological experts.

On the 21st inst. 283 tremors were registered in the Izu Peninsula and on Tuesday there were 256. More than twenty of these tremors were felt daily.

Tokio sent two relief corps to the affected area tonight, each including ten doctors and twenty nurses.

QUAKE SURVIVORS REMAIN OUT-OF-DOORS

ATAMI (Izu Peninsula) Nov. 26. (Exclusive)—Pale and shivering with fright and cold, thousands of survivors of today's earthquake are remaining outdoors tonight, with women and children resting their weary heads on piles of salvaged belongings. The railway station was partly damaged and was the scene of a great commotion, with frightened visitors of the winter resorts and hot springs flocking in an increasing number.

The wounded have been given shelter in tents and heroic efforts are being made by soldiers and young men's associations, who are distributing food to the refugees. Two hundred volunteers are repairing the tracks, while others are extracting the bodies from the collapsed houses.

Kasaji Yionhida, a railway porter from Mishima, the first eye witness of the wholesale destruction of Mishima to arrive here, said: "Mishima is in total ruins and practically every house collapsed with the first shock. Men from the barracks of the artillery corps are doing their best to release the wounded from the weight of the fallen houses and are also caring for the injured. There are hideous fissures three feet wide for miles along the newly built highway."

Of the affected area the heaviest damage was sustained by Mishima and Nazaoka, where rows of houses have collapsed.

SIX DIE FROM COLD IN CHICAGO

it was 14 deg. below zero, but this was only 6 deg. colder than in North Dakota where it was 8 below at Devils Lake. St. Paul, Minn., and Charles City, Iowa, were close behind with 2 above zero.

In Central Illinois, it was colder than in Chicago during the day. Ottawa, reported a reading of 6 above zero in midafternoon, while it was 5 to 10 above in Pana, Ill., with snow blown into four-foot drifts on the highways. It was 19 at Quincy, Ill., 15 at Hannibal, Mo.; 16 at Keokuk, Iowa, and 9 at Sioux City, Iowa, with the thermometers sinking below those marks during the early part of the night.

In the Chicago district a minimum of 19 was registered at 2 a.m., then the mercury rose to 22 deg. at 5 a.m., and remained stationary until noon, when it started a steady march for the bottom of the glass. At midnight it had reached 8 above with indications that it would drop near the zero mark by morning.

TRAINS RUN LATE

Six inches and more of snow was reported by Northern Indiana today, and suburban trains to and from South Bend were from one to two hours behind schedule. Two inches of snow blanketed Champaign and Urbana as nearly 3000 students of the University of Illinois left for a four days' Thanksgiving vacation.

The Chicago Motor Club reported highways blocked by a fourteen-inch snowfall in the vicinity of Niles, Kalamazoo and St. Joseph, Mich. Iowa reported snow and the severest cold of the season.

A bitter west wind brought a sudden drop in eastern temperatures and heavy snows throughout New York and along the Atlantic seaboard.

Freezing temperatures were predicted for tomorrow as far south as Northern Florida with heavy frosts on the Georgia and South Carolina coasts and snow was falling tonight in Kentucky and Tennessee. The Miami Weather Bureau said tonight there is a possibility of killing frost early Thanksgiving Day.

BODIES OF MORE VICTIMS FOUND

DENVER, Nov. 26. (AP)—The severity of last week's blizzard in the West was emphasized again today by the discovery of the bodies of three more storm victims and by the death in a hospital of a man found in a dying condition in a snowbank.

Authorities constructed a story of death from starvation and exposure after finding the bodies of Mrs. Pearl Fenton and her 3-year-old son in a mountain cabin forty miles south of Buffalo, Wyo. Another son, 4, is near death.

The frozen body of Teodora Sanchez was found near a sheep camp in Southern Colorado.

In North Dakota where the storm has lingered, E. D. Lumbard died in a Fargo hospital from exposure suffered when he was marooned in his car last night.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The fact-telling series of articles just completed in the Los Angeles Times, showing that crops in the five counties of Los Angeles, Ventura, Orange, San Bernardino and Riverside have brought the largest cash returns in the history of the community, have been reprinted in the form of single-page newspaper sheets.

Coming at a time when agriculture elsewhere throughout the world is at a low ebb, this achievement by local orchardists, farmers and dairymen demonstrates in a most impressive manner the stability back of Southern California's growth. By reason of diversified industries this favored section can ride through a business depression with its basic and greatest single source of income unimpaired.

Believing that such facts should get the widest possible circulation, The Times will supply these reprints for mailing purposes at a little less than the cost of production, or at the rate of $1 per hundred. Single copies mailed postpaid for 3 cents. Address, Promotion Department, Los Angeles Times.

RUSSIANS STICK HEADS IN NOOSE

Engineers on Trial by Reds Admit Charges

Foreign Intervention Plans Calmly Detailed

Alien Accomplices Named in Frank Confession

MOSCOW, Nov. 26. (AP)—One by one eight prominent Russian engineers are throwing away their chances for life in a counter-revolutionary drama which is the sensation of the Communist world.

While snow is packed on the cold streets of the Red capital, while the radio blares forth the testimony to the far reaches of the soviet domain, while motion-picture cameras grind oud four judges calmly smoke cigarettes, these eight are confessing fully to the charges placed against them in indictments last month—that they conspired with certain French and British interests for the overthrow of the Communist regime.

FULL CONFESSION

As the trial began yesterday Prof. Leonid Ramzin, accused as chief of the plotters, told full details of the scheme which is asserted to involve former President Poincare and Foreign Minister Briand of France, the French and British general staffs, Polish and Rumanian soldiers and others and he asked no mercy, although he has repented.

Just as frank today and equally repentent was Victor Alexis Larichev, second in command. Like Ramzin, he told everything. Prof. Ivan Kalinikev also told his story today, which was substantially as that related by the other two and as told when the indictments were made public last month.

PLOT DETAILED

It was a widespread plot as the defendants described it, aimed to bring intervention of France and England with the neighboring countries of Poland and Jugo-Slavia; to sabotage soviet industries, thereby slowing them down and raising the cost of production, and otherwise to spread discontent among the soviet public so as to make the overthrow of the proletarian dictatorship easy.

The principal blame, however, was laid on French officia' and capitalists and the defendants even named by initials Frenchmen connected with a "certain institution" in Moscow. The French Embassy is the only institution of that country in the Red capital.

UNIONS FAIL IN PROTEST ANENT DOAK

President Hoover to Send in His Name Anyway for Labor Secretary Job

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. (Exclusive)—In spite of the protest filed with President Hoover by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, the President will send the name of William N. Doak to the Senate next Monday to succeed James J. Davis as Secretary of Labor. The sole objection to Doak is that he is the legislative agent in Washington of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and that organization is not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Recently President Green speaking on a national radio hook-up was introduced as one of the leading Democrats of the United States and a check-up of the American Federation of Labor shows that most if not all of the important officers are Democrats. In view of the activity of President Green and the American Federation of Labor in preventing the confirmation of Judge Parker to be a member of the Supreme Court the protest of President Green against Doak is regarded by the President and closest political advisers as an affront that merits a rebuke of the apparent desire of the Federation of Labor to dictate to the Executive of the United States.

Intensive checking has been made of Doak's career and not a single objection to his being appointed to the place has been found.

Rancher Slain by Bandit Gang

EL PASO, Nov. 26. (AP)—Mexican bandits raided the home of Roman Varajas, 60 years of age, near here today and, after slaying Varajas in the presence of his family, plundered the ranch house of $1500.

Authorities investigating the slaying have asked Mexican officials to assist in apprehending the men.

MISSISSIPPI FORMER OFFICIALS CLEARED

JACKSON (Miss.) Nov. 26. (AP)—Grand jury indictments charging Rush H. Knox, former Attorney-General of Mississippi, and Cecil Inman, former chairman of the State Tax Commission, with embezzling public funds while in office, were quashed today by Judge Potter in Hinds County Circuit Court.

Knox and Inman were charged with conspiracy in the collection of inheritance and estate taxes, and Knox also was charged separately with embezzling State funds.

POLICE GUARD CHILD AGAINST KIDNAPING

WICHITA (Kan.) Nov. 26. (AP)—Police today are guarding Betty Ruth, 8-year-old daughter of T. M. Deal, lumberman, while attempts are being made to trace the source of a note which said the child would be kidnaped unless $5000 was paid by the father. Deal is in California on business.

CAPITALIST WEDS DIVORCEE

BALTIMORE, Nov. 26. (AP)—Mrs. Marie Tailer Wing, who obtained a divorce at Reno October 2, and H. Grainger Gaither, New York and Baltimore capitalist and sportsman, were married yesterday, it was announced today.

PLANS LAID TO SET SAIL FOR AMERICA

Mrs. Lawrence Tibbett

SPLIT-UP OF TIBBETT AND WIFE DENIED

London Rumor Branded as False by Singer's Mate Who Tells of Plan to Sail

LONDON, Nov. 26. (Exclusive)—Emphatic denials of pending divorce proceedings, characterizing the rumors as being "preposterously absurd," were made in London tonight by Mrs. Lawrence Tibbett, the former Grace Mackay Smith, wife of the Metropolitan Opera star.

"The best way I know definitely to stop such reports is the fact that I talked with my husband in Boston last night," she declared. "I have been in Europe on a holiday. I will return to Paris tomorrow, and am sailing for the United States December 9 on the Mauretania. I am meeting Mr. Tibbett in New York on December 16. I have no idea where such reports originated. They are utterly unfounded and are untrue."

Mrs. Tibbett also added that her twin sons, Richard and Lawrence, are joining their parents in New York, and that they will spend the winter there.

BIBLE GIFTS TO ITALIANS CRITICISED

Newspaper Often Used in Vatican Announcements Scores "Proselyting"

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 26. (AP)—Osservatore Romano, frequently used by the Vatican for official announcements, criticised today the visit to Italy of two Italian-American clergymen and what is called their "proselytizing activities." It declared the Lateran treaty, by providing for "liberty of cult," incites to "liberty of offense to the religion of the Italian state and people."

"Protestants of this type," the article asserted, "are tolerated because of the new law for non-Catholics in Italy. They feel themselves perfectly free to send their ignoble confutations of Catholic doctrine to the magistrates and teachers. This is what is called, in plain language, laughing at the law and the lawmakers."

The two-column editorial was based on an article in a Protestant periodical by Rev. Stephen Testa. He wrote he had sent several thousand Bibles to Italian school-teachers, and a quantity of religious literature to earthquake sufferers in the Vulture area.

HOPES GROWING FOR BILLINGS

Justices May Recommend Commutation

Refusal of Pardon Also Among Predictions

Decision to Be Announced Early Next Week

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 26. (Exclusive)—Belief began building up here tonight that the seven justices of the State Supreme Court may recommend to Gov. Young that a commutation of sentence be accorded Warren K. Billings, 1916 Preparedness Day parade dynamiter, convicted with Thomas J. Mooney. This possibility was given greatest consideration among the several reports which followed the announcement of Chief Justice Waste yesterday that the Supreme Court recommendation has been reached and will be made public probably Monday or Tuesday of next week.

As usual, Chief Justice Waste and other members of the court refused to discuss the forthcoming decision beyond the barest comment, chiefly to the effect the decision will be known when it is made public. The Chief Justice said, however, that "it is within the power and discretion of the court" to recommend a commutation and many saw in that the indication of such a recommendation.

NO ADMISSIONS

In some quarters, this has been discussed as a highly likely solution to the Billings pardon application. From the standpoint of the State of California, against which the crime was committed, it would accomplish cessation of further penal servitude but would not be an admission either Billings or Mooney was unjustly convicted. Nor would it operate as the equivalent of a parole, placing Billings and Mooney in the position of admitting the crime, which they have steadfastly refused to do. They have refused to apply for parole on that basis during the fourteen years each has served in prison, Billings at Folsom and Mooney at San Quentin.

Others have felt a commutation of sentence might be offered Billings for information he is believed to have withheld and having a vital bearing on Mooney's part in the parade bombing.

PARDON POSSIBLE

In still other quarters, it is predicted the justices will recommend against pardon without qualification. There is some hope among a few that a pardon will be granted unconditionally.

One of the most interesting elements of discussion about the case is whether a recommendation for commutation in the case of Billings would be acted upon by the Governor in favor of Mooney. He has said he considers the cases parallel. The Supreme Court justices will rule only upon Billings. Mooney has a pardon application on file with the Governor.

Legion Chief Tells Hoover of Proposals

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. (AP)—The legislative program of the American Legion was outlined to President Hoover today by Ralph T. O'Neil of Topeka, Kan., National Commander.

He said the Legion favors an increased appropriation for the Department of Labor's veterans' employment service; clarification of portions of the World War Veterans' Act, and to provide hospitalization for veterans, and legislation to do away with discrimination in providing medical or money relief.

President's Wife Aids in Ovation to Paderewski

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. (AP)—Dinner dates waited tonight while a President's wife and a music-loving populace gave ovation to Paderewski.

Appearing in Washington this afternoon for the first time since the World War, the gray-haired pianist and former Premier of Poland bowed and smiled and bowed again to plaudits and was forced to play four encores.

From her box, Mrs. Herbert Hoover clapped white-gloved hands vigorously until Paderewski, her house guest, responded with his first encore.

Mr. Friedheim has been engaged by radio station KFI for a series of ten concerts—one each Thursday evening from 8 to 9. DROUGHT STILL PERILS FARMS

Midwest Prays for Rain Before Freeze

Underground Storage Far Below Normal

Next Year's Crops Facing Serious Shortage

CHICAGO, Nov. 26. (Exclusive)—Insufficient rain and snow during the fall and early winter months to counteract the effects of last summer's drought is causing concern in the great agricultural States of the Middle West.

Farmers looking to the 1931 crops are praying for precipitations which must reach extraordinary proportions as the only means of averting serious shortages in the field products next year.

In many sections of these States farmers, sometimes aided by Legionnaires, members of the National Guard and civic organizations, are hauling water long distances for their live stock and household uses.

The States from which reports have been received are Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, Iowa, Indiana, Illinois and Missouri. Here are excerpts from the survey:

SURVEY REPORTS

Cleveland: Autumn and early winter have failed to bring considerable relief to Ohio farmers struggling under an estimated crop loss of $200,000,000. Ohio National Guard tank wagons are still hauling water for farmers in Belmont county, which, with Licking county, has been hardest hit.

The prolonged drought conditions in Southeastern Ohio and Northern West Virginia gradually have tended to dry up underground water supplies until rural sections dependent upon wells and springs are without water and a serious aspect confronts many people.

Average temperatures for the past thirty days were nine degrees below the same period last year, and fears are entertained the winter freeze will close in with the country without water. Subsoil moistures have been sapped to such an extent it is feared they may not suffice for next year, even though there is enough rai nand snow for the surface treatment. Only prolonged and heavy snows during the remainder of the winter can overcome this condition, it is said. Many fruit and forest trees are believed to have suffered permanently.

IOWA UNSAFE

Des Moines: Drought, which played havoc last summer with Iowa's chances for a bumper crop in 1930, isn't over yet. Both wells and surface streams have failed, causing hardship on those with large numbers of live stock, and crop prospects for the coming year are not as bright as they might be, due to the absence of subsoil moisture.

Iowa has a deficiency of rainfall for the year of more than eleven inches, and there is every prospect the ground will freeze up for the winter without receiving enough moisture to relieve this condition to an appreciable extent. Winter wheat sprouted with the receipt of surface moisture in October, but pastures in many parts of the State are scorched and brown and feed has been short in the pastures and meadows.

The water shortage has been most acute in the western and southwestern parts. While the danger of damage to 1931 crops through lack of moisture is not yet imminent, the fact remains that either there must be rain or snow and a lot of it between now and the next crop season or the ground will be too dry for maximum crop production.

CONDITIONS ALARMING

Quincy, Ill—The dry weather of the summer and fall has affected streams, wells and cisterns to such extent conditions have become alarming. Many country schools in Adams and surrounding counties in Illinois and the Quincy area have no drinking water, and children are required to carry their water from home in jugs, buckets and bottles.

Unless school districts where wells and cisterns have gone dry make arrangements soon, they are likely to be notified that they have forfeited State aid and the schools will have to be closed.

Kansas City, Mo.—Many farmers in Jackson and surrounding counties are hauling water for stock and household uses, due to a severe shortage hangover from last summer. In some communities the farmers have co-operative water service.

H. W. Guengrich, Jackson county farm agent, said tonight the situation is not really serious, the water shortage being due entirely to a deficiency in subsoil moisture caused by the drought. Winter rains and snows are expected to restore subsoil to normal this winter.

Indianapolis, Ind.— Southern Indiana farms will not recover from this summer's record drought for the next twelve months. Although unusual rains last January brought floods to the State, the rainless period from March until September caused a rain deficiency of from eight to fifteen inches for the year in central and southern counties. Farmers in many Southern Indiana communities are still hauling water considerable distances for live stock and also for drinking. Wells never before dry have not revived. Many streams remain dry beds.

Frequent crop reverses have so impoverished parts of once prosperous Southern Indians that many farmers have not had enough money to plant replacement crops. Farmers are very gloomy about next year's prospects. Only extreme rains and snows can make up for the present dearth of moisture in subsoils, they say.

KENTUCKY OUTLOOK

Lexington, Ky.—The accumulated deficiency in rainfall in Central Kentucky since last January 1 has now reached a total of 16 inches, and farmers in this section, many of whom have been hauling water for their live stock and household use for three months, can see no hope of immediate relief.

The city of Lexington faced a serious situation when the lakes upon which it depends became dangerously low. An emergency pipe line to the Kentucky River six miles away is now nearing completion and citizens are breathing easier. They have been living in constant dread of a big fire, which the limited water supply might have made a major disaster.

Farmers in this section were hard hit financially by the drought. Many of them sold their cattle and hogs at a heavy loss rather than attempt to haul water for them. Tobacco, the big money crop, is scarce and of poor quality for the most part. There is practically no corn. Thoroughbred horse breeding establishments owned by eastern millionaires are importing corn from Indiana, but not many of the small farmers can afford this.

While the subsoil moisture deficiency is great at this time, it will not have any effect on next year's crops provided the winter rainfall is normal, according to the University of Kentucky agricultural experiment station.

ROAD COPS MAY BE "BOUNCERS"

Rubber Roadway Placed on Stretch in New Jersey to See if It will Wear

PASSAIC (N. J.) Nov. 26. (AP)—The first rubber-paved roadway in New Jersey is in use by automobiles today.

It is on a small bridge at an approach to the Passaic River. The rubber company which manufactured the roadway asserts it eliminates street noises, and expects if it wears satisfactorily it may be widely adopted for streets and highways.

FROZEN NORTH LURES WOMEN

Nurses Forego Marriages to Work in Yukon

Applications Pour in for Hospital Service

Epidemics Fail to Scare Mercy Workers

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (NANA)—It takes considerably more than a three-year nonmarriage clause to stop the modern woman from signing a business contract.

In response to a broadcast put out by the missionary department of the Protestant Episcopal Church from their New York headquarters, letters and telegrams have arrived from all parts of the country presenting the qualifications of the writers for the job of nurse in the missionary hospital at Fort Yukon, Alaska.

The prospect of three years in the frozen north where influenza epidemics rage and where a handful of white settlers work with the native Esquimos in trapping does not cool the ardor of applicants. The fact that the successful candidate will probably fly from Fairbanks to Fort Yukon across the ice and snow wastes is a spur rather than a deterrent to the ambition of applicants.

"All nurses who go to this post agree not to marry inside of three years," said a young woman in charge of correspondence at headquarters. "The ages of applicants range from very young girls who have just graduated and been registered as nurses to women well along in years and experience.

ADVENTURE LURES

"Perhaps the younger nurses regard the opportunity as an adventure and the more experienced ones as a hard but an interesting chapter in service. At any rate there is no dearth of willingness to undertake the difficult assignment which must, in its very nature, entail hardship and sacrifice."

Reports that there are ten eligible men to every eligible woman in the Yukon country can have very little to do with the waves of applications beating against desks in the gray and grimy building in midtown where the matter of selecting a candidate for the Hudson Stuck Memorial Hospital in Fort Yukon will be carried to a conclusion. Such requirements as the best of health and a strong constitution together with excellent training discourage the candidates who think more of getting than of giving.

MANY SEEK JOB

The report that one nurse in the mission hospital has broken down and been compelled to leave Alaska while the two remaining nurses are seriously overworked does not add to the lure of the Northland as a romantic and marital hunting ground.

"The post may go to an applicant on the West Coast who has every qualification and in addition possesses the advantage of being close to the port of embarkation," says an attendant at headquarters. "She could start almost immediately and the cost of overland travel would be eliminated."

At any rate, no more sacrificially inclined women willing to submit their marital ambitions to the three-year clause need apply, since the list is already length enough to supply a nursing personnel for a metropolitan hospital covering several city blocks.

TATUM JURY DISMISSED

OAKLAND, Nov. 26. (AP)—The jury trying Frederick Tatum, suspended police sergeant, for bribery, was dismissed today after it failed to agree on a verdict. Tatum was accused of taking a $30 bribe to protect bootlegging.

Thanksgiving Proclamation

ON this day when the nation bows and gives thanks to the great governing Power of the universe, we too find it a propitious time to express our sincere thankfulness for the confidence that the public has placed in us and in the principle upon which this business has been built.

Because of this avowal of its confidence, we are today fortunate in occupying in the community, a position that enables us to aid, at a time when the co-operation of each and every one . . . . (both individually and collectively) . . . . is so urgently needed.

When dollars fail to circulate . . business suffers . . . employment suffers . . and general depression results. Now is the time to SPEND MORE FREELY than ever before.

To keep the bright ray of PROSPERITY shining in Los Angeles, it is the desire of this institution to encourage the trading of more dollars through increased buying and increased selling.

It is a laudable and patriotic motive to SPEND in an endeavor to promote prosperity. Generous giving will be doubly appreciated this Christmas-tide.

Therefore, now, with the holidays just around the corner, as our contribution in the above cause, we announce a storewide

CO-OPERATIVE

Christmas Purchase Plan

effective from this date . . . throughout the month of December, whereby every article in our vast stocks of men's wear . . . women's wear . . . accessories and gift importations (none excepted) may be purchased at a

20% Discount

(Selections made now will be held for later delivery if desired.)

Quoting a Prominent Washington Official in the above regard:

"CO-OPERATION on the part of everyone is the only way to overcome the lack of work which today menaces our nation. It is the duty of every man to lend his aid by giving a job, creating a job or continuing a job. The shops throughout the country that are reducing their prices and thus making more sales are of the greatest aid in moving goods that must be moved if the men in the factories are to hold their jobs. Those who make real reductions in their prices, sacrificing profit, are the shock troops of our army against the insidious enemy, unemployment. Those who buy from those shops are the supporters and second line defenders. I would rephrase the slogan we used in the World War—'Buy till it hurts'."

MUMMERS JEER AT BITTER FATE

Hams and ex-Stars Joined in Cast of "Hunger"

Poverty Struts in Spats as Last Nickel Vanishes

Thousands of Actors Bear Up Bravely in Adversity

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (Exclusive)—Jack Frost has opened on Broadway and there is a wintry chill around the twenty-one vacant theaters that used to keep at least a half-dozen dynamos busy illuminating their electric lights. There also is an icy wind whipping the shoe leather-worn pavement in front of the palace where the jobless actor folk long have gathered to tell tall tales of great expectations, and they are moving on to new fields—but not far—only across Longacre Square.

There, in front of an automat restaurant on a wind-guarded segment of sidewalk, poverty struts in spats and toasts its patent leather pumps on steaming grates. The hams, the mummers and the stars of yesterday pass that spot and linger—for misery loves company, and long-endured adversity has softened even the hardiest of the troupers.

IT'S JUST A GAG

They are cheerful even in hunger and one only has to mix with them for a few minutes to get their slant on life.

"Hard luck?" queried one fellow in the brown-checked suit with the turned up coat to hide a decaying collar. "Well, I slipped my last 5-cent piece into the pie slot in there (the automat) and boy, was I hungry! What do you think happened? Two midgets hopped out. They are bunking in there. My racket? Sleight of hand, but I had to eat the rabbits."

That is the way the jobless actor takes his trouble. It is just a gag. There are a lot of them out of work. Various agencies estimate the profession has from 15,000 to 20,000 idle in New York.

GRAVEYARD OF FLOPS

They are floating in from the provinces for there is no road business to speak of anymore. When a New York show folds up it hits the road to Crain's — and Crain's is a theatrical scenery warehouse, the graveyard of the flops. Most of the out-of-work stage folk long ago have lost their warm hotel rooms and a lot of them lost their trunks about the same time. They are living in theatrical roominghouses wherever an actor's word is still good.

It is not that their business is any worse than a lot of others. It is just that there is a scarcity of attractions; too many dark houses. This writer visited several booking offices and a couple of theatrical clubs but no one had any comprehensive information. One has to revert to statistics to get trustworthy facts.

CONTRAST SHOWN

In 1927 Thanksgiving week there were sixty legitimate shows running in the Broadway sector and six on the subway circuit. That same week there were seven openings. For the same period in 1928 there were sixty-one lighted houses and eleven openings. Last Thanksgiving week there were fifty-eight shows running and thirteen openings. The same week this season finds forty shows struggling along with only four openings scheduled and the subway circuit virtually dead.

An indication of the let-up in activity may be found in the fact that 900 members—practically half—of the stage hands' union are idle. There are fifty chorus girls for every job as there are a third fewer large musical shows this year than last and so far as choruses are concerned the night club shows with about three exceptions are on the blink. It is a hard winter and a lot of the former "Follies" and "Scandals" girls are glad to get jobs checking coats and hats.

MANY SHUT DOWN

The by-products of the legitimate theater also have contributed to the sidewalks. Vaudevillians are only a remnant of what they used to be. In all of the United States, it is said, there are only six straight vaudeville houses. Mass production and the radio have stolen the play away from the variety stage. Radio, it is conceded, has absorbed many of the best artists, but it also has left many hard-working hoofers pounding the pavements.

The ballrooms and dance halls that used to keep the out-of-work chorus girls in clothes are putting out their own padlocks until there is not a chance for the "hostesses" and "instructresses." An official count reveals that 112 of these places have shut down in the last four months.

Death Strikes Family Fourth Time Since 1927

WICHITA (Kan.) Nov. 26. (AP)—Death struck for the fourth time in three years in the home of the Charles Reichert family last night when the mother, Mrs. Jenis Reichert, was killed in a motor car accident near Belle Plaine.

The Reicherts' daughter, Catherine, was injured fatally in a motor car accident three years ago. Later, a son, Charles, was found dead, apparently from grief over the death of his brother William, a few months before.

Teddy, the only surviving child, was stricken with infantile paralysis. The father is an invalid.

Dry Yard Blast Traced to Fuse

MODESTO, Nov. 26. (AP)—A piece of fuse, used to fire an explosive, was found today in the ruins of the Santa Clara dry yards, which were wrecked by a mysterious blast last night. The blast caused possibly fatal injury to a man identified as Sam Russo, Oakland. What Russo was doing at the yards at the time of the explosion was not determined.

With his skull fractured, several ribs broken and his face cut and burned, Russo was found in a road back of a shed containing drying trays. He was unable to give coherent answers to questions.

FILM BARRIERS LAID IN AUSTRIA

Trade Pact With Germans Hits American Product

Provisions of St. Germaine Agreement Evaded

[Copyright, 1930, by New York Times]

VIENNA, Nov. 26. (Exclusive)—By a secret agreement with German film producers which evades in spirit if not in letter the provisions of the treaty of St. Germaine, Austrian film interests are making it nearly impossible for United States pictures to do business in this country. The fact that German is the mother tongue of Austrians as well as Germans is a sufficiently great handicap for the American film exporters, but the middle European representative of one of the most important of them has declared this obstacle could be overcome if it were not for secret preference given their German competitors. American film concerns, it is understood, will unite in a protest to Washington about it.

AMERICANS MUST PAY

As a result of a law passed five years ago and since modified by the advent of the talking films, thirty-three contingents or import licenses are granted by the Austrian government for every talking film made here. Even foreign talkies imported must buy three of these contingents. Austrian and German film industries, however, have privately agreed to supply each other free with all contingents needed for export of films to the other country. For the remainder American importers must pay and pay heavily.

In the last five years $250,000 has been expended in this fashion.

ANSWER TO PROTESTS

The original intention of the contingent was to benefit the local film industry, but it has had a contrary effect, the standard of Austrian pictures being lower today than before the contingent system was introduced. To protest by American importers that Austria has no right under the peace treaty to grant Germany a lower tariff than other countries the Austrian government replies that it is not a tariff but a trade agreement, and advises Americans to do the same as the Germans. The United States having no contingent system, however, American producers find this impossible.

Berlin Resents Polish Attack With Protest

BERLIN, Nov. 26. (AP)—Instances of asserted anti-German terrorism in Upper Silesia during the recent elections there are to be brought to the attention of the League of Nations Council, under the German-Polish agreement on Upper Silesia, the government indicated today.

The matter will be submitted to the regular January session of the Council; however, despite demands by one section of the German press a special session of the Council be summoned. The offenses charged were said to have been committed against the German minority in Silesia and one instance reported was the burning in effigy of a German soldier.

ARGENTINE WORKERS FACED BY DISMISSAL

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 26. (AP)—Faced with a tremendous deficit of 150,000,000 pesos (about $130,500,000) in meeting this year's expenses, the Finance Ministry, preparing next year's budget, has arrived at the conclusion it will be necessary to dismiss 10,000 state employees and workmen. In order to avoid unemployment, if their discharge is decided upon, the government is studying a vast plan of road construction over the country, which will provide work for thousands of laborers.

The Woman of today keeps free of colds

When you carry VAPEX in your handbag no cold has the chance to grip you.

Your days are so full of activity that you simply cannot allow a cold to interfere with your routine or blight your pleasure.

So you will find that Vapex—the delightful inhalant—is a reliable companion to have always at hand.

For Vapex checks a cold at the start. Does it simply. And easily. A drop on your handkerchief—a few deep breaths of the fragrance—and you'd scarcely believe you had a cold. The vapor keeps its strength all day. Vapex can also be used on the pillow—a drop at each end.

Be wary when some one offers you a product that is "just as good as Vapex and cheaper." Vapex is the inhalant approved by Good Housekeeping. Millions of bottles are sold yearly. It has never been successfully imitated.

And after all, a single application of Vapex costs only 2c. The $1 bottle contains fifty applications. Ask for V-A-P-E-X always and insist on obtaining it.

GOLD STANDARD NOW ON TRIAL

Economists Study Methods of World Control

Metal's Value Stable But Commodities Fluctuate

Adequate Banking System Declared Necessary

The following is the last of four articles discussing the so-called "hard and soft money" controversy which has arisen again as a result of the present world-wide depression.

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1930, by North American Newspaper Alliance.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (Exclusive) "The United States is on a gold-standard basis. Just what does that mean?" asks R. H.

Gold is the same price in every part of the world. It never varies. If a miner works alone in a small Montana mine this winter and recovers 100 ounces of gold, he can take it next spring to the United States government assay office and receive $20.67 an ounce—$2067 for his winter's work.

GOLD STABLE

Gold is always worth $20.67 an ounce in the United States because $1 is one-twentieth of an ounce of gold. Just as a quart of milk is always worth two pints of milk, because a pint is one-half of a quart. Gold is thus stable merely in terms of itself—not in terms of other things.

"The truth is that the purchasing power of money has always been untable," says Prof. Irving Fisher. "The fundamental reason is that a unit of money, as at present determined, is not as it should be—a unit of purchasing power—but a unit of weight."

So if this unit weight of gold has widely varying purchasing power, and history proves that it has, then money itself based on purchasing power has always been unstable.

PRICES FLUCTUATE

The price level has never been stable. In England, between 1821-25 and 1846-50, wholesale prices fell 25 per cent; between 1846-50 and 1871-75 they rose 20 per cent; between 1871-75 and 1894-98 they fell 40 per cent, and between 1894-98 and 1909-13 they rose by 30 per cent. Other countries record similar conditions.

Gold, as a basis for currency issue, was recklessly diluted during the war and this in turn inflated prices, resulting in the violent deflation of 1920-21 and the secondary deflation of 1929-30.

But does the gold supply look sufficient to maintain an expanding world trade in the future? Prof. Gustav Cassel, in 1921, wrote:

"We have to reckon with the fact that the world's production of gold has become definitely insufficient for the rate of progress which we used to regard as normal before the war."

NEED MORE GOLD

According to the reckoning of the Cassel school, unless new gold mines can be opened to provide an increase of at least 3 per cent annually in the present gold supply the world is faced in the next few years with the prospects of falling prices. This view is shared by several well-known American economists.

But that opinion is not unanimous. Prof. Lehfeldt, British economist, in his volume, "Controlling the Output of Gold," issued in 1926, came to the conclusion that a fall in the value of gold was more probable than a rise. And he has been the chief and consistent exponent of plans for the international control of gold output to stabilize prices.

CONTROL NEEDED

He says: "The output would have to be placed under the control of some authority that could take long views, and act in the interest of the world, instead of that of the shareholders in the mines."

D. H. Robertson, another British economist, probably summarized the position of gold in world trade as well as anyone when he said in his book on "Money:"

Gold is a fetish, but it does the trick . . . If we decide to acquiesce silently for the present in the maintenance of a gold standard of the world and in the adherence to that standard by our own country, may we not at least hope that the monetary authorities of the world will do their best by collective action to prevent the misbehavior of gold?"

STANDARD TO STAY

So long as nine people out of ten in every country think the gold standard is the best, that standard is going to be continued.

The plan of Irving Fisher better to stabilize the purchasing power of the dollar was embodied in the Goldsborough bill of 1922, presented to Congress. Here are the five phases it attempted to cover:

(1.) To abolish gold coins and to convert our present gold certificates into "gold bullion dollar certificates" entitling the holder on any date to dollars of gold bullion of such weight as may be officially declared to constitute a dollar for that date.

(2.) To retain the "free coinage;" i. e., the unrestricted deposit of gold, and to retain also the unrestricted redemption of gold bullion dollar certificates.

"GOODS DOLLAR"

(3.) To designate an ideal composite, or "goods dollar," consisting of a representative assortment of commodities, worth, at the outset, a gold dollar of the present weight, and to establish an "index-number" for recording, at stated times, the market price of this ideal goods-dollar in terms of the gold bullion dollar.

(4.) To adjust the weight of the dollar (i. e., the gold bullion dollar) at stated intervals, each adjustment to be proportioned to the recorded deviation of the index number from par.

(5.) To impose a small "brassage" fee for the deposit of gold bullion and provide that no one change in the bullion dollar's weight should exceed that fee.

CONSIDER PLANS

Now all the plans so far suggested by Fisher, Keynes, Snyder, Hawtrey, Cassel and others to improve the efficiency of the gold standard are receiving plenty of consideration from students of banking policy.

Whether there is anything to the quantity theory remains to be seen. But the gold standard is being tried in the face of adversity.

J. A. Hobson, British economist, whose theory of "oversaving" is well known, strikes a new note when he says:

"The ultimate effect of credit, regarded as a means of stimulating trade and employment, will depend upon its influence upon the distribution of the general income. It will be favorable as it increases the proportion of the general income passing to the wage earners or to the public bodies to be spent in demand for commodities or the financing of nonindustrial services."

SYSTEM ON TRIAL

Yes, the gold standard is on trial. It has, since the war, shown certain definite weaknesses, which now are being studied by the world's economists.

If the gold standard can be so regulated and controlled that it can stabilize money in terms of purchasing power, then it will remain as an indispensable factor in the money and credit systems of society. If not, it will go into limbo.

"Experience has shown," wrote Prof. Gregory, apropos of the return of Great Britain to a gold standard, "that the control of currency is liable to the gravest possible abuses, and that it is undesirable that the discretionary authority of the managers of non-metallic standards should be allowed to continue . . . Within a single decade the value of paper money has fluctuated sufficiently to ruin whole social classes. Nothing of this sort is to be feared from gold. The gold standard, in addition to imparting comparative stability to the price level over time, necessarily involves stability in prices over the whole of the area in which the gold standard prevails."

We may conclude, therefore, by saying that it is not the gold standard that is at fault—it's the way the gold standard is handled that has caused the world trouble. And if the gold standard nations are wise they will see to it that in the future the world's gold pile is handled much more effectively and efficiently. Otherwise the gold standard may be in for a peck of trouble.

TURKEY DINNER BILLED FOR 15 CENTS IN DENVER

DENVER, Nov. 26. (AP)—A turkey dinner for 15 cents on Thanksgiving was advertised today by one of Denver's large restaurants.

"I know what it means to be away from home—and hungry—on Thanksgiving Day," the proprietor's newspaper advertisement read. "That is why I have prepared the best meal you ever ate (no matter what price or where you ate it)—and that is why it is yours for 15 cents."

Turkey, dressing, brown gravy, cranberry sauce, potatoes and other trimmings are included in the menu.

CRISIS PAST IN EUROPE'S FLOOD PERIL

Paris Breathes Easier and Belgium Less Worried, but Dutch Dike Creaks

PARIS, Nov. 26. (AP)—Paris breathed easier tonight than it had in several days, for despite unremitting rains the Seine rose only five inches in the past twenty-four hours and it appears the worst of the destructive flood which began Monday is over.

In Belgium the situation also is eased somewhat, but the authorities stand aghast at the realization reinforcement of the dikes along the River Scheldt to a point where such floods would be impossible in the future would require twenty years of work and cost $100,000,000.

In Holland there was grave concern as the dike at Lobith, where the Rhine enters the Netherlands, creaked under the pressure of the abnormal torrent. Should this barrier crack the resulting flood would be a catastrophe for farms and villages in the valley.

Rivers in England and Ireland are returning rapidly to normal levels.

Speaking on "Germany's Economic Situation as Seen Abroad," he said Americans consider investment in Germany as 100 per cent safe.

CANCER STUDY ON NEW TRAIL

Inherited Susceptibility to Leukemia Found

Tumor Disease Resembles Dread Malady

Carnegie Scientists Employ Mice for Tests

COLD SPRINGS HARBOR (N. Y.) Nov. 26. (AP)—An inherited susceptibility to leukemia, a disease closely resembling and thought to be related to cancer, has been found at the Carnegie Institution here.

Leukemia is caused by outlaw white blood cells, which are formed in enormous members; they circulate in the blood and concentrate in tumors in different organs, especially in the spleen. In man the disease is fatal.

Dr. E. O. MacDowell of the Carnegie Institution and Dr. Maurice N. Richter of Columbia College of Physicians and Surgeons have developed a race of mice all of which are subject to lukemia.

Mice of this particular race usually develop the disease after a certain age. But even before this time of life they develop it if inoculated with tissues of mice having leukemia.

Proof of their peculiar susceptibility is found by Drs. MacDowell and Richter in failure of other mice to get the disease from similar inoculations. Other races of mice seem immune to inoculation that is almost certain death for these inbreds and their hybrids.

Furthermore, among the suspectible mice the disease is becoming more virulent. It has been transplanted in them thirty times from one set of mice to the next and now causes death more quickly than at first.

GIBSON OFFERS SAFETY CLAUSE

Threatened Nations Could Arm, Geneva Told

Plan Permits Suspension of Restrictions

Disarmament Parley Draws Protest From Russia

GENEVA, Nov. 26. (AP)—A "safety clause" permitting a country threatened by attack to lay aside the restrictions of the General Disarmament Treaty was adopted today by the Preparatory Disarmament Commission.

The clause was proposed by Hugh S. Gibson, American representative, who explained while the United States was willing to accept very rigid rules binding the nations to the treaty, it was ready to consider the fears of other nations.

The only opposition to the clause came from Russia, which declared it unacceptable to the soviets, who are convinced the treaty ought to be absolutely binding on the states under all circumstances.

OBJECT OF CLAUSE

It was generally admitted the clause was designed to quiet the fears of some of Russia's neighbors.

The clause provides a state in invoking the "safety clause" shall first notify other parties to the convention and the permanent commission of its intention fully explaining the circumstances. The other parties to the convention shall then counsel together as to the situation thus presented when the reason for suspension has ceased to exist, the state concerned shall reduce its armaments again to the level agreed upon in the convention.

The commission also decided administration of the prospective treaty shall be placed in the hands of a permanent disarmament body, with its seat at Geneva. It will be composed of members appointed by the governments, but not responsible to the governments.

CONFERENCE TO DECIDE

Composition of the permanent body was left for the general conference to decide. A subcommittee presenting the proposal was unable to agree upon the body's composition. The United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan wished to have its membership restricted, while China, Turkey and Finland held out for each party to the convention to a seat in the permanent commission.

CAROL AND BRATIANU IN NEW CLASH

Political Leader Plans to Leave Arena as Result of Latest Controversy

BUCHAREST (Rumania) Nov. 26. (AP)—The implacable bitterness which marked private warfare between Prince Carol and Vintila Bratianu, Rumanian aristocrat and political leader in Carol's younger days, flared forth anew today.

Carol, returned to Rumania as King, is in much better position to care for himself in an encounter with Bratianu, who shared his family's antagonism toward the errant Crown Prince. All Rumania now is wondering just how the situation will work out.

Bratianu opposed Carol's return. Recently when he relented and sought out the King, Carol would not see him. Two weeks ago he attempted again to see the new ruler in order to submit elaborate plans for Rumanian consolidation before Carol made his speech from the throne to the Parliament.

Carol ignored his request, interviewing other politicians. Today he sent word to Bratianu he would see him now, but Bratianu, thoroughly offended, stated in effect he would dispense with the audience.

Bratianu has told his friends he has decided to retire from political life.

BELGIUM TO REPAY LOAN

BRUSSELS, Nov. 26. (AP)—A bill for issuance of a loan to repay the balance on the $30,000,000 loan floated in the United States in 1921 was approved by both houses of the Belgian Parliament today.

HUNGRY PICKERS RING PLUM TREE

Rolph Sees Troubles Ahead in Appointments

Motor Vehicle Chief's Post Eyed by Gleaners

Governor's Staff Found Less Imposing Than Mayor's

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 26. (Exclusive)—In addition to discovering he will not be allowed as large an office staff as Governor at Sacramento as he has had in San Francisco as Mayor, Gov.-elect Rolph today learned he has prospective battles on his hands for the positions of Chief of the Motor Vehicle Division, Chief of the State Highway Patrol and some other major posts.

A tussle is on for the position held by Frank G. Snook, Chief of the Division of Motor Vehicles. A group close to Mayor Rolph wants him to retain Snook in office, while some of the preprimary supporters of the Governor-elect advocate his removal. Snook's appointment is said to have come through the influence of Senator Johnson.

ANGELENO MENTIONED

Al G. Faulkner of Los Angeles has been mentioned for the place. Gene Farmer, San Francisco automobile man, wants the position and former Supervisor Todd is declared to be rounding up the signatures of Supervisors in various counties, asking his selection.

A long list of applicants is on file for the $7500-a-year job held by Eugene Biscailuz as Chief of the California Highway Patrol. It is indicated Snook, Biscailuz and a number of others, including the heads of the branch offices of the Motor Vehicle Division in the State, will be replaced. Capt. Cannon of the Los Angeles county traffic squad is one of the southerners out for Biscailuz's position.

Friends of James I. Herse are urging that he be named Director of the State Department of Professional and Vocational Standards, and the Governor-elect has stated he will find a place for Herse in his administration.

Supervisor Toner is laying down a barrage of recommendations requesting that he be appointed Director of Institutions. Earl E. Jensen, Institutions Director, has sent in his resignation to Gov. Young.

AGRICULTURAL POST

The customary controversy which arises every four years over the directorship of agriculture, which George H. Hecke has held through successive administrations is on. It is now about fifty-fifty as to whether Hecke continues in office or is replaced.

W. A. Smith, at present executive secretary to Rolph, has been picked for the private secretary's berth at Sacramento and the Governor-elect will look over prospects in the south for an executive secretary. Smith served as secretary to the late Judge M. T. Dooling and for a time to Judge Benjamin K. Night before joining the mayoralty staff. Between times he has ranched in the San Joaquin Valley.

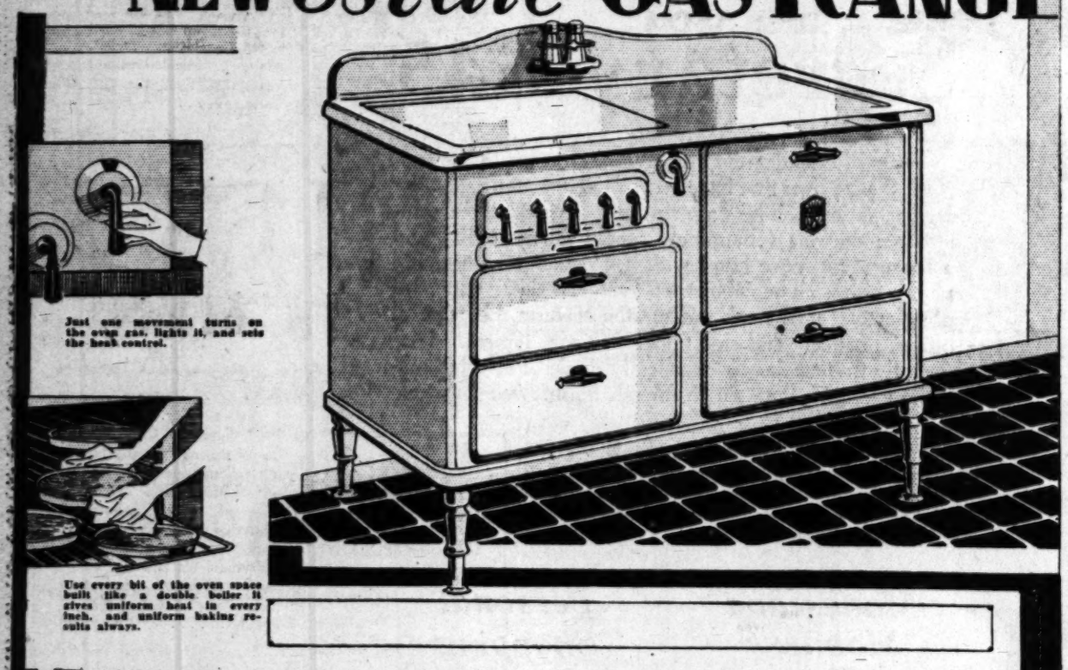
It's Always Thanksgiving With The NEW Estate GAS RANGE



Just one movement turns on the oven gas, lights it, and sets the heat control.

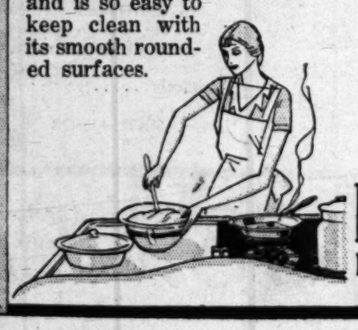
Use every bit of the oven space built like a double boiler it gives uniform heat in every inch, and uniform baking results always.

Give Your Home This Christmas Gift

Give your wife a gas range,—cupboard—and kitchen table . . . all in one!

Save her steps—this new range takes the walking out of cooking—gives her a table top to work on and drawers for her cooking tools. Save her strength and temper—this new range takes the heat out of the kitchen and keeps the cook cool. She'll like the broiler pan too, adjustable to various heights and slides in and out like a drawer. And most wonderful of all the large extra deep oven bakes and roasts with fresh air—that is why your roasts retain their own luscious flavors . . . insulated evenly like a double-boiler—that is why the pies and cakes and biscuits always turn out perfectly.

Give her the joy of this modern efficiency to work with. You know a little luxury goes a long way towards happiness. Keep her a gracious hostess instead of a harried cook. It comes in beautiful green or ivory, and is so easy to keep clean with its smooth rounded surfaces.



Use that old range to help pay for this one—and open an account with us—you'll profit by this investment.

GOV. LONG HELD IN OWN 'PRISON'

Louisiana's Stormy Petrel Does Not Leave State

Lieutenant-Governor Would Rule Political Machine

Senator-Elect Says He Won't Take His Seat on Time

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 26. (NANA) Acknowledged by friend and foe as the most powerful political figure in the Commonwealth's recent history, Huey P. Long, Louisiana's colorful Governor and United States Senator-elect, is a complete prisoner of circumstance within the boundaries of his own state.

The ambitious citizen of Louisiana has more freedom than the popular boy, as he prefers to be known, and his chief executive himself, with his boasting of ability to do as he pleases "by grace of the people" of his State, admits that he fears to go beyond Louisiana's borders.

There is one reason why Gov. Long is afraid to leave the commonwealth. He is Dr. Paul N. Cyr, acting Lieutenant-Governor.

BREAK RECALLED

When Huey campaigned for Governor in 1928 his running mate was "Doc" Cyr; and after their election the pair remained political friends for several months. This friendship, however, was dissolved early in 1929 and for more than eighteen months Huey and his erstwhile running mate have been aligned with bitter enemies.

Dr. Cyr told the State Senate, last fall, that Huey had cost the state millions of dollars by forcing certain leases to oil companies, and a few days later the lower House of Representatives voted the chief executive for several high crimes and misdemeanors.

Following conviction by the Senate, in which the backers of Louisiana charged that the Lieutenant-Governor had "knifed" him after getting into office on my coat-tail," impeachment proceedings were abruptly ended when fifteen Senators, more than one-third of the body's membership, signed a "round robin" asserting that they would not vote to convict the Governor regardless of the evidence or "testimony." Votes of two-thirds of the Senate membership would have been necessary for conviction.

FEUD CONTINUES

Impeachment charges were dropped, but the Long-Cyr feud continued, with Huey stumping the state to tell his "hill billies" and "city suckers" that "Doc" Cyr was a heel and that he darned not leave the commonwealth lest the Lieutenant-Governor take advantage of his opportunity to lead a political revolution.

"I'm right about that," Lieut.-Gov. Cyr replied to the chief executive's taunt. "If Huey leaves the state for one hour I'll turn his political machine upside down. I'll fire every man Huey has hired, and I've many some good men for the job."

When Huey went by plane to his home in Shreveport recently to announce as a candidate for the United States Senate his pilot suggested a short flight from Baton Rouge, the state capital, might be shortened by cutting over a corner of Mississippi.

"Oh, no," Huey warned him. "If I go over Louisiana soil if we have to fly 50 miles out of the way. Cyr might hear that I was over the State if I flew over Mississippi, and if he got to be Governor for a minute he'd play the devil."

TRIP PREVENTED

Long recently expressed regret he could not accept an invitation to attend sessions of the Mississippi Valley Association in St. Louis.

"Nobody was Lieutenant-Governor but Doc Cyr, I could make the trip," he complained.

Speaking of the Governor's commission, the "Doc" offered to accompany Huey to St. Louis and to ask Alvin O. King, President Pro Tempore of the State Senate, to act as Governor during their absence.

"I'll get him to hunk together, with handcuffs, and we won't get out of each other's sight for a second," Huey replied to the suggestion, announcing that he was taking the matter under advisement. Several days later, however, he announced that it would be impractical for him to be kept under if the Lieutenant-Governor went along.

WON'T TAKE SEAT

When the next Congress will convene several months before Senatorial term expires, it appears that he will not take his seat in the Senate until his term as chief executive is fully qualified.

"I resigned as Governor to go to the Senate," he explains, "so I could become Governor; one of my campaign promises was that he wouldn't be Governor long. I don't care if the people need my vote to get to the Senate. I can't leave office, however, I'm hoping my American friends will permit me the privilege of a pair."

Louisiana politicians charge that Huey will leave Louisiana, even if he goes elsewhere, until he has first attempted to elect himself as Governor.

Rumors have been current in political circles for several weeks that a truce for peace have been made between Gov. Cyr by members of both parties.

WILL PRISONER

"Huey wants to get out of Louisiana as soon as possible," observers point out, "but he can't go until he has made his peace with Doc Cyr. If negotiations have been successful and the Doc hasn't tumbled." Political friendship is restored between the pair, there is no doubt that Huey will leave Louisiana to go to Washington or elsewhere. He hasn't left the state since he broke with the Lieutenant-Governor, and there is a belief that his fear of possible happenings in the event he should do not a prison

Whispers in the Wings

BY MURIEL BABCOCK

THINGS will start at the Biltmore Theater right after the first of the year.

F. J. Menneley, manager for the Erlanger interests in Los Angeles, said yesterday that he had two shows booked in the months of January and February.

The first of these will be "Street Scene," the Pulitzer prize play of a season ago. It is due January 19.

The second—and this is a surprise—is "Flying High," the George White musical, which has been doing big business in New York ever since last March. De Sylva, Brown and Henderson, familiar names hereabout, did the songs, and De Sylva, Lew Brown and Jack McGowan the book, it may be recalled.

In the New York production, now on view at the Apollo at Forty-second street west of Broadway, Bert Lahr and Oscar Shaw share headline honors. Whether this gay pair will come west or not is not disclosed. Probably not.

County Theater Group

Little theaters in Los Angeles county have organized their own drama association. Representatives of some ten dramatic groups within the county met at the Hollywood Studio Club the other evening to organize themselves into one unit with the official name of the Los Angeles Country Drama Association.

They plan, by working together, to do a number of things for the general good, stimulating the whole little theater movement. They will maintain a central booking agency for county drama activities, provide a service bureau on nonroyalty plays, exchange ideas on productions, plays, scenery, theaters and finances through a monthly news letter and bimonthly meetings.

The Pasadena Community Playhouse, the Touchstone Drama Shop, U.S.C., the German Art Theater, Inglewood Community Players, Hollywood Playcrafters, Civic Repertory Theater, Van Nuys Community Players, Pasadena Drama League, Westwood Hills Players and Mustard Seed Club formed the original nucleus. Since the organization meetings, the Culver City Players, the Beverly Hills Community Players, the Claremont Community Players and the Huntington Park Players have expressed a desire to join.

Executive officers include Virgil Dahl, Clinton C. Clark, Elizabeth Clauss, Harold Turney, Gordon L. McDonough, Betty Farrington and Chalmer D. Day.

Grace Moore Misses Premiere

Although "Jenny Lind," her first talking picture, is being premiered today at the Criterion Theater, Grace Moore, Metropolitan Opera Company singer, is missing it. Miss Moore is on a train on her way to New York where she has a concert season opening December 3.

She worked until 7:30 o'clock last night to complete the French version of the picture and then was rushed to Pasadena, where she boarded an eastern train leaving at 8:45. Miss Moore came to Hollywood six or seven months ago with no intention of staying as long as she has. Instead of appearing in two pictures, she has worked in three and as a consequence now has to make up for some lost time.

"Rigoletto" First

"Rigoletto" is to form the opening bill of the Civic Grand Opera Association of Hollywood at the Wilshire-Ebell Theater on Wednesday night, January 14, it was decided yesterday.

And a double bill, "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci," will follow on the 28th.

And this announcement, in case you don't realize it, gets quite a weighty matter off the minds of Edwin Bower Hesser and Allan Cahill, codirectors of the organization, which plans to present grand opera on a permanent basis here. They have been in a quandary for days and days about just what to present.

In fact, they are asking for suggestions on the operas to follow. Shall they be Italian or shall a series of French operas be given? Those interested are asked to send memorandums of choice to the Wilshire-Ebell Theater within the next few days.

More of R.-K.-O. Later

The latest rumor, or report, or what you will, on the resumption of Metropolitan Productions' stage activities (R.-K.-O. studio) is that nothing more will be done now until after the holidays. Some time in January studio attaches expect to pull themselves together and get another play ready. They say they haven't any theater yet. Meantime, William Le Baron, R.-K.-O. executive, who sponsors the project, is ill at home.

Along the Eastern Front

The New York correspondent sends the following:

Eddie Cantor, who recently reconsidered an earlier decision to retire from the stage, will have the leading role in "Mr. Cinders," an English musical comedy which will be produced here by Max Gordon and the Erlanger offices. Cantor will be seen in vaudeville until rehearsals start for the show.

"As Good As New," Thompson Buchanan's play, will not end its New York engagement at the Times Square Theater Saturday night but will move to the Cort.

German Star to Appear at Late Matinee

Marlene Dietrich, German star of "Morocco," will personally appear at the midnight show of the Chinese Theater Saturday night.

Miss Dietrich has been the object of more national publicity than any other star of stage or screen, it is said, since her arival from Germany a few months ago.

The Chinese will present the complete current program at the midnight show, including the Fanchon and Marco atmospheric prologue, "Melodic Moorish Panorama."

Famous Tale of Youth Picturized

Jackie Coogan

Plays the name role in Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer," which the Paramount studio has transferred to the screen. The film starts today at the Paramount Theater.

'DOORWAY TO HELL' BOOKED

"The Doorway to Hell," starring Lew Ayres who has but recently skyrocketed to film note, starts tomorrow at both Warner's Downtown and Hollywood theaters.

Ayres's first screen appearance was made as a youngster bewildered by the scenes of strife and warfare—a boy not sure of himself yet unafraid. "In 'The Doorway to Hell,' he depicts the baby-faced killer who rules a group of gangsters with an iron hand.

The basic theme of the story is taken from asserted actual happenings of organized gangs in cities throughout the country and chronicled in daily newspapers.

As Louis Ricarno, young Ayres is said to give an outstanding performance. Others in the cast are James Cogney, Dorothy Mathews, Robert Elliott and Leon Janney. Archie Mayo is credited with the direction.

Warner's Hollywood Theater will open at 1 p.m., while the Downtown will open at 10:45 a.m. tomorrow.

'JENNY LIND' INTRODUCES OPERA STAR

Grace Moore Plays Name Role in Picturization of Swedish Nightingale

A new star of the screen will be introduced at the Criterion Theater today when Grace Moore, noted Metropolitan Opera soprano, appears in her first picture, "Jenny Lind." Miss Moore plays the name role in the picturization of the life of the Swedish Nightingale.

Reginald Denny has the role of her composer-lover, and Wallace Beery portrays P. T. Barnum, who was responsible for the singer's appearanec in America.

"Jenny Lind" is Miss Moore's first appearance before the camera and microphone. The role enables her to display her unusual singing talents to fine advantage.

Short subjects on the program include a Tom Terriss Vagabond Travelogue and a Mickey Mouse Cartoon.

Neal to Lead Easy Life as Stage Invalid

For the next two weeks Lloyd Neal will lead an easy life, professionally speaking. He has just been cast by Henry Duffy as the wheelchair invalid in "The Bad Man," starring Leo Carrillo, and starting Sunday matinee at the Hollywood Playhouse.

In this role Neal will not have to stand on his feet in a single scene, merely manipulating his wheel chair in the action on the stage.

Gay Seabrook, who plays the ingenue role of Angela Hardy in the comedy of Mexico, has several humorous scenes with Lloyd Neal, which are said to be highlights in the production.

Charlotte Treadway plays the role of Lucia Pell, while Gale Gordon is Gilbert Jones, a young engineer.

Holiday Show Opens Today at Million Dollar

The new vaudeville program commencing today at the Million Dollar Theater is reported to be filled with true holiday selections.

The following featured acts are on the new bill: Mack and Long in rhythmic novelties; Sedal Bennett, "Miles o' Smiles Girl;" Mayo and Caruso, presenting "Daisy the Wonder Horse;" Luccian Lucca, songster; and the Long Pine Minstrels, with Lou Dorn, an aggregation of cowboy entertainers.

On the screen Nancy Carroll stars in "Laughter," Fredric March plays the chief supporting role.

Film Notables to See 'Ghosts'

Indication that many notables of the Hollywood film colony still look upon Mrs. Patrick Campbell as an outstanding actress of spoken drama is given by the reservations at the Vine-street for the opening performance of "Ghosts," to be given Monday night.

Mrs. Campbell is supported by Tom Douglas in the leading male role. Douglas plays the role of the son.

Others in the cast include James O'Ryan, Clarence Geldert and Wauna Lidwell. "Ghosts" will be presented for one week only at the Vine-street.

DUAL ROLE ENACTED BY LOWE TODAY

"Scotland Yard" Due at Loew's; Joan Bennett Has Chief Feminine Role

Edmund Lowe portrays a dual role in "Scotland Yard," a strange romance based on a case of mistaken identity. The Fox picture opens at Loew's State Theater today.

Joan Bennett has the feminine lead, with Barbara Leonard, Donald Crisp, David Torrence and Lumsden Hare prominent in supporting roles. William K. Howard directed.

The film, which was taken from the stage play of the same name, deals with the adventures of a notorious criminal, whose war wounds necessitate a plastic operation, and who returns to impersonate a missing banker.

On the stage Gene Morgan begins his second and final week as master of ceremonies, presiding over the new Fanchon and Marco idea, "The Lance," which Leroy Prinz has staged. Fay Adler and Ted Bradford are featured.

Walter Huston Plays General in New Picture

Walter Huston will be seen in the leading role of "The Virtuous Sin," which starts today at Pantages Hollywood Theater. Huston has enjoyed a wide variety of roles since entering the motion-picture field from the stage.

In "Gentlemen of the Press," he was a newspaper editor, in "The Lady Lies," a financier; in "The Virginian," a typical western villain; In "Abraham Lincoln," the immortal emancipator; in "The Bad Man," a Mexican gang leader with a sense of humor, and in "The Criminal Code," district attorney and prison warden.

On the stage, "Society Circus," is the new Fanchon and Marco offering.

CLUB GIVES ATTRACTIVE MUSICALE

Soloists Win Honors on Interesting Program at Philharmonic

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

The Ellis Club varied its program of well-chosen men's chorales with the music of excellent women musicians last night. Georgia Stark, the California coloratura, sang like a lark, and Tania Akounine demonstrated her musical advance with violin soli, which were warmly appreciated. Mrs. Blanche Hennion Robinson and Miss Dorothy Robinson added their part to the pleasure of the audience by able piano accompaniments. Maud Haskins played an enjoyable harp obbligato.

Mr. J. B. Poulin, the long beloved director of the Ellis Club, stamps these concerts with his own aristocratic musical individuality and the club's singing grows in unity. The program was broadcasted and pleasing to many tastes.

An arrangement of Chopin's Funeral March with a solo by Georgia Stark was especially effective, and four songs for chorus, which are so popular as to be correctly called folksong, were highlights on the program. They were "Kalinka" from the Russian, "Venetian Love Song," by Saar; "Marching to Meet One Buonaparty" of English extraction, and "Danny Deever," by Damrosch.

Mrs. Robinson's song, "Baffled," was rhythmically attractive and well fitted to the text of a poem by Helen Combes. Mrs. Robinson has again contributed to the repertoire of chorus singers a worth-while number which audiences will like.

Miss Stark has been given a very beautiful voice and she is succeeding very well in singing up to it. "When I Was Seventeen," "Papillon" and Arditi's "Il Bacio" were all admirable. The last, of course, gave her a richer opportunity and was best liked. She overcame the difficulties with disarming ease and quite won all hearts. A tendency to hurry the arbitrary waltz time could easily be attributed to slight nervousness. The encore, "If No One Ever Marries Me," was done quite well enough to please, but it is not the right song for Miss Stark.

Miss Akounine, a diminutive and capable violinist, played a Russian group exceedingly well. She has magnetism and holds her audience. A regrettable and unnecessary swaying detracts from her playing and until she develops a larger tone Miss Akounine should not use a mute in an auditorium as big as the Philharmonic.

The next Ellis Club concert is scheduled for February 25.

TWO COSTAR IN COMEDY AT R.-K.-O.

Harry Langdon and Slim Summerville to Provide Humor for Patrons

Forming a new comedy team, Harry Langdon and Slim Summerville costar in "See America Thirst," a travesty on bootleggers, starting today at the R.-K.-O. Theater.

The story deals with misadventures of Slim and Harry, "knights of the rail," who unceremoniously are ousted from a moving freight train. They swing onto a truck which, unbeknown to them, is operated by Spumoni's gang, and is laden with liquor. Then the fun starts.

Among the supporting cast are Bessie Love, Mathew Betz, Stanley Fields, Mitchell Lewis and Tom Kennedy. Universal produced "See America Thirst." William Craft directed.

The new vaudeville unit at the R.-K.-O. includes Joe Marks, the Vercellie sisters, Rome and Dunn and Archie and Gertie Falls.

Majestic Will Present Jack Russell Troupe

Jack Russell and his company of forty persons will appear on the stage of the Majestic Theater starting today in "Hello Everybody." This will mark a new policy inaugurated by the Majestic, wherein stage bills will be presented as a regular feature of the programs.

A first-run feature picture, "The Last Dance," will also start at the Majestic today. Vera Reynolds and Jason Robards are featured in the production, which deals with the life of a "taxi" dancer and a man about town.

At an inquest conducted by Coroner Nance at the O'Donnell mortuary, 8814 Sunset Boulevard, Kirk Rushing, 29, employee of The Times advertising department, was found to have been the victim of a hit-and-run driver who was intoxicated at the time he struck Rushing.

At a second inquest conducted by Deputy Coroner Monfort at the Coroner's office in the Hall of Justice, William Verlin Sutton, 22, 1407 West Twentieth street, was declared to have died as the result of injuries received when he was struck by a driver who failed to stop and render aid.

SORORICIDE JESTS WITH PROSECUTOR

Ruth Weimer, Despite Situation, Has Friendly Word for State's Attorney

Additional testimony of relatives and friends yesterday was introduced by the defense at the trial of Mrs. Ruth Weimer in Superior Judge Fricke's court, where she is charged with the killing of her sister, Mrs. Mabel Steele, September 14, last.

When the trial is resumed tomorrow the defense is expected to call Mrs. Weimer to the witness stand to tell her version of the shooting of her sister. It is charged that Mrs. Weimer shot her sister, who was living with her at 418 East Thirty-seventh street, because Mrs. Steele had been lamenting constantly over the absence of her two children who were being cared for by her husband.

Questions asked of witnesses and prospective jurors by George Stahlman, Deputy District Attorney prosecuting the case, indicate that the State will ask the death penalty. Despite this indication, however, Mrs. Weimer shows no animosity to the prosecutor. Last night as she left the courtroom she paused at Dep. Dist.-Atty. Stahlman's side and wished him a "Happy Thanksgiving" and requested that he "eat a large portion of turkey for her."

Shell Oil Opens Outdoor Circus Next Saturday

The annual Christmas outdoor circus sponsored by the Shell Oil Company, featuring an electrically operated Toyland, will open at 7 p.m. Saturday at Wilshire Boulevard and Catalina street.

Five railway tank cars of helium gas have been imported by the Shell Company for inflating toy balloons, to be given to the children during the exhibition, which is to be open until after Christmas.

For several weeks scores of artisans have been at work erecting the big Hollywood-designed Christmasland set. A giant-sized animated Santa Claus will be the center of attraction, and he will talk to children and grown-ups by means of a loud-speaker.

This year the theme of the Christmas pageant will be nursery rhymes, with such notable characters as "Peter, Peter Pumpkin Eater" performing high jinks for the crowd.

There will be a mammoth letter box, where children can deposit their letters to Santa Claus.

PARAMOUNT STARS NEW COMICS

Barthelmess Due Home December 2—to Play Reporter; Wyler Will Direct Wexley Story for Universal; Lois Moran Makes Broadway Stage Debut

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

Paramount appears to be throwing the balance of its production activities into the making of comedies.

The newest one to be announced by B. P. Schulberg is "Mendel, Inc.," from a stage play of that name.

Joe Smith and Charlie Dale, of vaudeville and musical comedy fame, will be costarred in the feature, which will probably be made at the Long Island studios, although there is a possibility that the stars may be brought west for the comedy.

DICK BARTHELMESS TO PLAY REPORTER

After his several months' vacation, Richard Barthelmess is returning to Hollywood and First National studios on December 2 to resume his film work.

RICHARD BARTHELMESS

In his first picture he will play the role of a "hard-boiled" newspaper reporter, and all the time he has been in New York, according to reports, he has been hob-nobbing around with the newspaper men, getting "color" for his role.

During his vacation Barthelmess also spent several months in the Canadian Rockies, where he has a camp. His wife and children accompanied him on all his travels.

WILLIAM WYLER WITH UNIVERSAL

William Wyler, who directed "Hell's Heroes," "The Storm" and other films that have placed him in the foreground of directorial ranks, returns from Europe this morning on the California Limited.

The director is slated to resume work at Universal, to which he is under contract. His next effort will be a John Wexley original play based on the steel industry, which Carl Laemmle, Jr., will personally supervise.

According to telegraphic word from New York to his brother, Robert Wyler, supervisor, William has arranged to bring to this country a young Swiss actress, whose name is not announced, but who is said to speak not only her native tongue but perfect English, having been educated in England.

Wyler was abroad three months, most of this time being spent seeing the new plays and pictures in London, Paris, Berlin and Vienna, and in the U.F.A. studios in Berlin, where, he says, pretentious sound productions are being made.

Lois Moran on Stage

That ambitious young lady, Lois Moran, now on a vacation under her Fox contract, is not idling away her time. Miss Moran, according to word received yesterday at the Fox studios, will open in New York tomorrow night at the Plymouth Theater in a new play called "This is New York," which Arthur Hopkins is producing.

LOIS MORAN

The young actress went east with her mother and niece a month ago, with a view to visiting Europe, but when she reached New York she was so fascinated by the stage, and received such encouragement, that she remained and was engaged by Hopkins. Her mother and niece have gone on to Europe.

Corinne Griffith May Sign

There is a strong probability that Corinne Griffith, formerly a First National star, will sign a long-term contract with Universal, we learned yesterday.

It is known that negotiations to that end are now under way in New York, where Miss Griffith and her husband, Walter Morosco, are vacationing.

Miss Griffith starred in some of First National's outstanding successes.

Myrna Loy Assigned

Myrna Loy, we discovered yesterday, is to be one of the women in Fox's "Women of All Nations," which Raoul Walsh will direct as his next production. Miss Loy will probably portray an oriental lady. The actress is under long-term contract to Fox.

MYRNA LOY

Incidentally, Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe, the stars, will be seen in this picture all dolled up in dress - parade clothes, in contrast to their usual rather casual soldier garments.

Charles Ruggles's New Role

It looks as though Paramount will leave no stone unturned to get the finest cast obtainable for "Up Pops the Devil."

Charles Ruggles is the latest member of the cast to be chosen. He will have the featured comedy lead. Ruggles made his first big hit in "Young Man of Manhattan," and has been busy ever since.

Nancy Carroll and Fredric March are being costarred in the production.

Tom Moore With Columbia

When Jack Holt begins work in "The Last Parade" he will be teamed and cofeatured with Tom Moore, we found yesterday.

Columbia is producing the picture. Earl Kenton is directing and Constance Cummings will play the leading feminine role.

Holt portrays an entirely different sort of role from anything he has yet done. He will put his professional horse out to pasture, and will play the role of a wise-cracking newspaper reporter.

Harry Green On Stage

Now that the Jolson picture, in which Harry Green was to have played a part, seems to be postponed by United Artists, Green doesn't feel like wasting his time.

So he has thriftily accepted the leading role on the stage in "The Shyster," by the Speedacks, which opens in San Francisco in about a week. The play is being produced at the Curran.

Following that engagement, it is likely that Green will appear in a film-talking version of the play, probably to be produced by Paramount, to whom Green was for some time under contract.

Marjorie Rambeau in It

Of course, it was a foregone conclusion that once Marjorie Rambeau fairly got started in talking pictures, she wouldn't have an idle moment.

MARJORIE RAMBEAU

Now she has been assigned by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to a feature role in "The Easiest Way," starring Constance Bennett. Jack Conway has been chosen to direct. The role Miss Rambeau will play will be of the sort that our old-fashioned writers used to allude to as "a lady of easy virtue."

LOCAL CHAMBER MEN WILL GO TO PORTLAND

Subjects of outstanding importance to be presented at the coming western divisional meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce are said to have interested a number of business leaders in this city into making plans to attend the sessions at Portland, Or., December 8 and 9. Paul Shoup, president of the Southern Pacific Railway and vice-president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, is in charge of the meeting and is arranging a program that will follow the general theme of "What's Ahead for Business?" Information relative to reservations for the meeting can be procured from the office of Charles P. Bayer, field secretary of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, who will attend the sessions at Portland.

PETTING-PARTY BANDIT GUILTY

Fred Taylor Convicted by San Bernardino Jury

He and Three Others Robbed Six on Mt. Rubidoux

Former Local Girl in Group Corroborates Testimony

RIVERSIDE, Nov. 26.—With the conviction here today of Fred Taylor, former candy-shop worker of San Bernardino, on a charge of first-degree robbery, the sensational Mt. Rubidoux "petting party" hold-up of August 5, 1927, became a closed incident in court history, excepting for the sentencing of Taylor next Friday morning. He faces a San Quentin term unless granted probation.

Taylor was the last of four men to plead guilty or be convicted of robbery charges in the courts as an outgrowth of their hold-up of six young people on the mountain top by a quartet of young bandits. One of them, Clarence "Sonny" Rowe, San Bernardino ex-convict, is serving a term in Folsom prison. Two boys, who were led into the crime unsuspectingly, served long terms at the county prison camp after pleading guilty. They turned State's evidence and virtually convicted the two older members of the gang.

The two accomplices' testimony was vital to the State's case against Taylor, but a former San Bernardino girl, who, since then, has been married, furnished corroborative testimony that doubtless convinced the jury so thoroughly of Taylor's guilt that they returned the verdict twelve minutes after leaving the courtroom. She is Mrs. Harold Snyder, formerly Mickey Flannery, pharmacist.

How a chance remark of Taylor's during the three hours he and his accomplices held the young victims captive on the mountain, and his cigarette-smoking habit, gave her a clew as to his identity, featured Mrs. Snyder's testimony.

"When he came up to the car with the others," she said, "this man remarked that he had seen one of us girls before, pointing to me.

"After the first fright of the hold-up was over, I took time to notice him and then it flashed into my mind that I had seen him in San Bernardino. I associated him with a drug-store fountain or a candy shop, but couldn't quite remember where I had seen him."

"Tahquitz Play" to Be Repeated

PALM SPRINGS, Nov. 26.—Following receipt of many requests from individuals who were unable to attend earlier performances, the 1930 Desert Play, "Tahquitz," will be repeated here this Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

The colorful outdoor play was scheduled to have its concluding performances last week-end, but high winds on Saturday afternoon caused postponement of the performance scheduled for that day, disappointing many persons who were unable to remain over Sunday.

Warren S. Pinney, chairman of the pageant committee, states that the spectacular outdoor play will be presented by the same cast as in the earlier performances this coming week-end, each presentation starting at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. With ideal weather conditions throughout the State anticipated, a throng of visitors is expected for the additional performances.

PHONE IMPROVEMENTS ARE MADE IN VALLEY

VAN NUYS, Nov. 26.—C. C. Campbell, manager of the telephone company, today announced that about 90 per cent of the work of installing six miles of cable in the south section of the Van Nuys district, involving an expenditure of more than $39,000, has been completed. The greater part of the cable contains from 404 to 1212 wires.

PRINCIPAL OF SCHOOL HAS SCARLET FEVER

WESTMINSTER, Nov. 26.—H. Johansen, principal of the Hoover Grammar School here, is confined to his home with scarlet fever. Mrs. James Ranney, substitute teacher in this district, is filling the principal's place during his absence. There have been several cases in this district, the last one being that of a Mexican adult. It was believed that there would be no spread of the disease because there were no children in the family.

PLANS FOR UNIVERSITY PLAY TOLD

Redlands Seniors to Give "Merton of the Movies;" Grant Fairbanks Has Lead

REDLANDS, Nov. 26.—Grant Fairbanks, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Fairbanks of this city, is to have the featured lead in the University of Redlands senior play, "Merton of the Movies," to be presented on Tuesday evening, December 2, at the Redlands High School Auditorium.

GRANT FAIRBANKS

Having played important dramatic parts during his four years at the university where he has studied under Prof. E. R. Nichols, Fairbanks has continued the dramatic interest evidenced in productions at the Redlands High School. He has served as yell leader at both schools and taken part in class activities.

Miss Martha Logan of Long Beach will play the feminine lead and other students taking part are: Bennie Wightman, Angus Hull, Inez Case, Muriel Duncan, Chandler Stanley, Ivan Cummings, Bill Steven, Jimmie Jones, J. Scott Everton, Ray Anger, Martha Shamblin, Pauline Thompson, Persis Hamilton, Matt Sturdevant, May Umberger, Hilton Bell, Arthur Harrell, Al Stacy, John King.

Franklin Arthur is acting as business manager and stage sets are being designed by the class in play production under the supervision of Gerald Hasty. The play revolves around the efforts of a country boy to break into the movies, and the subsequent success of his family and friends, while he never "gets a break."

Butcher Victim of Ammonia Gas in Store

ALHAMBRA, Nov. 26. — Fumes from a broken ammonia pipe in the Ralphs grocery store at Fifth and Main streets this afternoon drove scores of employees and customers into the street and sent A. E. Everett, 50-year-old butcher, to the Emergency Hospital.

The ammonia fumes filled the store when a pipe in the rear of the building was broken by a supply truck which had backed up to the receiving room.

Everett was overcome when he attempted to return to a meat compartment to rescue fellow-employees he believed were in the ice box. Hospital attendants said he would recover.

Firemen, protected by gas masks, entered the store and turned off the valve controlling the ammonia supply.

Man Badly Hurt in Traffic Crash

POMONA, Nov. 26. — Pinned underneath his overturned coupe when it crashed with a truck driven by Robert H. Williams, 2147 North E street, La Verne, at the intersection of Caswell street and Kingsley avenue this afternoon, J. F. Gibson, 906 North Palomares street, was perhaps fatally injured. Examination at the Pomona Community Hospital disclosed a fractured skull and serious internal injuries.

According to Williams, the Gibson car struck the left fender of the truck a glancing blow and overturned when the driver attempted to swerve to one side. Williams was not held by police who investigated the accident.

MARK ROSE AND POUND IN BREAK

Rumor of Disagreement Confirmed by Events

F. W. Greer Opposes Latter for Imperial Board

Row Over Sharing of Water Rights With Coachella

EL CENTRO, Nov. 26.—Rumors of an open break between Directors Mark Rose and Earl C. Pound of the Imperial Irrigation District, and a split in the ranks of the political faction which, under the leadership of the two men, has dominated valley politics for the past eight years, have been confirmed by events of the past three weeks.

Evidence of a disagreement between Pound and Rose first was disclosed early this month when the terms of the proposed contract with the Federal government for the construction of the all-American canal were discussed by the board.

Rose, supported by Directors Ira Aten and W. O. Blair, asked for the passage of a resolution under which Coachella Valley and 500,000 acres of desert land outside of the Imperial district, would be granted a share in Imperial Valley's established water rights. Pound and Director C. W. Brockman insisted that these outside lands should be accorded only a secondary right. In the final vote the Rose plan was given the approval of a majority of the board.

CONTROVERSY FLARES AGAIN

The controversy flared up in a new spot on Monday when F. W. Greer, publicity agen tfor the district and political supporter of Pound for many years, announced that he would be a candidate for district director as an opponent of Pound at the election next February. Rumors that Greer had aligned himself with the Rose group in an effort to defeat Pound were further confirmed yesterday at the weekly board meeting, when Pound asked that Greer be ousted from the pay roll. Rose defended the publicity agent and succeeded in blocking action on the proposal.

"Greer is employed by the board, not by its president," Rose said, "and if his resignation is desired it must come by request of the board."

In announcing his candidacy Greer stated that Pound had "turned down the all-American canal" and no longer held the confidence of the water users in his district.

POUND IN STATEMENT

Pound recently issued a statement in which he declared that Imperial Valley should preserve its present water rights at all costs. He also expressed opposition to the proposal that the improved area in Imperial Valley should assume the entire financial responsibility for the all-American canal. He declared that his position is approved by the most substantial element among the land owners in all parts of the valley.

Pound is a member of the California-Colorado River Commission, under appointment from Gov. Young. The contract which is under dispute between the two directors is to be submitted to residents of the valley for final approval before it becomes effective.

City and County to Co-operate in Revaluation

POMONA, Nov. 26.—The tax rolls of Pomona city and Los Angeles county will undergo a thorough revision to obtain an equalization of valuations for the fiscal year, 1931-1932, as the result of a conference today between City Councilmen and County Assessor Ed W. Hopkins.

Robert S. Gregg, City Assessor, agreed to the revaluation in order to more nearly balance the assessments of the two governments, which because of wide variance in scores of cases, have been the cause of much complaint by taxpayers.

The county assessment for Pomona the past fiscal year was $3,000,000 below the valuation placed by local assessors, accordingly tax bills showed a great difference.

Possibility that the city-assessed valuation would be lower than the $18,000,000 valuation placed by the city last year, seemed assured, inasmuch as County Assessor Hopkins stated that it was not his intention to arbitrarily increase the assessed valuation.

Decision was made to put two field deputies from the county office and two from the Pomona office into the local field beginning December 8, next, at which time it expected that tax rolls will be compared and a common basis for revaluation reached.

VALLEY CHAMBERS TO MEET AT AZUSA

AZUSA, Nov. 26.—The San Gabriel Valley Associated Chambers of Commerce will be entertained by the Azusa Chamber of Commerce at the Rainbow Angling Club here, it was announced this week. The meeting is scheduled for December 2, and Walter E. Keefe of Monrovia, president of the associated chambers, will preside over the business session which will follow a trout dinner. It is understood that the visiting chamber members will be given a opportunity to angle for the trout for their dinner.

RAIN REPORTED AT SOUTH BEACH CITIES

REDONDO BEACH, Nov. 26.—A fine drizzle of rain began here about 5 p.m. and is continuing, the rain gauge at this time showing a reading of .01 of an inch. Similar precipitation is reported from all the towns in this vicinity along the south beaches, and a short distance inland. With heavy overhanging clouds indications are that the rain will continue for some time.

TOY PEKINGESE ENTRIES MADE

Van Nuys Woman Ready for Dog Show

Little Joy Crew and Aristocratic Puppies

Introducing Joy Crew with twin parti-colored Pekingese puppies owned by Mrs. John Stokes of Van Nuys, which she will defer naming until after they appear at the Los Angeles National Winter Dog Show this coming Saturday at the Ambassador Auditorium.

VAN NUYS, Nov. 26.—With the largest number of Pekingese toy dogs entered by any single exhibitor in the Los Angeles National Winter Dog Show, to open Saturday at the Ambassador Auditorium in Los Angeles, Mrs. John Stokes of this city today revealed that present styles of the little watch-charm canines were dictated by the late Empress Dowager of China.

It was only a few years ago that the present Pekingese was known outside the royal palace of China, where it had been bred for centuries and accorded the same distinctions as royalty. Two pairs of Pekes, smuggled out of China during the Boxer uprising, were the ancestors of all the present-day specimens of the breed, according to Mrs. Stokes.

In laying down the standards for the Pekingese, the Dowager Empress dictated that it should have the body and mane of a lion, square ears like the sails of a war junk, a nose like a monkey, a black face and water-chestnut eyes. These characteristics are still the aim of fanciers, she states.

With more than fifty dogs Mrs. Stokes is said to have the largest collections of Pekingese in Southern California. At her kennels, the dogs have their own beauty parlor, and puppies are quartered in a nursery all their own. Champion Niki Nu, who has won at many dog shows, heads her group of entries in the Los Angeles canine event. She will have parti-colored puppies on exhibition at the show, which have scored a hit with little Joy Crew.

PROMINENT WOMAN ILL

SAN FERNANDO, Nov. 26.—Mrs. J. C. Maclay, wife of Mayor Maclay and prominent socially as a leader in club and civic circles in Southern California, is seriously ill at her home here.

Half Crop of Citrus Returns Larger Profit

RIVERSIDE, Nov. 26.—From a crop only slightly more than 50 per cent as large as the preceding year, Riverside county citrus growers received $11,852,534.72 for the 1929-30 crop, the season for which closed on the 1st inst., according to a tabulation of citrus returns compiled today by Deputy County Agricultural Commissioner Alex Hansen. In spite of the short crop, the returns were in excess of $1,500,000 more than for the heavy crop of the 1928-29 season, when the total was $10,125,154.

More than half of the gigantic total for the year was for navel oranges. Navel oranges produced in the county were valued at $6,557,569.16. Shipments in the navel division were 1,410,037 boxes, or slightly more than 3052 carloads.

Next, both in point of quantity and return to the growers, were Valencias, of which 400,799 boxes, or approximately 868 carloads, were grown. The f.o.b. return amounted to $2,276,168.34.

Although figured on a carload basis, lemons surpassed Valencia oranges, the actual shipments were less, because lemons are figured at 348 boxes to the car, while oranges and grapefruit are figured at 462 boxes to the car.

NEW CHAMBER FORMED

FERNANGELES, Nov. 26.—A Chamber of Commerce has been organized here with Chester Gilmore as president. The new organization will co-operate with the Fernangeles Woman's Club in promoting civic affairs.

CITY ATTORNEY HITS AIDE

Harold Huls, Pasadena Official, and Fred G. Stoehr, His Deputy, in One-Blow Argument

PASADENA, Nov. 26.—Infuriated by his subordinate's remarks, City Attorney Harold Huls, president of the University of Chicago Alumni Association, leaped over his desk in the City Hall and struck Deputy City Attorney Fred G. Stoehr a heavy blow above the right ear. The fight, which occurred at noon yesterday, was revealed today when Huls asked the Board of City Directors to discharge Stoehr for insubordination. The board probably will take action in the case on Tuesday.

The principals in the fight agreed in their accounts of the one-blow battle that it followed Stoehr's angry remarks when City Attorney Huls insisted that the deputy handle a case which Stoehr felt would pile more work upon him than he could do.

"He called me 'contemptible' and said I had 'sneaked' the papers in the Lake-avenue case out of his office," Huls declared. "I had assigned the Lake-avenue case to him and he refused to take it, telling me he had no time. I called him back and he indulged in personalities which I couldn't endure. I am sorry I struck him, but he has refused to co-operate."

Stoehr, in his version, asserts that when Huls struck him he did not return the blow, but seized hold of his superior and held him until his anger cooled.

"I had told Huls that I have four cases to prepare before December 9 and that I would be unable to accept another case without being forced to do my work inefficiently.

"Mr. Huls shook his fist in my face and it was then that I called him contemptible and told him what I thought of the way he was running the office. I think we both regret we lost our tempers and hope we may reconcile our differences like gentlemen," Stoehr added.

He called attention to the fact that he relinquished his vacation to help Huls make a success of his office, and declared that in recent months he has worked every day in the week, including Sunday.

Prof. Robert L. Daugherty, chairman of the Board of City Directors, expressed surprise when informed of the affair and declared that both Huls and Stoehr have made very favorable impressions by their able work.

Fred G. Stoehr

Huls is the youngest City Attorney Pasadena has had. He is 34 years of age. Before his appointment it was rumored that Stoehr, the oldest man in point of service in the City Attorney's office, would get the post.

NONSUIT IN WILL CONTEST

Granting of Motion Comes With Dramatic Suddenness in Battle Over Tom Mullis's Last Testament

VENTURA, Nov. 26.—A nonsuit was granted yesterday in the Tom Mullis will-contest case by Judge Edward Henderson in Superior Court, after two hours of arguments by counsel on both sides. The granting of the motion came with dramatic suddenness after five days of testimony introduced by Attorneys Leo Youngworth of Los Angeles and Don R. Holt of Ventura, counsel for Mrs. Bessie Dawe of Sioux City, Iowa, who sought to prevent the will of her brother from being probated.

Judge Henderson ruled separately on the three counts pleaded in the cause of action. He said that the contestants had failed entirely to establish any cause of action; that they failed to examine the witnesses to the will of Mullis as to the execution of the will; that at no time in the suit did they show that Tom Mullis was of unsound mind at the time he made the will; and that the contestants failed utterly to show any undue influence on the part of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bogan, defendants in the action.

Mrs. Dawe set forth in her action that the will was not duly executed; that her brother was of unsound mind when he made it, and that the Bogans had used their power over him to their advantage.

The suit grew out of the death of Tom Mullis here last April. He left an estate of $60,000, half of which he willed to Mrs. Dawe and the other half to the Bogans. The will was dated September 11, 1924, six years before his death.

SCENIC HIGHWAY WILL BE BUILT

Forest Service Plans Road Along Gridley Trail

Work on Six-Mile Link Will Start First of Year

To Begin at Topa Topa and Extend to Matilija

VENTURA, Nov. 26.—A great new scenic highway, six miles long, reaching from Topa Topa to the Matilija, along the old Gridley route trail, is to be started by the United States Forestry Service on January 1, according to County Engineer Charles Petit, who yesterday made a trip over the route on horseback, accompanied by S. A. Nash-Boulden, Forest Supervisor from Santa Barbara.

The route is to be opened as a fire-prevention measures, to safeguard the Ojai Valley from possibilities of such a fire as that which in 1917 devastated the valley. It will act as a major firebreak between Ojai and the rugged stretches that lie behind it, many of them heavily covered with brush and timber.

The highway, according to Petit, is to be 100 feet wide and passable for automobiles and trucks. From the summit of the grade, an elevation of 4500 feet, the great panorama of Ventura county stretches before the eye, and out to sea for miles, to the islands of San Clemente and San Nicholas, farthest seaward of the Channel Island group.

The road is to follow the Ridge, so that the entire view will be opened up to motorists. The Forest Service plans to open the road with tractors and road blades. Work will start January 1 and be completed some time during the summer.

The work is to be done entirely at Forest Service expense.

Hat Factory Job Promised Negro Still Uncertain

ONTARIO, Nov. 26.—It will be December 30 before Prentiss Robinson, Negro cook, finds out to his satisfaction what happened to the job he had been promised of having the exclusive agency for selling Southern California-made hats to the natives of Liberia, Africa.

Some time ago Robinson had W. H. Jordan, Oakland Negro, arrested on charge of petty theft, growing out of Jordan's promise to give him the exclusive selling rights in Liberia to all the hats manufactured by Jordan in a factory he proposed to establish in the Southland.

Robinson asserts that he invested in the company that was to be an exclusive Negro enterprise solely for the manufacture of hats. He went to Oakland and spent three days looking for the factory but couldn't find it. So he looked for Jordan and found him, and learned the hat factory had been moved to Los Angeles, but Robinson couldn't find it there either. So his job didn't materialize, and he became suspicious.

When the case was called in local court this week and Jordan was to present the papers of incorporation of the hat factory, the docket was so full the case was postponed until December 30.

Riverside Has Yuletide Fete

RIVERSIDE, Nov. 26.—Christmas chimes and gaily lighted and colored Christmas bells drew a great crowd to the business district last night for the Yuletide Fete arranged by merchants of the city. The throng was the greatest ever seen in this city, veteran police officers declared.

Seventy Boy Scouts were stationed at as many ornamental street lights, each electroller topped with a bell. Precisely at the hour of 7 the boys rang the seventy bells, creating a bizarre riot of sound not unlike the Carillons heard in ancient European cities. When the clanging had subsided the March Field military band played a Christmas carol, and thousands of red and green lights, strung across the length of Main street, flashed on.

The elaborate decorative display, the most ambitious ever attempted here, is to remain until New Year's.

SMALL CHILD HIDES RINGS; "THEFT" SOLVED

WEST LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26.—Mystery surrounding the reported disappearance of jewelry valued at $400 from the home of Mrs. Arthur Taylor, 17975 Porto Marino avenue, at first believed to have been taken by burglars, was solved yesterday. Detective Lieutenant Duval of the West Los Angeles division, scouting the familiar "pass-key" and other theories, made a systematic search of the house and found a small child of the family had hidden the two diamond rings and a wrist watch under a pillow. No arrest was made in the case.

RESEDA SCOUTS WILL BE IN ROSE PARADE

RESEDA, Nov. 26.—The local Boy Scout Drum and Bugle Corps, sponsored by the Reseda Legion Post, will take part in the Rose Parade at Pasadena on New Year's Day. The corps will wear its new spick-and-span uniforms.

NEW WING OF LIBRARY DEDICATED

Addition Built at Cost of $35,000 to A. K. Smiley Structure at Redlands

REDLANDS, Nov. 26.—The beautiful new steel stack wing of the A. K. Smiley Library, built at a cost of $35,000, and the gift largely of E. M. Lyon, a member of the board of trustees, was dedicated this afternoon.

E. M. LYON

Kirke H. Field, the president of the board, told of the founding of the library by Alfred H. Smiley and Albert K. Smiley, two patron saints of Redlands. He then spoke of the fine work done by Lyon since, who has given two magnificent wings and helped to make the library one of the finest in the West.

Lyon spoke briefly. He said that the work of the library interested him, that he has watched with the keenest delight its increased use by university students and high school students, as well as children, and he expressed the belief that it is as important in their education as the schools.

N. Leo Lelean spoke for the city as Mayor and thanked Lyon for his gift. Prof. H. C. Merrill represented the University of Redlands and H. G. Clement spoke as superintendent of the city schools.

Miss Mabel Inness, the librarian, explained the system of the new stack wing. With its steel stacks and concrete floors and walls it is practically fireproof. More than 65,000 volumes can be kept in the stack room.

Many Padlocks Picked by Lad

UPLAND, Nov. 26.—Residents of this community who thought the padlocks they had placed on their garages, storerooms and other buildings, were ample protection against invaders, learned their mistake when an 11-year-old boy got busy with a skeleton key and another "lock pick" of his own invention.

The boy, said to be a resident of Ontario, is charged with having prowled through Upland alleys and in a short time opening thirteen padlocks, and kept them.

Two other boys accompanied the lock expert on their bicycles. They were to share in the profits, if any, they had been told, according to the story they related to authorities.

One of the devices assertedly used by the lock picker was purchased from another small boy for nine sticks of chewing gum. The boy evidently cared only for the padlocks, as he took one from the Guy Clark meat market, and placed a stick of wood in the hasp so all the chickens in the place couldn't get out.

Many of the locks picked by the boy were the best manufactured, it was reported.

"MARATHON WIDOWER" GIVEN ANNULMENT

ONTARIO, Nov. 26.—Phil Smith, local boxer, and Mrs. Louise Smith became engaged during a marathon dance, and they became married during the same long-distance dance. Smith got tired of dancing eventually, and called it quits, but his wife is still going strong, and he says he never sees her or hears from her. He told this to Superior Judge F. A. Leonard, in Superior Court in pleading for an annulment. Smith declared he soon tired of being a marathon widower. Smith told the court they were married June 12 in Los Angeles, during the height of a marathon dance. She kept right on dancing, and is still at it. The reason Mrs. Smith didn't appear in court to contest the annulment action was easy—she was still dancing in another marathon contest. The judge granted the annulment.

EXETER OIL TO CUT DIVIDENDS

Expansion Policy Planned With Cash Saved

Future Payments to Be Half Usual Distribution

Earnings More Than Double Last Year's Rate

Directors of the Exeter Oil Company, believing that the present period is opportune for the acquisition of additional properties, voted yesterday to cut the usual dividends in half to conserve cash for expansion purposes, C. J. Von Bibra, president, announced.

The company has paid dividends at the annual rate of 12 cents a share on the $1 par Class A stock for more than three years. The next dividend, which will be on the basis of 1 1-2 cents a share quarterly, is due to be paid December 20 to stockholders of record the 30th inst. The company was organized in 1926.

In a letter being mailed to stockholders, Mr. Von Bibra points out that the net profits for the first ten months this year amounted to $251,-083.22 after all charges and reserves, equivalent to 33 cents a share on the 750,000 shares of Class A stock outstanding.

This compares with net profits of $99,700 reported for the same period last year, or 20 cents a share on 500,000 shares of Class A then outstanding, and represents an increase of $151,383.

Net profits for the month of October alone were approximately equivalent to the quarter's dividend requirements at the old rate of 3 cents a share, according to the stockholders' letter, which lists the October net earnings at $20,265.61.

"We have been continuing our policy of purchasing settled producing wells in preference to drilling," Mr. Von Bibra stated. "New wells have recently been acquired in the Torrance and Signal Hill fields. Several of these wells have excellent possibilities of being deepened to reach more highly productive zones. The company's leases at West Belridge look particularly attractive now and may in the near future add very substantially to the total value of the Exeter Oil Company.

"There are many excellent oil properties now available at bargain-counter prices because of the upset condition of the industry as a whole. The company has been weathering the storm most satisfactorily and expects to remain in a position to take advantage of the best opportunities presenting themselves from time to time."

For this reason, Mr. Von Bibra said, directors desire to conserve cash and added that there was no doubt in the minds of the board that it will be to the best interests of stockholders and will bring them substantial financial rewards.

Food Company Lowers Rate

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (AP)—Directors of Standard Brands, Inc., created by a merger under Morgan sponsorship of food companies in August last year, today reduced the annual dividend rate on the common stock to $1.20, from $1.50. The board declared a quarterly dividend of 30 cents.

Although the previous 37½-cent dividend on the common had not been earned in recent quarters, the rate had been maintained in expectation of better earnings. A statement by the company said the reduction to 30 cents quarterly, in the opinion of the directors, placed the dividend rate "on a most conservative basis and well within the estimated earnings for the last quarter of this year."

Cool Weather Helps Trade

While cooler weather stimulated trade last week and retailers reported sales fairly good, business continues quiet, according to the Bradstreet summary on conditions in Los Angeles, issued yesterday. Large retail stores state that total sales for the year will almost equal last year if Christmas business is anywhere near past years, the summary stated.

Although unemployment has increased considerably in the past two months conditions here are much better than reports from the balance of the country would indicate. The oil industry is steadily improving and while production exceeds demand the trade in general is optimistic as the retail price is remaining at a fairly profitable figure, according to the summary.

RAILWAY COMMITTEE COMPLETES PLAN

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—One of the committees formed to propose a reorganization of the Seaboard Air Line Railway has completed a plan which contemplates the raising of $18,000,000 by assessing some of the security holders, which would be expended in improving the Seaboard's property over a period of years. This plan represents views of only one group and additional plans are expected to be proposed by other committees.

DIVIDEND PASSED

CLEVELAND, Nov. 26.—Harischfeger Corporation passed today the quarterly dividend of 45 cents a share due on the common stock at this time. The regularly quarterly preferred dividend of $1.75 a share payable January 1, was declared.

TRADE MAP METHODS GIVEN

Nation's Business Magazine Explains How Monthly Picture of Business is Drawn

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Methods used in the construction of the business map issued monthly by Nation's Business, the official magazine of the United States Chamber of Commerce, ought to be of interest to Southern Californians. Until this year of the international depression, Southern California almost continuously has appeared as a white spot on this highly regarded map of national business.

Even during the last few months the Imperial Valley, part of the Southern California trade territory, has been designated as a white spot by Nation's Business. The white area on the monthly maps also has extended over into Arizona, which looks to Los Angeles as its best market.

LARGE STAFF AIDS

As explained by Frank Greene in the current issue of Nation's Business, the monthly map is prepared with the aid of 165 observers located in a like number of cities throughout the country. At the close of each month these observers return questionnaires showing the status of wholesale and jobbing trade, retail trade, industry (including building,) collections and crop conditions. These data apply to the city's natural trade territory.

Each observer is asked to determine whether conditions existing during the month are better than, equal to, or below the conditions prevalent in the same month a year ago.

Virtually the same list of men reports on failure and liability returns, bank clearings, building-permit values and occasionally quotations of commodity prices as used in Bradstreet's price indexes.

When the returns are received in New York the material is assembled by tSates and a weighting given the condition reports on wholesale trade, retail trade, crops, etc. The average of the weightings goes to make up the values for the city and adjoining territory, or very much like local index numbers.

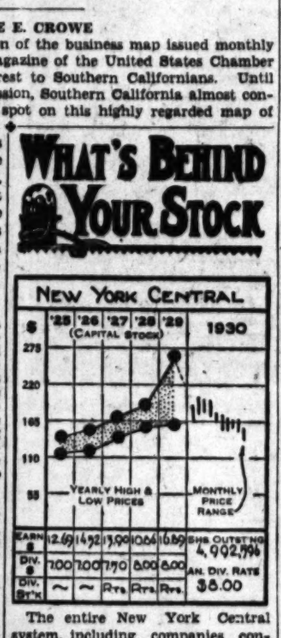
When these local data are compiled a blank map is shaded to depict the area reported on by the local observers. The general knowledge of the compiler of the map is added to the judgment of the men in the field to complete the monthly picture of business conditions.

"It should be borne in mind," explains Mr. Greene, "that the marking thus set forth, while mainly for the city where the observer is stationed, also considers areas distant therefrom but in the city's trade sphere. This, of course, tends to give a general shading to an entire area but that is inseparable from the fact that minute differences in marking of areas are not possible, even if desirable.

"Errors sometimes creep into the chart, but these are what I have termed them and are by no means the results of deliberate prejudice."



The entire New York Central system, including companies controlled and leased lines, consists of more than 11,000 miles of road, radiating from New York to Buffalo and Chicago, to Boston, to the Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence regions, and to the industrial areas of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and Illinois. Detroit is another center from which important lines are operated, including those tapping Canadian territory.

Reflecting the lower volume of business, net operating income for the first eight months of 1930 amounted to $41,021,941, against $71,427,711 in the corresponding period of 1929. Full year 1929 net income was $78,277,300, or $16.89 a share, compared with $50,334,500, or $10.86 pe. share in 1928. Per share earnings for the 1930 half year at $4.63 compared with $7.77 in the 1929 six months.

Report Reveals Oil Companies' Position Strong

Present market stability of Standard Oil Company of California and Union Oil Company of California, major California oil companies, is due in large measure to the large reinvestments from earnings during the past ten years made by these conservatively managed institutions, yesterday said John E. Jardine, president of William R. Staats Company, in commenting on local market activities.

"Our statistical department has prepared a report," said Mr. Jardine, "which shows that Standard Oil Company of California and its predecessor properties have deducted for depreciation, depletion and amortization 29 per cent, or $173,-000,000 of the approximate $611,000,-000 earned during the ten-year period. This is equivalent to $13.43 per share on the 12,845,980 shares outstanding December 31, last.

"As a further example of this conservative policy, it is shown that Union Oil Company has deducted 50 per cent, or $111,000,000, for depreciation, depletion and new drilling expenditures from the $222,000,-000 earned. This is equivalent to $26.35 per share on the 4,216,000 shares outstanding at the end of last year.

STEAMSHIP LINES IN QUARTER LOSS

Net income for the first nine months this year totaled $972,324, equal after preferred dividends to $2.29 a share on 199,512 common shares, against $2,460,723, or $9.75 a share a year ago.

WHOLESALE DRUG CHIEF OPTIMISTIC

Turn for Better Noted by McKesson-Western Company President

With many industries and businesses apparently having finished scraping bottom, indications point to a slow but steady upturn, Ludwig Schiff, president of the McKesson-Western Wholesale Drug Company, Ltd., said yesterday.

"While in New York recently, I found that business sentiment was becoming more cheerful and the opinion seemed to prevail among business leaders that the worst of the depression was behind us," said Mr. Schiff. "A slow but sure recovery is anticipated.

"New York is more affected by the stock market than we are out here, so that naturally, any improvement in the market will be reflected in conditions there."

A fair-sized Christmas business is expected by Mr. Schiff, who said that with the purchasing public inclined to make their dollars go as far as possible the number of articles bought probably would exceed expectations.

In combating the effects of the depression, Mr. Schiff said his company had increased its sales efforts in addition to achieving operating economies from which it will continue to benefit when business is again on the upgrade.

Four Concerns Declare Extra Cash Dividends

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Extra cash dividends were declared by four companies today. American Bank Note Company declared an extra of $1 on the common in addtion to the regular quarterly of 50 cents, Daniel E. Woodhull, president, stating that earnings so far this year had been such as to justify the payment of the extra disbursement, which has been paid on the common in the past four years.

George W. Holme Company declared an extra of $2 on the common in addition to the regular quarterly of $1.25, making the full year's declaration $7 a share on the common, the same amount as has been paid since 1925.

Holland Furnace Company authorized an extra of 25 cents on the common and the regular quarterly of 62½ cents, and McKeesport Tin Plate Company voted the usual extra of 50 cents on the common and the regular quarterly of $1.

Iron and Steel Trade Outlook More Hopeful

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Some further expansion in demand from railroads and the automobile industry and a piling up of construction projects particularly public undertakings have heightened hopes of the iron and steel trade and have added force to the current efforts to stabilize prices, according to the Iron Age.

Steel production is increasingly irregular with the average for the country down to 41 per cent, as against 43 per cent a week ago and additional weakness has cropped out in the scrap market but the industry is reconciled to another month of low activity and is more confident in the predictions of an upturn in the new year.

It is realized that the present pressure to keep down inventories although precluding an immediate expansion of business will be followed by more liberal specifications for stock in January. It is appreciated also that many construction and industrial programs now being launched cannot mature until next year but there is general agreement that improvement is definitely in prospect.

TIME FOR MATCH DEPOSIT EXTENDED

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Diamond Match Company has extended to December 8 the time for deposit of stock under the reincorporation and recapitalization plan. The company stated that although two-thirds of the stock had been deposited, the committee has determined that unless 97 per cent of the stock is deposited by December 8 it will officially abandon the plan and return the deposited stock to shareholders.

LOCOMOTIVE CONCERN REDUCES DIVIDEND

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—American Locomotive Company today declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common stock, placing the issue on a $2 annual basis, as against $4 previously. The dividend is payable December 31 to stock of record December 12.

FREIGHT RATES CUT

MILAN, Nov. 26.—The Italian government decided today to reduce freight rates to a level prevailing before the war. New rates will be effective January 1, next.

MARKETS CLOSED

Business throughout the United States will suspend today in observance of the Thanksgiving holiday. Banks, stock markets, commodity markets and virtually all business houses will join in the holiday observance. Usual activities will be resumed tomorrow.

Offerings of Copper at Low Prices Small

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Little copper is changing hands and the demand is slight owing to the long periods ahead that fabricators and ultimate consumers are covered. The one real development appears to be that second hands are not so anxious to resell copper as they were.

Custom smelters continue to offer a small tonnage of copper at 10½ cents delivered in order to protect themselves upon intake price but the total tonnage of copper available at any price appreciably under 12 cents delivered is small.

Electrolytic for domestic shipment is nominally 10½ to 12 cents a pound delivered to the end of March with little copper available at the lower price, but with insufficient metal changing hands to indicate any real price at the present time. Copper Exporters, Inc., continues to quote 12.30 cents, c.i.f. Hamburg, Havre and London.

GENERAL TIRE SHUTS DOWN FOR INVENTORY

AKRON, Nov. 26.—General Tire and Rubber Company will suspend operations of its plants for the Thursday holiday and will not reopen until the following Monday. The company's fiscal year ends the 30th inst., and the shut-down will be for the taking of inventory. All of the rubber company's plants here will close for Thursday and the majority will resume only partial operations during the balance of the week.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (AP)—Trading in cotton was comparatively quiet again today, with prices working lower under preholiday liquidation and some further southern selling.

A few additional December notices appeared to be readily taken and considerable buying developed around the 11¼-cent level for May contracts, but the mid-afternoon market was quiet and within a point or two of the lowest, with active months showing net declines of 8 to 9 points.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (Exclusive)—The cottonseed oil market was a typical preholiday affair today, with little or nothing of interest on either side. In the absence of stimulating developments in other markets on the whole the tone was barely steady, partly due to reports that tallow had sold at 4¾c, down ¼c. Old December closed nominally unchanged and new contracts were unchanged to 9 points lower.

STANDARD OIL GROUP GAINS

Dividend Payments of Various Units in 1930 $17,020,801 Higher Than for 1929

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance]

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—There have been more bear reports issued this year regarding the oil industry than any other. On all sides and at all times the cry of overproduction has been heard, and producers have persistently proclaimed that the industry was going to rack and ruin.

Yesterday, the dividend payments of the Standard Oil companies for 1930 were announced. Bad? Not at all. Look at the figures—a new high record both for the year and for the fourth quarter.

Think of $286,666,726 dividends in one year—an increase of $17,-020,801 over the total paid by the Standard Oil companies in 1929.

Take the fourth quarter of this year! Dividends will aggregate $83,047,844, compared with $75,063,-856 for the fourth quarter of 1929. And $68,306,015 for the third quarter of 1929.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey—the largest of the companies—will pay out dividends exceeding $50,000,000 for 1930. This is the largest amount paid by any Standard Oil company in any year in its history.

Leading Standard Oil units, which have declared a special extra dividend in the final quarter, are Imperial Oil, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Vacuum Oil Company, Standard Oil Company of Kentucky, and the Prairie Pipe Line Company.

There are businesses and businesses, but no business has rolled dollars into fortunate pockets faster than successful oil companies.

Four large copper producers in the United States—Calumet and Hecla, Calumet and Arizona, Nichols Copper Company and Anaconda—have announced further curtailment of copper production. This means more men will be added to the list of the unemployed.

A review of the American copper situation during 1930 is interesting. During the first ten months of this year, the United States consumed an average of 17,560,000 pounds of copper each month more than it produced, while the imports of cheap foreign copper, during the same period, exceeded exports at the rate of 20,750,000 pounds a month.

If the copper-mining industry of the United States is to be sacrificed to foreign copper interests, which produce and land copper in the United States at half the cost of domestic copper, the American people should receive the benefit in the form of really cheap copper.

Copper at 12 cents a pound is not cheap, when the cost to produce and deliver to American consumers is only 5 cents a pound. One hundred and forty per cent profit is entirely too much for the foreign copper producer to exact from the American public.

Eight cents a pound would give the foreign producer plenty of profit, and give the American people really cheap copper.

So, if the program decided upon means to close up and abandon American copper mines, at least foreign operators should be limited in the amount of profit they take from the domestic market.

Many consumers of this metal ask, why not have free trade in copper? That would give us cheap copper. But there is another side to that question.

For more than a century, the United States has been developing under a protective tariff system. It may or may not be a good system. But why except copper from the workings of the system? Why is copper not protected when everything else is?

It is precisely the same thing as if the United States were under a free-trade system and by some device, powerful money interests were able to except copper from the workings of free trade, causing a tariff to be levied against it alone.

That is exactly the situation with reference to copper today. Copper, alone, of all the basic industries of the United States, is excepted from the workings of the tariff system. And why?

Copper can be dumped into the United States at half the price at which American copper mines can produce it.

Thus, the limitation on the world production of copper primarily does not benefit the American consumer. But it does benefit the foreign copper producer, who will be enabled to exact a greater toll than ever before from the American public.

Protect the American copper producer, expand domestic copper production to meet merely the American demand, and thus lessen unemployment instead of increasing it such as is the inevitable result of the present world copper restriction set-up.

Perfect Circle Reports Income

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—The Perfect Circle Company piston-ring manufacturer reported today net profits for ten months ended October 31, of $370,773 after all charges, including taxes, equivalent to $3.51 a share on 162,500 shares of capital stock outstanding, against $339,359 or $3.16 a share on the same basis a year ago.

October net profits totaled $42,258 or 26 cents a share, against $45,-657 or 28 cents a share in September and $78,175 or 48 cents a share in October, 1929. Current assets totaled $1,725,807, against current liabilities of $103,780 on October 31.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Odds and ends of the stock market's Thanksgiving turkey went to a bear crowd today. In general, however, the sohrts had to be satisfied with morsels rather than large slices, although there were some recessions of 4 and 5 points in rails and volatile specialties.

With sales totaling 1,280,000 shares it was evident the day's movements were governed by professional activity. The only active interest in the last half-hour when traders livened the dullness by selling rail-road and utility shares which weakened the downward turn. Specialty stocks recovered a point from their lows and the industrials closed with moderate losses. United States Steel finished 3-4 lower at 148 1-4, compared with its minimum of 147.

The weekly steel review told the familiar story of declining operations, offset by expressions of optimism over the ultimate effect of increasing orders from railroads, automobile manufacturers and other industrial projects. Iron Age reported the ratio had dropped to 41 per cent from 43 per cent last week, but again stressed the importance of the present low level of operations, the indications of firmer price trends.

Extra dividend declarations numbered decreased sharply, although it happened the group embraced two active stocks, Standard Brands and American Tobacco B.

Call money was firmer because of the holiday currency demand from the banks. Funds in the outside market were available at 2 per cent.

Revival of the old Boom, Montgomery Ward movement, which has been hobbling up for several months, brought the usual specialists, but was accompanied by strength in the former issue which held nearly two-thirds of a point advance. Montgomery Ward fractionally off on the day. Wall street is inclined to the view that antitrust laws stand in the way of such a combination. Railroad investment shares displayed great firmness. Coppers were generally lower, while the oils moved irregularly in response to the latest weekly statistics on production and gasoline stocks. Royal Dutch lost more than 2 points, was off 3 points, Missouri Pacific and Southern Pacific lost 4, Chicago and Northwestern 3, New York Central, Atchison and Baltimore and Ohio.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Stock Market Ends Session in Firm Manner After Earlier Softening Trend

Irregular fluctuations ruled for the most part on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday despite a preholiday wave of selling which set in at a late hour on the New York market. The board presented a melange of mixed gains and losses of fractional dimensions at the close. The market will be closed today, observing Thanksgiving.

Standard Oil of California, Union Oil, Union Associated and Richfield were the only issues traded in excess of 1000 shares, the bank holding company leading the market with a turnover of 2,600 shares.

Other issues which featured trading on the preceding day underwent selling pressure, ralying finally at the close. Union Oil, only in the session was forced to a new bottom at 25 1-8, but finished 1-2 point net gain of 1-4. Associated ended at 24 1-2 with a similar net improvement after touching a low at 24 1-8.

Pacific Finance, after sinking below par at 15 1-8, down 1-2 net. First National firmed up while Pacific Finance yielded a like amount. Edison dipped 1-4 and Claude Neon, 1-2 point. Title Insurance and Trust, 1-4.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—The moderate receipts did not include anything of outstanding quality and owing to the fact that today is a holiday, demand was light and the scale-ward movement was slow. Prices were about 15 steady with a few sales of she stock 25c lower.

A load of medium 914-pound Utah steers brought $8 and a few 1194-pound Nevada-Arizonas made 7.90. A part load of 642-pound Arizona Mexicans brought 700, with balance of the load spreading 550 pounds at 6.75. A load of 896-pound southwestern feeder steers turned at 7.00, with three loads of 1000-pound Arizonas at 6.25.

A few light Utah heifers of fairly good quality brought 7.25 and 7.50, with two loads of medium heifers at 6.00@6.50. A part load of Utah cows brought 6.25 with a few at 6.10 and a load of 1042-pound Nevadas at 5.60. A few lots of medium cows scored 4.75 and 5.00, with the bulk of common to low medium at 3.50@4.50. Low cutters and cutters ranged from 2.75@4.25, with a few thin shelly cows down to 2.00. Medium to good bulls brought 4.50@5.00.

CALVES—The light supply of fresh offerings were nearly all disposed of at about steady prices, but over a load of holdover southwestern calves were unsold. A few lots of medium native milk vealers brought 9.50@11.50, with heavy calves at 8.50@9.50.

HOGS—Only one load of rather plain eastern butchers and a few lots of local fed butchers were offered. Trade was dull and quality considered, prices looked steady to weak. The load of eastern averaged 153 pounds and brought 10.15. It seemed probable better quality hogs would bring a little more money. A few local lots made 9.50@9.75, with some weights picking over 9.25.

SHEEP—Nothing was offered in this division and quotations remain unchanged, with medium to choice lambs, 75 pounds, quoted at 6.50@7.75, and medium to choice ewes quoted 3.00@4.00.

Merger Rumor Meets Denial

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Julius Rosenwald, chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck & Co., today disclaimed any knowledge of a resumption of negotiations for a merger with Montgomery Ward & Co.

"I am here in Chicago and if people want to talk in New York I cannot help it," he said when asked about the rumors. He added that even if the facts were as stated and he knew of them he would not say anything about them.

OIL NEWS

BY HOWARD KEGLEY

Telegrams have been sent to all members of the fact-finding committee by Chairman W. E. Dunlap, asking them to meet Friday at 10 a.m. in the assembly rooms of the California Oil and Gas Association to discuss the State-wide oil curtailment program.

Nothing definite was learned yesterday as to what other business, other than the question of oil curtailment will come before the committee, but it is believed that one subject will be the matter of reducing the allotment from 540,000 barrels to perhaps 530,000 barrels daily.

Friday's session of the fact-finding committee will be the first time in several months that the group has been called together and it is possible that several of the problems met with during the past few months will be thoroughly discussed.

Preparing for Completion

Four high-pressure and two low-pressure traps have been installed by the Richfield Oil Company in anticipation of the early completion of its No. 1 well on Sec. 28, 27-30 in the north Belridge district.

Richfield has completed reaming and is preparing to land a string of nine and five-eighth-inch casing to about 5580 feet, with bottom of the hole at 5804 feet. Progress of this deep test has been watched with interest for several months because it is northwest of the Belridge Oil Company's No. 15, which is flowing at the rate of 3710 barrels of 45-deg. gravity oil per day from a depth of 5474 feet. Richfield's well picked up the Temblor zone a little lower on the structure, but has cored considerable oil sand and has had much gas to contend with while reaming.

Considers Derrick Tax

The matter of taxing oil companies within the city 1 per cent of their gross income yearly, was laid aside yesterday at a meeting of the City Council and an ordinance was ordered prepared which will tax each oil derrick.

Members of the City Council who were not in accord with the idea of a tax of 1 per cent of the oil companies' gross income suggested that an alternate plan be considered and the latter will come before that body next week.

Surprise Recompletion

After remaining idle several weeks because of sand troubles, the Venice Oil Syndicate's No. 1, near the intersection of Thirty-ninth avenue and Pacific Court in the Venice oil field, was recompleted yesterday for an initial flow of 1900 barrels of 23-deg. gravity oil per day from a depth of 6100 feet. This project was the operator's first completion in the field discovered a year ago by the Ohio Oil Company. It has been beaned back to a yield of approximately 1000 barrels daily.

Drilling Permits

The number of drilling permits issued last week by the State Mining Bureau was six less than the number granted the preceding week. Of the nineteen permits for last week, nine were for the Venice oil field, three in the fields of Kern county, one each at Inglewood, Signal Hill, Newhall district, Torrance and three listed as in Los Angeles county.

Venice permits follow: Protective Oil Company's No. 1, Van Wig Oil Company's No. 1, Venice Consolidated Oil Company's No. 3, Barnsdall-Cypress combination's Burks No. 2, and Burks No. 8; Ohio Oil Company's Block 1-2, Pacific Coast Properties' Lewis S. Stone-Hunter No. 2, Black Gold Petroleum Company's Francis J. Heney No. 2, Don S. Shadle's Shadle No. 1.

California Ventura Oil Company's No. 3 at Torrance; Lamona Oil Association's No. 2 on Sec. 34, 1-9, Taylor Oil Company's No. 1 on Sec. 12, 2-15, and Wilmington Consolidated Oil Company's No. 1 on Sec. 17, 4-13 in Los Angeles county; H. L. Whiston's Fee No. 1 at Signal Hill; York-Smullin Oil Company's No. 6 in Newhall district; E. K. Allison Syndicate's Baldwin Hills No. 1 at Inglewood; Standard Oil Company's McPhail No. 1; and Shell Company's Gore Hole D in North Belridge district; Superior Oil Company's K. C. L., No. 1 on Sec. 32, 29-25 in Kern county.

Swabbing for Production

Another new producer is expected today in the Elwood oil field, Carolina Spaulding's Blue Goose No. 1 yesterday was swabbing with bottom below 3500 feet. Caroline Spaulding controls Tideland Permit No. 93, and the Pacific Western Oil Company has drilled and completed three wells on it within the past year.

"TIMES" THEATER GUIDE

MOTION PICTURES

Boyd, Eighth, between Broadway and Hill—"The Santa Fe Trail." It gets kinda serious out in the West—this does.

Boulevard, Washington at Vermont — "Love in the Rough."

California, Main and Eighth—"Dona Mercedes" and "Dos Gatos al Mal." The fine performance by Carmen Larrabieti makes the former film worthy. And Charley Chase does the same for the latter.

Carthay Circle, Carthay Center—"Min and Bill." A drama of the water front which runs from slapstick to tragedy. Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery.

Chinese, 6925 Hollywood — "Morocco." Von Sternberg's drama, styled to represent, and realism, is a definite contribution to the screen. Gary Cooper and Marlene Dietrich.

Criterion, Figueroa at Santa Barbara—"Those Three French Girls." A vivacious comedy and Pitt Dorsay.

Criterion, 642 South Grand—"Jenny Lind." Opens today.

Filmarte, 1228 North Vine—"The Tiger of Berlin." A mystery in German, which should be interesting to the understanding.

Forum, Pico at Norton—"The Bad Man." A pistol play of grand old Mexico, with Walter Huston the man behind the trigger.

Grauman's State, Broadway at Seventh—"Second Year." Opens today.

Majestic, Broadway at Ninth—"The Last Dance." Opens today.

Million Dollar, Broadway at Third—"Laughter." Don't miss it. Nancy Carroll and Fredric March.

Pantages, Hollywood at Vine—"The Virginian." Walter Huston as the General of something or other; but it does'nt matter.

Paramount, Hill at Sixth—"Tom Sawyer." Opens today.

Rialto, Wilshire at La Brea—"Love in the Desert." Robert Montgomery is good in this comedy.

R.K.O., Hill at Eighth—"See America Thirst." Opens today.

R.K.O. Orpheum, Broadway at Ninth—"Sin Man." One of the better motion pictures. Noticeable especially for fine performances. Helen Twelvetrees.

Victoria, Western at Tenth—"A Lady Surrenders." Splendid work by Genevieve Tobin and Rose Hobart.

United Artists, Broadway near Ninth—"All Quiet." Laughable and thrilling is this new Harold Lloyd comedy.

Warners' Downtown, 8th at Seventh—"Sweethearts and Wives." Ann Miller in a musical greatly enhanced by Joe Donahue.

Warner's Hollywood, Hollywood Blvd. at Wilcox—"Sunny."

Wiltshire, 8440 Wilshire Boulevard — "Applause." George Bancroft is washed up in the gas and it is all pretty tough going.

STAGE

Belasco, Hill at 12th—"The Bird of Paradise." The exotic tropics and that charming vampire, Dorothy Burgess.

El Capitan, Hollywood Blvd. nr. Highland —"Ladies Love Danny." Lots of fun, a little of romance, drawn with spunk by Dale Winter and Henry Duffy.

Hollywood Playhouse, Vine near Hollywood Blvd.—"Her Cardboard Lover." Ina Claire and Leo Carrillo returns in an ancient vehicle that creaks.

Music Box, Hollywood Blvd., nr. Gower —"The Infinite Shoeblack." A study of two waifs, ends in a heap of half-tragedy. Helen Chinnell and Olive Meehan are outstanding.

Vine St., Vine near Hollywood Blvd.—"The Green Bottle." Clutching hands and Edgar Wallace. Chas. Laughton's play formula are here in profusion. Oscar Apfel is the featured player.

BURLESQUE

Follies, Main at Fourth—Burlesque.

Nine Already Arrested in Detroit After Accusation of Border Conspiracy

DETROIT, Nov. 26. (AP)—A beer-smuggling conspiracy involving a group of former customs border patrol inspectors and bootleggers was charged in a warrant issued today by Federal authorities.

Approximately twenty men are said to be named in the warrant. Nine of them, six former customs officers and three assorted bootleggers, have been arrested. Names of the others were not revealed. Those arrested are held for arraignment on charges of conspiracy to violate the Tariff Act.

Assistant District Attorney Frederick said that it is charged that the customs men permitted the bootleggers to bring in alcoholic beverages from Canada between March 3 and the 1st inst. Collector of Customs Pickert said only beer is involved in the case.

The men arrested are Oscar Vickstrom, former patrol sergeant; Arthur Ford, Elmer J. Erskine, Gordon Marsden, William H. Redford and Orie Hazen, former inspectors; Harry Gleason, Charles Evans and Raymond Malicki, asserted bootleggers.

EXPLORER SVERDRUP SUCCUMBS

Skipper of Nansen's Ship in 1893 Had Won Fame in Many Arctic Exploits

OSLO (Norway) Nov. 26. (AP)—Capt. Otto Sverdrup, who was skipper of Fridtjof Nansen's famous arctic ship, the Fram, in 1893, died here today after a brief illness, at 76 years of age.

Next to Roald Amundsen and Nansen himself, Sverdrup was Norway's greatest arctic explorer. He was a world-wide authority on polar navigation, and a bosom friend of most of those hardy souls who spent years of their lives filling the uncharted white spaces of the arctic with little dots and great blotches which mean islands and continents.

Once he turned his back on the arctic and went to Cuba to manage a tobacco and cotton plantation. But he was not temperamentally suited for a job like that and the enterprise failed.

He participated in numerous arctic rescues, and once he crossed Greenland on skis with Nansen. It was the first time that desolate territory had ever been traversed by white men.

The Norwegian government granted him a life pension, but his own king was only one of many monarchs and government chiefs to decorate him with high honors.

Sophie Tucker Quits Because Pay Too High

LONDON, Nov. 26. (Exclusive)—Sophie Tucker has proved to be too expensive a star in "Follow a Star," a musical comedy which began a run in London last September.

The show will be taken off December 6, according to Sophie's own explanation, because of her salary.

"Rather than be a burden to the managers, who have been perfectly sweet, I have decided to relieve them of the weight of my salary," Miss Tucker said.

The show will reopen December 22 at another theater, and another actress will be seen in Miss Tucker's part.

SHOWERS COME ON HOLIDAY EVE

City and Environs Receive Gentle Rain

Unofficial Gauges Record Fifth of Inch

Precipitation to Continue, Says Weather Bureau

Gentle rains struck Los Angeles about 6 p.m. yesterday and continued intermittently during the evening. The United States Weather Bureau predicts showers also will be on the weather menu today.

A midnight precipitation in the downtown district on an unofficial gauge, making the season's unofficial total to 1.33 inches, as compared to a record on the same date of 1.88 inches and last year's mark on the same date of .33 of an inch.

Scattered dispatches stated that rain which had swept in during the day resulted in a sprinkle there. It was further stated the clouds gave promise of a steady rain.

STORM SWINGS

Although the storm, which was reported 600 miles at sea during the night, was approaching Los Angeles from the southwest, it evidently took the coast near Santa Barbara and came southward.

The latter city received an inch of rain from the storm, making its official total 1.22 inches as compared to .65 of an inch recorded at the same time a year ago. Santa Paula, north of Santa Barbara, was given .50 of an inch by the latest storm. San Diego reported rain following shortly before midnight.

STREETS FLOODED

During the early evening rain flooded gutters and some street intersections in the downtown area, forcing Los Angeles pedestrian to the nearly ankle-deep across them.

With a generally overcast sky was indicated that last night's precipitation was general in this area. Redondo Beach reported .33 of an inch had been received there at 7 p.m.

PASADENA FAVORED

Pasadena reported the rain started there about the same time as it did in Los Angeles and that it was inclined to fall gently.

Despite the rain clouds that hovered over Los Angeles during the day the mercury climbed to a maximum of 75 deg., 2 deg. above the average high for November. The Weather Bureau stated temperatures will be moderate today.

AMOUNT OF RAINFALL

BAY DISTRICT

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 26. (Exclusive)—A shallow depression off the Southern California coast began to move northward into the Bay District today and a forecast for cloudiness followed with light showers.

San Francisco registered a trace of rain in the twenty-four hours ending at 5 p.m., and San Jose .08 of an inch.

Dolores Del Rio Under Operation for Kidney Ills

Dolores Del Rio, motion-picture actress, was successfully operated upon yesterday at the Good Samaritan Hospital. It was announced late today. Attendants at the hospital last night reported the patient's condition as favorable and her comfort necessary only a question of time.

The operation, to correct an ailment of the kidneys, was performed by Dr. Ernest G. Fishbaugh and Dr. B. Cecil. Miss Del Rio entered the Good Samaritan Hospital Monday afternoon after an illness of several months.

ACTRESS BETROTHED TO JOHN McCORMICK

Miss Mae Clarke

Hollywood yesterday heard informally of the engagement of John McCormick, former husband of Colleen Moore, to Mae Clarke, motion-picture actress.

Miss Clarke could not be reached as she is in a private hospital following an operation on her nose, and McCormick was not to be found for his version of the reported betrothal. Mrs. Clarke, mother of Miss Clarke, knew none of the details, although she admitted having some knowledge of the betrothal.

Miss Clarke has been in the films for some time and lately with the Fox organization. McCormick formerly was one of the industry's best known production executives. He recently was divorced in the local courts by Colleen Moore, who is now in the East appearing on the stage.

FEEDER OF HUNGRY MEN AUTO VICTIM

Mrs. Opal Hunter Struck by Car While Purchasing Derelicts' Thanksgiving

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Nov. 26.—Prospects of fifteen old-fashioned, home-cooked, Thanksgiving dinners went glimmering for as many homeless men here tonight when an automobile knocked down and critically injured Mrs. Opal Hunter, 63 years of age, who for many years has thrown open her house at 391 Kensington Place to hungry and homeless men on holidays.

To most persons in Pasadena she is known as "Mother" Hunter and several times she has clashed with the health laws because she assertedly had housed too many homeless men in the rooms of her rambling dwelling. The last time she offered the Bible as her principal "witness" in her defense and after she had read a score of chapters and appeared determined to continue reading until she reached the end, the judge called the trial to a halt and dismissed the case.

Yesterday she received her fifteenth homeless visitor, and after ascertaining that the majority of her guests preferred turkey to goose she started for the market. She bought three turkeys and all the accompanying ingredients for a Thanksgiving dinner and ordered them sent to her home. Then she stepped to the curbing and into the path of a car driven by Lawrence Borgenson, 916 Locust avenue. Both of her legs were broken and she suffered severe injuries to her back.

She was taken to the hospital where physicians say she may die. When news of the accident reached the "guests" at the Hunter home there was dismay, but one of the men asserted he was a "fair cook" and volunteered to prepare the Thanksgiving feast. The fourteen others dubiously agreed to let him try while they made plans to visit "Mother" Hunter at the hospital.

PLANS LAUNCHED TO AID JOBLESS

Chamber Directors Address Proposal to Employers

Citizens' Committee Project Before City Officials

Creation of Group to Handle Relief Fund Indicated

Two plans for meeting the unemployment problem here were launched yesterday.

One, sponsored by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, is addressed exclusively to employers. It advocates the immediate assurance to efficient workers they will be continued in employment for at least a year at reasonable wages.

As a further step toward stabilization and stimulation of industry and employment, employers are urged to make every effort to increase employment at shops, factories, offices and homes by undertaking improvements, alterations and repairs; by conducting campaigns for the purchase of home products instead of those from foreign markets; by giving preference in employment to Los Angeles residents supporting families, and by rotating employment whenever curtailment in production is imperative, thus retaining all workers on the pay rolls.

MUNICIPAL PROJECT

The second plan is for the creation of a citizens' committee to handle a municipal unemployment fund. This was under discussion by Mayor Porter and the Public Welfare Committee of the City Council.

Numerous suggestions were before the committee. It is believed that money will be raised in the city and expended in public works to furnish employment for a large group of idle men. This plan, it is understood, is preferred over any charitable organization.

The Mayor's proposal to have all city employees contribute 1 per cent of their salaries for four months for such a fund, the money to be handled by the Social Service Commission, collapsed yesterday when the City Attorney ruled it illegal.

COMMITTEE PROPOSED

Mayor Porter yesterday morning sent to the City Council the information concerning the City Attorney's ruling, and proposed that a citizens' committee be organized to consist of two representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, two from the Central Labor Council, two from the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, one from the City Employees' Association, one from county employees and one from Federal offices.

He suggested that money be raised by this committee and the employment portioned out to persons recommended by the Social Service Commission.

Mayor Porter also proposed the enactment of an ordinance restricting workmen on all public works, whether paid directly from city funds or from assessment districts, to Los Angeles residents.

Employees of the city health department yesterday voted their willingness to contribute to an unemployment fund.

SHELTER FOR HOMELESS

Action was taken by the Board of Supervisors yesterday to rent 25,000 feet of floor space in a building at Sixth and San Pedro streets for a month to provide shelter for homeless persons. The rental is not to be more than $200 per month.

The resolution providing the shelter, drafted in the form of an emergency measure, was adopted on motion of Supervisor Shaw. It authorizes W. H. Holland, County Superintendent of Charities, to acquire the floor space and immediately prepare the place to care for the homeless.

County Wants State to Oust Predatory Alien

In a move to rid California of all aliens illegally residing within its borders, the Board of Supervisors yesterday in a resolution memorialized the State Legislature to seek an appropriation from Congress to be used in deporting undesirables. The measure was adopted on motion of Supervisor Quinn.

The action of the board was taken after County Counsel Mattoon had advised the body that the problem is one the Federal government should handle as there is no provision in the State or county law for funds for deportation of aliens.

SHE'S COUNTY HOSTESS NOW

Supervisors Honor Peggy Hamilton

Recipient of New Official Post

BY ALMA WHITAKER

AT YESTERDAY'S session of the Board of Supervisors Peggy Hamilton was appointed official hostess for Los Angeles county in general and for two special events in particular.

First, for the festival to be held next September to celebrate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the city of Los Angeles.

Second, for the Olympic Games to be held here in 1932, which will be attended by visitors and athletic contestants from all parts of the world.

The appointment is for an indefinite period.

It was brought out at the Supervisors' meeting that Miss Hamilton long has been a sort of unofficial hostess for this community and for many individual organizations in addition to establishing Los Angeles as a world fashion center. Why not make the job official and cement her authority? All the Supervisors said, "Yea."

No emolument attaches to the post, so that it is essentially a labor of love.

So far as is recorded, this is the first time a county has appointed an official hostess.

PLANS TRIP ABROAD

Miss Hamilton is contemplating a European tour in the early spring. She then will be an official envoy for Los Angeles county, issue invitations to the Games, meet people on that basis and generally do her part in spreading the glad tidings of our attractions.

When Miss Hamilton went to Europe on the last occasion she met the Prince of Wales and received any amount of laudatory notices in the sedate London newspapers. It is not unlikely that the Prince will lend an approving ear to an enticing invitation to attend the Olympic Games, via this popular ambassador.

Miss Hamilton was hostess to the Prince of Wales shortly after being presented to King George and Queen Mary in Buckingham Gardens. En route home aboard the steamer Berengaria she was appointed special hostess to the Prince, also a passenger, and program chairman for the ship's entertainments.

She was the official hostess on a special train carrying Californians to the Hoover inauguration ceremony at Washington.

NOTABLES RECEIVED

During her career as an outstanding hostess, Miss Hamilton has received and entertained such artists as Leon Bakst, the famous Russian portrait painter; Anna Case, the opera singer, and others equally as noted in the social and professional realms.

Her appointment by the Board of Supervisors was made on the motion of Supervisor Shaw, following the adoption of a resolution by the board which will be sent to Secretary of State Stimson urging him to invite foreign nations to send their naval vessels to the Pacific Coast next summer to take part in various ceremonies—at which Miss Hamilton will be hostess—commemorating historical events relative to the founding of Spanish settlements along this coast.

LOS ANGELES FETE

Particularly are the nations to be invited to the great festival that will mark the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Los Angeles. The King and Queen of Spain have received an invitation, presented to them by John Steven McGroarty. Should the

BEVERLY'S HIGH SCHOOL SCHEME HIT

Webb Rules City Cannot Quit Los Angeles District to Form Its Own

Beverly Hills cannot withdraw from the Los Angeles City High School District and set up a separate district, in the opinion of Atty.-Gen. Webb, the Los Angeles Board of Education learned yesterday. The news of the Attorney-General's opinion was contained in a letter from Vierling Kersey, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, to Frank A. Bouelle, local superintendent, and was read at yesterday's board meeting.

Nothing was said in Supt. Kersey's letter as to any action by the State Board of Education on the petition of Beverly Hills to be permitted to hold an election on the matter of setting up an independent district.

The State board, at its September meeting, referred the matter to a subcommittee and specified that it conduct a hearing. That hearing has not yet been held.

In his opinion Atty.-Gen. Webb points out that the Beverly Hills district fails to meet one important condition, which is that the district shall lie less than two and one-half miles from any public high school. Portions of the proposed Beverly Hills district, he points out, lie more than that distance from the Beverly Hills High School.

It is true, the opinion admits, that this provision was originally designed to meet a condition not strictly analagous to that covered in the Beverly Hills case, but, it adds, the provision is now part of the law and will probably be held by the courts to cover the Beverly Hills case.

Children Fund to Be Raised at Entertainment

In order to raise funds with which to purchase food and clothing for needy children of Los Angeles, the Union Damas Catolicas is sponsoring an entertainment to be given at 8 p.m., December 14, at Wilshire-Ebell Theater, Wilshire Boulevard at Lucerne avenue.

ERNESTO VILCHES.

The program will be featured by the appearance of Ernesto Vilches with a large cast of players in "An American in Madrid," a comedy written by Mr. Vilches which has been presented to large audiences in South America and Europe, but which is to be played for the first time in America at this performance.

Mrs. James C. Quinn, president of the Union Damas Catolicas, said all members of the company will donate their services.

CITRUS CROP LITTLE HURT

Windstorm Damage Mostly Bruising of Fruit; Avocado Growers Figure 7 Per Cent Loss

The actual loss because of California citrus fruit blown from trees by recent high winds is very small in proportion to the State's bumper crop, Manager E. G. Dezell of California Fruit Growers' Exchange, announced yesterday on completion of an exchange survey of citrus acreage in the State.

At the same time, total losses in Southern California avocado groves as a result of the storm were figured at between 7 and 8 per cent by Calavo Growers' Association of California, Manager G. B. Hodgkin of that organization announced.

"Total damage to California citrus including fruit blown from the trees, damaged fruit and lowering of grade is estimated at between 3 and 4 per cent of the Southern California crop," Dezell said. "The greatest loss is in the lowering of the general grade of the fruit because of its bruising and scarring by the wind. There will be no effect on present shipments of oranges, lemons and grapefruit, which are now going forward to the markets.

"Due to the fact that the greatest proportion of this damage will not show up until the fruit is picked, it is practically impossible to estimate the actual damage. The loss of fruit from dropping in the groves was not as heavy as was at first expected. In fact many of our districts reported little or no damage in the groves. The concentration of the storm being in Southern California Central and Northern California citrus areas were not damaged, and heavy shipments of

STORES USHER IN HOLIDAYS WITH GALA DISPLAYS

Beauty Will Reign on Downtown Streets as Glowing Christmas Trees Herald Happy Days

BY OLIVE GRAY

Thanksgiving, the first of the holidays really ushering in the season's festivities, will find the downtown shopping district glowing with beauty, vital with the happy spirit of the great event, the culmination of all that is best and happiest in life.

Emblematic of Christmas, the tree, adorned with ornaments suggestive of generosity, has been chosen for decorative effects throughout the retail district. Tall Douglas fir trees, set in standards of Egyptian design, in the form of urns, will gladden the lengths of Broadway, from First to Twelfth street, of Seventh street from Broadway to Figueroa street, and Hill street, between Fourth and Ninth streets.

Corner intersections throughout this district will become luminous at night, the electroliers being handsomely ornamental with huge candles, star bursts, bells and holly.

This gorgeous Christmas land is the free contribution of the merchants and property owners in this locality who feel this to be a satisfactory way of attaching fame to the city. Last season's decorative effects here attracted nation-wide attention and, as E. C. Mitchell, secretary of the Retail Dry Goods Merchants' Association, has said, the display this season will equal that of last holiday time.

J. A. Biggam, famous for work of this character, is in charge of the installation and has long been engaged in working out the details.

It is believed that crowds will enjoy these effects on the downtown streets and that Thanksgiving will usher in a period of altruistic holiday happiness such as the city never before has experienced. Not within recollection have the stores been better prepared with gift merchandise and not in many decades have prices been so low—truly a time for gift investment.

BARKER BROS.

The men's gift shop at Barkers' was outfitted in an unusual way. Two very modern young men of discerning taste made a tour of the entire store, choosing from each section articles which they would like to receive for Christmas. These men now are in charge of this most interesting shop. Hundreds of gifts from the most luxurious of objects to those of smaller caliber, suited to the limited budget, are here.

The modes and manners section is divided into several shops, among which are noted the French provincial, the modern French, the Louis XIV, Louis XV and Louis XVI and one wherein are housed glasswares of every type. In these shops the person of cosmopolitan taste is certain to find gift happiness.

SHOPPING SERVICE

A personal shopping service is at the disposal of busy men and women in need of guidance. A stylist is at hand to assist in selection of authentic modes in silver, china, linen, glass and other table accessories. Throughout the galerie, acceptable articles from the oriental section, from the silver department, from those of china, art wares, pewter and glass are conveniently arranged on modernistic tables. Occasional furniture here also attracts gift attention.

A wide and exclusive assortment of greeting cards, wrapping papers and imported ribbons and stationery are available here.

TREES IN FOYER

The foyer disports the two huge evergreen trees, traditional with Barker's, these trees exhaling the aroma of Christmas, in this always delightful place, where friends are wont to gather to listen to the organ music. In the arches leading to the galerie stand smaller trees in snowy whiteness, while in the mezzanines are glimpsed trees in silvery brilliance.

Throughout the many floors of the store Christmas trees of many varieties add to the holiday atmosphere.

In the broad battery of windows on the Seventh-street facade screens of modernistic design sound the chromatic scale, from light to dark. For example, royal blue shades down to white, crimson tones the scale to palest yellow; these colorful screens, against which are reflected holly wreaths, trees and other seasonable emblems, forming a novel and interesting background for the display of gifts.

ROBINSON'S

In the spacious store of the J. W. Robinson Company, one notes that originality may be applied to Christmas decorations, and that with singular effectiveness.

The wreaths, trees and long fes-

CHEST FORCES REPORT GAINS

Fund Reaches $2,577,070, or 81 Per Cent of Goal

All Workers Repeat Pledge to Carry on to Finish

Ex-Clevelander Suggests Campaign of Education

Undaunted by the difficulties which beset them in the struggle to reach the appointed goal, Community Chest workers met for a report luncheon at the Biltmore yesterday and again voiced determination to continue their efforts until every needed dollar is in the Chest coffers.

Since the reports made last Friday, an additional $51,358 has been subscribed, bringing the total to date to $2,577,070, or 81 per cent of the goal of $3,200,000. There remains $622,930 yet to be obtained.

"It is true we are working under the stress of extraordinary conditions this year," said Campaign Chairman J. A. Kerr, "but what is more to the point is that the 124 agencies of the Chest are facing conditions unparalleled in the history of the present generation in Los Angeles. For that reason we must keep on with this work until it is cleaned up. We are now at about the same point as we were at the close of the campaign last year, but this year we must make that remaining grade and get the entire quota. I believe there is not the slightest doubt that we will win out eventually if we put heart and soul into the task."

WORKERS CARRY ON

Reports from the various geographic divisions indicated that the workers have been pushing the drive, with their work daily becoming more difficult. The divisions reporting yesterday stood as follows: The $1,000,000 committee, 78.33 per cent; entire central division, which includes the foregoing committee, 86.32 per cent; residential district, 85 per cent; business district, 80 per cent; industrial district, 66 per cent; the public shools, 104 per cent, and parochial schools, 101 per cent.

S. M. Bond, former merchant of Cleveland and now a resident of Beverly Hills, who has been identified with the Cleveland Community Chest ever since its inception and who has watched the progress of the Los Angeles drive with keen interest, yesterday expressed his gratification over news received concerning the success of the Cleveland campaign. With a quota of $5,400,000 that city subscribed a total of $5,418,524 in a period of eight days.

CLEVELAND'S SUCCESS

"The Cleveland campaign goes over the top each year," said Mr. Bond, "because right at the very start of the Chest movement the idea was sold to the people of the city in a great educational campaign. I would suggest that as soon as you have closed this campaign you start at once with a series of committees to hold small group meetings throughout the year over the entire city for the purpose of educating your citizen: concerning the service rendered by the Community Chest and to make them understand their portion of responsibility for its support.

"And for the remainder of this campaign I hope you workers will not lose confidence and that you will not let up until you have gone over the top."

The next report luncheon will be

CITY TO GIVE THANKS TODAY

Special services at churches of all denominations, games and entertainments of various kinds and many big dinners, at which the needy will be guests, will feature the observance of Thanksgiving Day in Los Angeles today.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

THE real irony of this tragedy lies in the fact that Nile Price will probably turn out a winner with his next football team.

More than for any other reason, the failure of Berkeley this year was that both the coach and the players had lost confidence in each other's luck. Which, as Napoleon points out, is fatal for soldiers.

MA STARTS UP

There's one thing you have to say. When Aimee comes home, everybody knows about it.

AL CAPONE'S PLOT

Not that I doubt that Al Capone's tender heart is bleeding for the poor and the hungry, but I fear that the gangsters are feeding the poor of Chicago for another reason.

It looks very much as though Capone were going into politics. This free bread for the starving is the old Tammany Hall stuff. Until now he has been content to "adjust" his relations with the police and certain of the judges. It looks now as though he had decided to "carry the issue to the people."

Should Capone and his gang really decide to boss ward politics, it would create a dangerous situation. Behind Al Capone are a lot of brains and a lot of money. And it is not so hard for a man of that type to capture the imagination of the Lower Five.

A NEW GAG

Bootleggers in Hollywood have a new device whereby to captivate and fascinate the cash customers and persuade them to linger on at so much per bottle.

They turn the radio on. Right in the middle of the ditty the music stops long enough to say: "This lovely song is being played in honor of Mr. John B. Whosit and his lady friend," naming the customer who was beginning to look for his hat. And nobody is going to leave the house then. The fact that the bootlegger has an attachment in the kitchen for cutting in on the radio is a mere detail.

BREAKFAST

The savant at the sandwich shop regaled me as to the mysteries of the trade.

"No restaurant ever wants to see a guy come in for breakfast," he said. "Breakfast is always a money loser. It takes so much time and trouble—what with eggs that have to be boiled just so long and hot cakes cooked to order.

"The real gravy is in the trade that comes after the theater—from 11 o'clock on. The worst day for us is Monday. These late Sunday dinners at 3 or 4 o'clock give everybody indigestion. They wouldn't eat nightingale's tongues or turkey breast on Monday."

TOO CROOKED

When they dropped the prize-fight investigation on the ground that "Conditions are so rotten it is impossible to get to the bottom of them," the San Francisco grand jury said something.

The only folks who can regulate prize fighting are the cash customers. By staying away. To compel honesty in managers who want to be crooked would require the services of nine police forces all working at once.

COURT CLERK TAKES BRIDE

A romance dating from high-school days culminated last night in the marriage of Brinton M. Bowles, clerk in the Municipal Court, to Miss Mary C. Braun in the Highland Park Presbyterian Church.

POSSES TRAIL ATTACK FIENDS

Two Young Women Victims of Brutal Assailants

One in Serious State After Having Been Kidnaped

Little Girl Says Boy Made Improper Advances

Enlarged by the latest turn taken by desperados in the current wave of crime throughout the city, police authorities last night assigned a special detail of 100 officers to comb the city in a search for the men who during the day made brutal attacks on two young women and one child. Captain of Detectives Joe Taylor, in announcing the formation of the posse, stated every available facility of the department will be employed to bring the assailants to justice.

Victims of the three attacks are Miss Ruth Meserole, 17 years of age, of 849 South Normandie avenue; a young woman about 19, believed to be Grace Hayes of 2800 Whittier Boulevard, and an 8-year-old Hollywood girl, whose name was withheld.

SERIOUS CONDITION

Miss Meserole is in a serious condition in a private hospital as the result of the attack made on her shortly after Tuesday midnight, after she had been kidnaped from her escort and dragged into a secluded canyon off Mulholland High Way. Her right eardrum is broken, both eyes blackened and her body bruised and scratched. She is under the temporary care of Policewoman Toomey, pending apprehension of her two assailants.

The attack upon Miss Meserole and robbery of herself and escort, W. R. Bud Lawson of 608 June street, who was himself beaten by the Mexicans, was one of nine robberies reported to police between 9 p.m. Tuesday and 6 a.m. yesterday.

HIGHEST IN HISTORY

At midnight the official figures compiled by Police Statistician Rhoda Cross showed this month's total of hold-ups to have reached 223, seventeen higher than the highest monthly total in the history of the city. This former record was established in February, 1930, when 211 robberies were reported. Reports also show this month's total 117 higher than for the same period last month and 133 higher than for the same period last year. Burglaries increased to 499 as compared with 391 last month and 384 for the first twenty-five days in November last year.

According to the police report Miss Meserole and Lawson were driving slowly at Outpost and Mulholland High Way shortly before midnight when the two bandits, described as swarthy, coarse spoken and roughly dressed, held them up with revolvers.

The two beat Lawson and the girl into submission, and drove Lawson's car through Dark Canyon and to the end of the pavement near Lakeside Country Club. Here Lawson was dragged out of the machine and marched to the middle of a vacant field. After $3 was taken from his pockets he was forced to lie down and told to stay there or be shot to death.

KNOCKED DOWN

The bandits then took Miss Meserole with them and drove back to Mulholland High Way near Pacific View avenue. During the ride a revolver was held pressed against her side by one of the bandits who threatened to kill her if she screamed for help. After stopping the machine the bandits ordered her to get out. As she stepped from the car she made a desperate effort to run but was overtaken and brutally knocked down. Her face was beaten black and blue when she fought hysterically against her captors. Terror-stricken she collapsed.

An emerald and diamond ring, which her mother says is an heirloom and valued at $4000, was stripped from her finger, and she was lifted back into the automobile and told to wait there until her escort returned. After waiting an hour the hysterical girl staggered on to Mulholland High Way and hailed a passing motorist, Bruce Burns, who took her to his home at 2859 La Castana street, and notified Hollywood police.

In the meantime Lawson made an unsuccessful effort to find Miss Meserole and reported the robbery to Burbank police.

ANOTHER IN VALLEY

That the assailants of Miss Meserole coolly remained in the valley and perpetrated another hold-up is the belief of police. J. Takeda of 1204 Mansfield avenue reported being robbed at San Fernando Road and Balfour avenue. Takeda's descriptions of the bandits tallied exactly with that given by Miss Meserole and Lawson.

The attack on the young woman believed to be Grace Hayes was revealed when W. A. McKenzie, 638 North College avenue, Downey, took her to the Downey Hospital in a semiconscious condition and reported he had seen her ejected forcibly from an automobile as it sped along the Laguna-Bell road. During lucid moments the girl murmured incoherently the name of Grace Hayes and the Whittier Boulevard address.

Furnished with a license number supplied by McKenzie, investigators from the Florence-Avenue substation of the Sheriff's office arrested Genero Garcia, 38, at 159 Guanaguto street, Simons. He admitted giving the girl a ride in his automobile, saying he had taken her to a cafeline, but denied attempting to attack her. He was booked in the County Jail on suspicion of a statutory offense.

CHILD TELLS STORY

The 8-year-old girl mentioned in the police reports, went to her grandmother's home in Hollywood and said a "big boy" had enticed her into the small park at June street and De Longpre avenue and there had made advances to her. She broke from his grasp and fled.

Assisted by a youthful woman companion a bandit held up proprietors of two drug stores within half an hour late Tuesday night. They first appeared at 1200 West Fifty-fourth street, where, leaving an old-model automobile parked at the curb, they held up I. Morris and robbed him of $46. Fifteen minutes later and in the same neighborhood they held up M. Ifferlis at 1233 West Fifty-seventh Place and robbed him of $50. In both cases the woman entered the store first and purchased chewing gum as preliminary to the robbery.

As a reward for the Samaritan act of giving two sailors a lift on his automobile trip from Bakersfield, S. J. Eginton of 5833 South Grand avenue was dragged from his car on the outskirts of the city, beaten up and robbed of $48, he reported.

GROCERY HELD UP

Two bandits carrying automatic pistols held up Joe Rickerford in his grocery at 1809 West Sixth street and robbed him of $30, according to another report.

Another grocery robbery by the same pair was reported by W. B. Stewart, who said they held him up in his store at 1711 West Sixth street and robbed him of $20. John Pendergass of 1735 West Sixth street, a customer, was also a victime of the hold - up but reported losing nothing.

Shortly before dawn yesterday two bandits entered the Haggard Hotel at 320 West Fifth street and robbed C. A. Baldwin, clerk, of $30.

Following the report of Rip Greenspan of 1160 North Hobart Boulevard that two men had attempted to hold him up at Fountain and Edgemont avenues, Hollywood police arrested Frederick R. Woodward and Lawrence C. Mason in the vicinity. Greenspan, instead of responding to the demands of the bandits, ran to a near-by drug store and called police. Woodward and Mason were held as suspects after Greenspan identified them, according to the report of Officer Crites.

IT'S REAL DAY OF THANKSGIVING

Wife Drops Charge Against ex-Husband

Thomas Edward Fitzgerald and Mrs. Loretta Fitzgerald

HAPPINESS returned to the home of Thomas Edward Fitzgerald of 6110 South Central avenue yesterday and today will be a true day of thanksgiving, for Mrs. Loretta Fitzgerald, his divorced wife, appeared in Superior Judge Fricke's court and requested that a charge of assault with a deadly weapon which she had filed against him last April be dismissed.

The happy ending to the family disagreement came as a result of a conference between Mrs. Fitzgerald, Mr. Fitzgerald, and his attorney, S. S. Hahn.

Consequently Mrs. Fitzgerald forgave her husband and agreed to drop the felony charge. What will happen next? Well, Mr. Fitzgerald announced that they will discuss the question of being remarried today.

Mrs. Fitzgerald had charged in the complaint that her husband waylaid her on the highway near Saugus on April 20, last, and fired shot at her when she refused to return to him.

Fitzgerald already was tried once before Superior Judge Wilson but the jury, when unable to reach a verdict, was discharged.

The dismissal was asked by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Kearney who pointed out that the principal witness was Mrs. Fitzgerald and she no longer desired to prosecute.

STORM DAMAGE TO FRUIT SLIGHT

Central and Northern California navel oranges are now going forward to the markets.

"Information from Arizona, Imperial Valley, Coachella Valley, and Central California, where most of the grapefruit is grown, is that the fruit in these sections was not injured. There was practically no damage to Southern California grapefruit, according to reports from district exchange managers.

"The loss recorded in California lemon-producing sections due to dropping of the fruit was also light, and the greatest harm was done in the lowering of the grades.

"In some districts of Southern California there was a partial defoliation of orange and lemon trees which may have a later effect on shipments, due to the fact that the trees will be more susceptible to future winds and possible frost damage. However, in general the damage is less than expected and will have no material effect on California citrus shipments during 1930-31."

"The greatest avocado losses are in foothill orchards from Tujunga to Upland, where the drop of fruit is estimated to be from 25 to 100 per cent and actual damage to trees from breakage and rubbing to be from 25 to 100 per cent," Hodgkin said.

"In District No. 6, which includes North Whittier Heights, Avocado Heights, and Covina, the losses were much lighter. It is believed that 1768 field boxes of fruit out of a crop estimated to total 7466 boxes in this district are on the ground. Field boxes weigh forty-seven pounds.

"Losses in the La Habra Heights and Whittier country were estimated at about 300 boxes.

"In Orange county, which includes Yorba Linda, El Modena and Lemon Heights, the loss amounted to about 850 boxes.

"Northern San Diego county, throughout coastal and foothill districts, experienced practically no damage. This includes the area from Carlsbad to Solano Beach, inclusive of the Santa Fe Rancho, and the foothill area from Fallbrook through Vista to Escondido."

The eulogy is to be delivered by Superior Judge Hollzer, representing the courts of Los Angeles, and the Sinai choir, led by Cantor A. Silverman, will chant

EVANGELIST ILL, CANCELS APPEARANCE

Temple Reports Continue Conflicting as Pastor Remains in Seclusion

Official statements issued from various sources at Angelus Temple yesterday had the condition of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, leader, in various and sundry states of relapse and improvement.

At the same time, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, militant mother of the evangelist, who has criticised the present attitude of members of the official family of the church, was reported suffering from the effects of a high temperature. She is reported to have gone into seclusion until the present controversy subsides.

While these reports were serving to upset the Temple congregation and leave the Thanksgiving Day services in a somewhat undecided state, word was received that Rolf McPherson, son of the evangelist and the third reigning member of the family, had been "bruised from head to foot" in a football game.

SERVICE PLANS UPSET

All of these happenings served greatly to disconcert service plans for today, but none so much as the statement in regard to the condition of "Sister."

She was reported to be almost at the point of death; recuperating satisfactorily from a nervous breakdown of several months' standing; and again as almost completely recovered and able to appear tonight at a gala Thanksgiving service.

In the medley of reports that came yesterday also was a guarded statement from the church office saying that Roberta Semple, daughter of the ill evangelist, had been called home from Ireland. The daughter, who has been visiting relatives in that country since she and her mother visited the Holy Land, was reported to be hurrying westward to aid in the direction of temple affairs.

APPEARANCE DENIED

A definite denial that Mrs. McPherson will appear on the platform of the church tonight as the feature of a Thanksgiving service, was issued last night by F. C. Winters, business manager. Winters explained that his announcement is a repudiation of the statement published yesterday in the Foursquare Crusader, official organ of the church, that Mrs. McPherson will appear on the platform. "We now realize," said Winters, "that this appearance will be an utter impossibility."

Dr. Edward Huntington Williams, physician attending the evangelist, said last night that he had not visited his patient during the day, but had talked with her over the telephone. He reported that his patient is progressing favorably, but added that her recovery will be slow.

RECOVERING, REPORT SAYS

A formal resolution, taking cognizance of the present jangle of reports and statements, was issued yesterday at a meeting of the board of directors of the temple.

The resolution pointed out that "Sister" McPherson is "pastor for life" of Angelus Temple; that she is now recovering from a nervous breakdown brought about by her labors as a minister for over twenty-two years; that F. C. Winters has been duly appointed business manager by the board.

In discussing the condition of Mrs. McPherson the resolution adds: "We do not know when she will resume her work, but look forward to her return with joy. Every department of the temple is standing 100 per cent behind her."

TWENTY-ONE INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

Violation of Federal Law Charged in True Bills on Variety of Offenses

Seventeen Federal grand-jury indictments were returned by that body yesterday, naming twenty-one defendants on various charges of violations.

Violation of the Immigration Act was charged in seven true bills returned against seven defendants. Nine defendants were named in indictments charging violations of the Jones "five and ten" liquor law. Mrs. Ottie V. Barret, who was charged with having transported and had in her possession a large quantity of contraband liquor, was one of those named.

George Voegelin was indicted on a charge of misusing the mails. Harold Hurst was charged with a violation of the tariff law in that he attempted to bring contraband goods across the border from Mexico. James Daugherty was charged with driving a stolen automobile here from Ohio.

FISHERMEN GET ODD MONSTER

Strange Species of Shark Weighing Ton, Landed After Long Battle

A strange species of shark, a sea monster unfamiliar in this region, twenty-two feet long and weighing more than a ton, was captured yesterday morning at Manhattan Beach after a battle that lasted over three hours.

The strange fish, black and with long pointed nose, first was seen at 9 a.m. by John Seekatz on the fishing barge Georgiana. He harpooned it and with the assistance of others, after a strenuous fight, managed to kill it and drag it aboard the barge. Fishermen say it is the largest shark ever seen in local waters.

WIFE OF 'ADONIS' WINS DIVORCE

Fear of Marring His Beauty Kept Him From Work, She Charges

Narcissus would have approved her husband, Mrs. Margaret M. Smith intimated yesterday in divorcing Stanley Smith of Pomona.

"My husband spent hours polishing his fingernails, combing his hair and patting his face with complexion lotions," asserted the wife. "He also had film tests made. I'll admit he is an Adonis, but he didn't want to work for fear of breaking his fingernails or soiling his hands."

Superior Judge Keetch granted Mrs. Smith a decree on grounds of desertion and nonsupport. The Smiths married at Pomona, July 29, 1928, and separated October 1, 1929.

OUTDOORS CHRISTMAS HELPS CITY

Building Concern Says It Will Include Yule Trees in All Landscaping

That the "Christmas-out-of-doors" movement sponsored by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce will permanently benefit the community through the beautification of streets with tree plantings, was evidenced yesterday in a report from a residence building concern. It announced that hereafter appropriate Christmas tree plantings will be included in its landscaping plans for all dwellings.

A. Carman Smith, chairman of the general committee arranging for the event, said that there is early interest shown in the tree-decorating plan, judging from the many inquiries being received at the Chamber of Commerce.

The illumination period will be between December 20 and January 2, next. Residents of every community in Southern California are being urged to decorate trees or shrubs on their lawns. Only multiple-unit weather-proof fixtures can be used to avoid impairment of electric service in wet weather.

CITY WILL GIVE THANKS TODAY

PLAGUE VICTIMS FIGHT BACK

Paralysis Sufferers Learn to Walk

Special Apparatus Aids Restoration

Milton K. Berry and one of his little charges making use of device at Institute of Paralysis Correction.

IN TODAY'S general observance of Thanksgiving it is unlikely there will be many more genuine expressions of gratitude than that from Los Angeles children who are recovering from the effects of last summer's inroads of infantile paralysis.

Thanks to rigid quarantine measures, to co-operation of the public with health authorities, to prompt and adequate remedial treatment and to the mildness of the epidemic itself, fatalities were few and most of the cases so light that their little victims already are well on the way to recovery.

At the Milton H. Berry Institute of Paralysis Correction at Van Nuys several of these children are learning to walk again with the aid of special devices. One of these is a narrow garden path provided with low railings on either side, upon which little hands rest as tiny legs and bodies work valiantly to bring their functions back to normal.

All the patients are making good progress, according to Mr. Berry, whose success in the re-education and reconditioning of muscles affected by infantile paralysis has brought sufferers to him from all parts of the world.

JOBLESS MAN SHOOTS WIFE; KILLS SELF

Breakfast Quarrel Over Unemployment Leads to Double Tragedy

Wounded twice in the chest by her husband, Joseph Muskitis, 60 years of age, who afterward used the same gun to shoot and kill himself as the climax to a family quarrel at the breakfast table, Mrs. Minnie Marlin Muskitis, 50, was removed from the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital to the Suburban Hospital late yesterday afternoon in a critical condition. One of the bullets police surgeons stated, penetrated a lung and possible subsequent complications may prove fatal.

Cause of the attempted murder and suicide was attributed by Captain of Detectives Carmen W. Seventy-seventh-street division in a fit of anger on the part of the husband after his wife is said to have chided him for being unable to find work after a long period of inactivity. Muskitis, according to Coroner men, was a gardener, but had not been working for nearly a year.

The shooting occurred in the Muskitis home at 839 East Seventy-sixth street. A married son, Joseph, Jr., according to Carmen, lives at the same address.

Jury's Dog Bite Ruling Affirmed

When a dog bites a man it may not be news, but it yesterday was a decision by the Appellate Department of the Superior Court. And that is news. Judges McLucas and Tappaan handed down a decision affirming a jury's verdict giving judgment for $1000 in favor of Wilson McClelland, Alhambra motorist, against John B. Elliot, also of Alhambra.

The case was tried before Judge Farrell, Justice of the Peace of the Gabriel Township, September 1, last.

The Appellate Department held that the evidence was sufficient to support the judgment.

...ILKE'S LIQUOR CASE DISMISSED

...y City Attorney Freed of Pasadena Charges—

...ion Follows Exoneration of Wife Last Week

...k Had Been Arrested in Automobile on Street

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Nov. 26.—Royal G. Wilke, Los Angeles deputy City Attorney and World War hero, was exonerated today on charges of prevarication and possession of liquor, intoxication and reckless driving filed against him on the 4th inst. when he and his wife were held after police officers took them from their car which they had parked on South Broadway.

Judge Leonard Riccardi dismissed the charges on motion of A. C. Ellis, Wilke's attorney.

Mrs. Wilke, who faced charges of intoxication and reckless driving, was exonerated last Friday following a jury trial in local Police Court. Wilke's case was scheduled to come to trial before a jury on December 5, but the case now is off calendar as the result of Judge Riccardi's advance dismissal on all charges against him.

Policemen who made the arrests stated that while they were attempting to handcuff Wilke his wife tried to run them down in her automobile.

Notified by telephone that he had been exonerated, Wilke expressed disappointment that the case had not been allowed to come to trial. "I could have preferred exoneration by a jury," he declared, "as the evidence at my wife's trial proved there was no foundation for the charges against us."

After playing halfback for the city championship Pasadena High School football team in 1916, Wilke was commissioned in the United States Aviation Corps. When his plane was shot down in France, he received injuries which confined him to a hospital for six months.

Gov. Roosevelt Urges Continued Aid for Children

A telegram from Gov. Roosevelt of Porto Rico, urging support of the Porto Rico child-feeding committee's drive for funds, was received here yesterday by E. Guy Talbot, Pacific Coast director of the campaign. The dispatch stated 4,000,000 are now being cared for daily in the island and that "nothing must jeopardize continuance of this life-saving endeavor."

The drive last month received the endorsement of President Hoover, who pronounced the work "an American job."

...ilted Woman Asks $170,000

Miss Eleanor De Stefano, in a $170,000 damage suit filed yesterday charges that E. M. Walsh, prominent in San Francisco social and business circles, refused to marry her, after promising to do so on November 23, 1929.

Miss De Stefano asserts that Walsh, when he was a stock broker in New York, and she was a railway office employee, promised to marry her. She asserts that he broke beat her in a New York hotel room, and asks $35,000 for each assault.

In further $100,000 damages, for alienated jilting is asked in the suit. She is represented by Attorney S. S. Hahn.

...OPERATION AIDS BOY'S CAPACITY

...anksgiving Tragedy from Abdominal Cast Relieved by Humane Surgeon

Here's a new version of the traditional small-boy-with-healthy-appetite story.

Little Fred Compagnon, Jr., of 3112 West Seventy-sixth street, will eat his fill and suffer no painful after-effects from his Thanksgiving dinner today for an "unusual" reason.

The plaster cast which he now is wearing as the result of a thigh fracture and which extends well up around his abdomen, has had a large circular aperture dug out of it by an obliging surgeon in order that his youthful tummy may have room to expand during and after the meal.

The boy, while riding his wheel near his home a few days ago, was struck by a motorist and his leg was broken. X-rays were taken and the cast was set at the Orthopedic Hospital and the lad was brought home.

Today's Bible Text

Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world. And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof; but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever.—I John ii:15-17.

COMPETITION?
We wonder if the increasing number of society beauties who are lending their photographed charms to commercial advertising really are jealous of the position that Hollywood celebrities are gaining in the social world.

PLAYING OTHER FELLOW'S GAME
Russia has grabbed a big British oil contract from Dutch and American companies. The Russian attitude toward capital is like that of the comedian who said, referring to women, "We can't get along with them or without them."

FOR THE TRADE
And now they are putting lumber up in assorted packages like other goods. The builder knows the sizes and governs his structure accordingly. Wastage is eliminated. On Los Angeles street cars it seems they put humans up in packages at times to eliminate wastage.

THE ROUGH DIAMOND
Malfalda Capone, whose name sounds like music and who is said to be receiving a $50,000 marriage dowry from her brother, Al Capone, is probably marrying a diamond extremely rough when she weds the brother of Frank Diamond, one time rival gangster of Scarface.

NEVER DONE
A Los Angeles man hanged himself from a chandelier. However, he weighed 250 pounds and pulled the fixture out by the roots. He survived. Then he slashed his throat; but breathed on. Finally he opened the veins at his elbows and when the doctors and detectives pronounced him dead, he was so indignant that he leaped up and engaged them in a free fight. Isn't our climate wonderful?

WANTED—INTERPRETER
Hollywood furnishes about three-fourths of the moving pictures for the British. To make the underworld realistic, the slang of gangland is used. The Briton is having hard work understanding. He fails to connect up "bulls" and "cops." A "dive" doesn't mean anything to him. So he asks Hollywood to have its crook slanguage translated into King James's version.

EDITH WHARTON HONORED
Few competent appraisers of American literature will say that the American Academy of Arts and Letters has not made a wise choice in electing Edith Wharton to membership in its body—the second woman ever so honored, the first having been Julia Ward Howe, author of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," who died twenty years ago.

Mrs. Wharton richly deserves the honor given her by the academy. She has written of American life in its various phases with truth and convincing power, employing diction which has proved her to be a mistress of the literary art. Her "Touchstone" displays great ability in the handling of a haunting spiritual tragedy, as does also her "Sanctuary." It is in such stories that her technique is revealed at its best, though her "House of Mirth" and "Ethan Frome" are striking social studies, either one of which would have made a high name for its author.

Rarely has the modern American scene been more faithfully depicted than in Mrs. Wharton's more recent book, "Hudson River Bracketed," with its faithful character delineations of eastern and midwestern people. In this book she steps over into Booth Tarkington's territory, her Euphoria being almost as notable in its way as any of Tarkington's villages. As a stark poignant tragedy this story takes rank with some of Thomas Hardy's. Then there is, among her later publications, that strong study of the evil effects of divorce, "The Children," which so effectively depicts the sad lot of the offspring of estranged married couples.

In honoring Edith Wharton, as it has done by electing her to its membership, the academy has honored itself.

WHY BE THANKFUL?
What, remarks the crape hanger, is there for the country to be thankful for today?

People are supposed to be more thankful with business brisk, wheels turning, orders coming in, assets piling up, stocks rising, dividends increasing and gold flowing this way. When things slow down and the pendulum of business swings the other way the materialist sees scant grounds for gratitude.

Something very like a rebuke to this ultra-practical viewpoint was voiced by President Hoover in a Thanksgiving proclamation which struck a new note in executive outgivings on the subject.

While pointing out that the United States has suffered less than the rest of the world from the general depression, it is in no such merely negative blessing that the President finds cause for gratitude. Instead, he directs our attention to the notable advances which the year has seen in the "arts and sciences that enrich our lives and enlarge our control of nature," to the progress made upon the enduring structure of our institutions, to the extensions of our educational system, to the gains in the prevention of disease and in the protection of childhood, to our freedom from civil and industrial discord and the long strides forward toward permanent international peace. Even in times of depression and unemployment, he says, we may be thankful for the opportunities offered to help those less fortunate than ourselves. Dollars alone would make a slim Thanksgiving.

This opportunity to prove our thankfulness, in line with the President's message, by helping those less fortunate than ourselves, comes directly home to the people of Los Angeles in the empty space still left at the top of the Community Chest. If the Thanksgiving Day breathes into our people a new spirit of cheerfulness, of helpfulness, if it also serves as a reminder of our dependence for all that we have on the Giver of all good, it will inspire us to spread that cheer, to extend that help and acknowledge that dependence through the means most directly to our hand.

That means is the Community Chest—the free-will offering of the whole city to relieve distress which can be reached in no other way. Every individual and family enjoying a share of nature's bounty must surely feel, especially on a day like this, what it would be to have no board, no certain home, no sure employment, no sheltered surroundings. Then will each ask himself, Have I subscribed yet to the common fund and if so have I given all that I could afford to give? Is the answer in the negative? There is a Community Chest subscription coupon on the first page of this section of The Times put there to help make it an affirmative one.

When the cupboard is bare, we go to the closet for prayer. When the wardrobe is full, we go to the closet for clothes. The best praying is done on an empty stomach.

We have had a lean year. The pessimists have fattened. The cynic, dog that he is, has had his day. The grouch has had a chance to get it all out of his system. But the country is glad that it is no worse.

Germany may be marching to the goose-step, but there is a possibility that she is just stepping high in her newfound freedom. Mussolini may be rattling the saber, but it is still true that barking war dogs seldom bite. Russia may be trying to set her brood of bombs in every nation, but she is having a hard time keeping the goose on. France may be jumpy, but even that may not be so bad, providing she jumps up. The bear may be in the china shop, but age-old traditions are being shattered. South America may be in a constant state of revolution, but so is the earth, and it is sun-up this Thanksgiving morning!

We may not seem to have as much to be thankful for as usual; but we are likely to be more thankful for what we have. And that is better than plenty with no appreciation.

The cattle are yet on a thousand hills. The crops have been so abundant that in some places they are an embarrassment. Here our cash returns from crops are the greatest in history. The fruits have been so prolific they have become windfalls. The vines have hung with so much fatness that we lack vessels to contain. Deity has done His part!

So be thankful!

NEEDED REORGANIZATION
The change in organization voted by the majority of the Board of Water and Power Commissioners is the first step in the Mayor's promised reorganization of that department, one of the most important in the city government. Upon its proper functioning depends an adequate water supply and, as an incidental, a heavy investment in power production and distribution. That this department has been the football of internal and external politics is notorious, and that it has suffered enormously in consequence is also plain. Its reorganization so that it may function as a business rather than as a political agency has been a crying necessity.

The transfer of the joint departments to the general control of the chief engineer of the Water Bureau is an aid to restoring the proper weight to the two divisions of the department. The set-up of the last couple of years has placed the emphasis where it distinctly does not belong, on the Power Bureau, which has been exaggerated out of all ratio to its intrinsic and relative importance. To place the acquisition of lands in the Owens Valley and Mono Basin under the supervision of Chief Electrical Engineer Scattergood, for example, is absurd. Practically all of the business of the department, aside from strictly engineering features, has been under Scattergood's control and the Water Bureau's hands have been tied, to its great detriment.

Transfer to the Water Bureau will automatically eliminate a good deal of internal politics, since the Water Bureau has never been as politically minded as the Power Bureau; and it should serve as a warning that what remains of that policy must be cut out. It would be a great misfortune if the water department took advantage of the opportunity to make reprisals. That could only create further dissension and disorganization.

That the Power Bureau would be the better for some intelligent direction and restraint has been amply self-demonstrated. The admitted attempts to break up public meetings on the part of Power Bureau hecklers and browbeaters during the recent power-bond campaign supplied evidence enough of it. Still more recently the bureau has been placing full-page advertisements in national magazines, over its own signature and of course paid for from public revenues, which are so worded as to give the impression that our inducements to manufacturers and others seeking cheap power and, in fact, the future of Los Angeles itself are dependent upon the Boulder Dam project.

No one discounts the immense potential benefits to this region of the Colorado River undertaking, but to infer that Los Angeles will dry up and blow away if legal or engineering obstacles should develop to make the great enterprise impracticable is apt to have an effect on prospective investors here the opposite of that intended by the composer of these advertisements. The truth about Los Angeles is good enough; it does not need exaggerated circus literature, which often does more harm than good.

As a guide to further reorganization, the inquiry started last summer and halted by the illness of Commissioner Brooks, into the destruction of public records by Power Bureau employees and asserted nonco-operation in the water-bond election of last spring, should be resumed and go to the bottom of all irregularities. The clean-up has started, but it has only started. Let the good work go on, until public confidence in this department has been restored.

FIGHTING BLOOD
Theodore Robinson, nephew of Theodore Roosevelt, who is having a little difficulty with Mexican officials over the changing of a comparatively small sum of money, evidently has plenty of the old "fighting Teddy" spirit. Robinson is a name which stands for honor and integrity throughout the old South, and no doubt he will fight it out if it takes the rest of his life.

CHRISTMAS SEALS
Considering the amount of good done by the Los Angeles Tuberculosis Association, the placing of a health stamp on each Christmas package and card seems an easy way to help along a good cause. The little seals are helping to stamp out the great white plague in America.

SO NEAR AND YET SO FAR
The fine thing about our California snow is that we leave the sunkist atmosphere of the sea level, gaze at and play in the white crystals to our heart's content and then return to the warmth again. But, best of all, we don't have to shovel it unless we want to.

THE LEE SIDE O' LA
By Lee Shippey

THE justly famed Adventurers' Club is on Figueroa street and there one may meet explorers, scientists, gold seekers, oil seekers and soldiers of fortune who have scouted the remote corners of the earth and visited the least-frequented pinpoints of the South Seas. But there is another adventurers' club we find just as interesting, though we never heard anyone call it an adventurers' club. That is the lounge of the Hollywood Plaza Hotel.

The hotel may not like that sobriquet, but it is suggested in all friendliness. There are successful adventurers there—chaps like Ivan Lobedeff, the actor, whose career has been one of the most adventurous of which we ever heard; David Edstrom, the sculptor, and numerous people who have considerable distinction. But for some strange reason it is to the Plaza that many people gravitate who come here from other lands to seek their fortune—people who think they have great ideas and who want to alight in the very thick of things in Hollywood and yet cannot afford to go to the superelegant hotels in which the magnates of Hollywood throw their parties and—sometimes—own stock. If an Egyptian princess or German baron or South American statesman (unattached) or Italian composer with just the opera the sound film needs comes along he is pretty likely, somehow or other, to get to the Plaza.

In that lounge at one time the other day we saw Maria Grever, a favorite composer of Mexico; John Wexley, author of "The Last Mile;" Roland Cailiaux, son of the French Minister of Finance during the World War and of the Mme. Caillaux who created a sensation in France by shooting an editor; a theater manager from Tokio, a young woman story writer just arrived from Cape Town and a metaphysician, who says he is from the high Himalayas and who modestly calls himself "The Master." The latter is said to cure people of their ills and seems to be making a good living at it in "the most sophisticated spot in America."

Still Showing Valentino

Lobedeff recently returned from Paris and reports that the French people don't care for their own talkies, but stand in long lines to get tickets for American talkies. During his five-week stay in Paris the longest line he saw before any theater was in front of one showing an old Valentino film, "L'Aiglon."

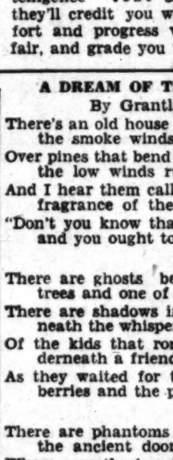
Ever Notice This?

Many business houses and public service corporations invite their patrons to "report any case of discourtesy," but the Southern California Edison Company tries different psychology. On the back of your bill stub, in the small type most of us never stop to read on such important documents, is printed:

"If, at any time, you may be especially pleased with the treatment you receive, it will give us pleasure to have you inform the district manager so that he may have the opportunity of commending the employee."

Thought It Was Merchandise

Now that drug stores really are department stores and restaurants, some of them contain employees who know mighty little about drugs. An Englishman entered a big downtown store the other day and spoke to a clerk in a low voice. The clerk looked helpless a moment, then said: "I'll see, sir." (Have you noticed how all the chain-store drug clerks have learned to stick on that deferential "sir"?) Then the clerk disappeared downstairs to the basement.



The manager observed the performance and was mystified. After waiting a few minutes he went down cellar to see what the clerk was after. He found the young fellow scratching his head perplexedly and staring at a lot of shelves indexed "A."

"What are you looking for?" asked the manager.

"That fellow said he wanted an apothecary," grumbled the clerk. "I suppose, of course, we've got some in stock, but I've looked all through the 'A' section and darned if I can find one anywhere."

Not "Intelligent," But Wise

C. H. claims this week's medal for strategy for his 17-year-old daughter, San. San came home from school and reported they'd had an intelligence test that morning and she'd purposely answered all the questions incorrectly.

"What for?" demanded her perturbed parents.

"Why, if you grade high in an intelligence test the profs will expect a lot from you and will grade you down if they don't get it. But if you flunk on the Intelligence test they'll credit you with wonderful effort and progress when you're only fair, and grade you 'A.'"

A DREAM OF THANKSGIVING
By Grantland Rice

There's an old house in a clearing where the smoke winds thin and blue
Over pines that bend and whisper, where the low winds rustle through,
And I hear them calling to me from the fragrance of the loam;
"Don't you know that it's Thanksgiving and you ought to be at home?"

There are ghosts beneath the maple trees and one of them is mine;
There are shadows in the clearing, beneath the whispering pine,
Of the kids that romped together, underneath a friendly sky,
As they waited for the turkey and the berries and the pie.

There are phantoms in the orchard as the ancient door swings out,
Where a mother's voice is calling and is answered with a shout,
Where the little circle gathered for the feast that waited then,
Through the golden days that vanished and will never come again.

And now from far and far away, beyond the shadows cast,
I hear again lost voices from a day forever past;
Where from the stubble by the lane the larks sang clear and keen,
The reveille of morning when the world was young and clean.

From far away we saw the lights and followed, you and I;
From far away we heard the drums and left a friendly sky;
And now we whisper through the street or from a lonely den:
"God grant we haven't lost the road that leads us back again!"

For the pallid faces haunt us in a land of strife and fears,
As their weary feet go marching down the hopeless length of years;
Where above the sullen murmur and the traffic's endless roar
We can hear lost voices calling from the morning lanes once more.

Where we turn back to the fragrance of the harvest and the loam,
Where we hear the bluebirds singing in the golden air of home,
Or the pine trees bend and whisper as the low winds rustle through
By an old house in the clearing where the smoke winds, thin and blue.

So we'll give our thanks together for the dream by land and sea
Of the shadows in the clearing from a day that used to be;
Of an old Thanksgiving morning that has followed down the years
Where the pallid faces haunt us in the land of strife and fears.

THANKSGIVING

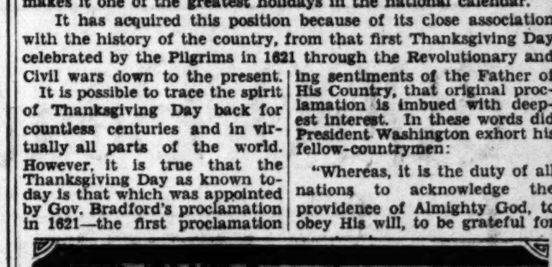
Once a Vagrant, Now a Great and Fixed Holiday

BY HERBERT S. HOLLANDER

Based on festivals which were observed by peoples of antiquity, and even of prehistoric times, Thanksgiving Day as observed in the United States has a unique significance which makes it one of the greatest holidays in the national calendar.

It has acquired this position because of its close association with the history of the country, from that first Thanksgiving Day celebrated by the Pilgrims in 1621 through the Revolutionary and Civil wars down to the present.

It is possible to trace the spirit of Thanksgiving Day back for countless centuries and in virtually all parts of the world. However, it is true that the Thanksgiving Day as known today is that which was appointed by Gov. Bradford's proclamation in 1621—the first proclamation of its kind issued in America. Furthermore, this is the first Thanksgiving celebration in which turkeys were an important part of the festive menu.



Thanksgiving preparations in a New England kitchen 100 years ago.

In order that the day which had been appointed as one of thanksgiving for the plenitude of the harvest and for the graciousness of the Lord in giving his blessing to the colonists in the New World might be a happy one, Gov. Bradford determined that it be marked by a feast, or as much of a feast as was possible under the still trying circumstances.

Although the exact menu of the first Thanksgiving feast of the Pilgrims is not available, authorities have deduced from extant writings a fairly accurate knowledge of what it consisted.

"The provisions must have been bountiful," says the authority, Dr. W. De Loss Love, Jr., "for there were about 140 persons, including the ninety of Massasoit's company, who were entertained for three days. All had their share of supplies. The colonists were divided into households according to convenience and over each some Pilgrim mother presided who was thoroughly skilled in the art of cookery. Various kinds of sea food were at hand. They had made the acquaintance of the oyster, which the Indians were wont to bring them, and who had doubtless made known to them the best varieties of fish.

"And, above all, they had the turkey, of which they found 'a great store' in the forest—the turkey, thus early crowned queen of their bounty, and to which example their descendants, even though they may have failed to imitate them in other respects, have always been loyal."

While Thanksgiving Day did not become an annual holiday—indeed, it did not become such until many years later—one finds many special Thanksgiving days throughout colonial history. For example, in November, 1623, a Thanksgiving Day was set aside because of the unexpected saving of the crops, while eight years later, on February 22, the colonists gave thanks because of the arrival of a relief ship, sorely needed in face of failure of the crops. April 18, 1645, was the occasion for another Thanksgiving Day, with deliverance from an Indian attack the basis.

However, that splendid patriot, Samuel Adams, finally proposed the first national recognition of Thanksgiving when he offered and had accepted in the Continental Congress on November 1, 1777, a form to be used henceforth by that body in the drafting of all national Thanksgiving proclamations. This form was overlooked in some way or other and President Washington drafted another, our first national proclamation, in the year 1789.

The original of this proclamation now reposes safely in the files of the manuscript division of the Library of Congress at Washington after having been missing for many years. Where it was in the interim nobody seems able to determine. It was lost for at least 100 years, when it suddenly was brought to the library's attention among numerous other manuscripts in an advertisement by the American Art Galleries, New York.

According to authorities in the library's manuscript division, the present paper without question is the original first Thanksgiving Proclamation of President Washington. It was quite well preserved and is legibly written. The handwriting, it is said, is that of William Jackson, Washington's secretary, who also had been secretary to the Constitutional Convention in 1787. The signature, unmistakably, is that of George Washington himself. The Great Seal of the United States is absent.

Basing as it has the many Presidential Thanksgiving proclamations which have been issued since, and expressing heartfelt sentiments of the Father of His Country, that original proclamation is imbued with deepest interest. In these words did President Washington exhort his fellow-countrymen:

"Whereas, it is the duty of all nations to acknowledge the providence of Almighty God, to obey His will, to be grateful for His benefits, and humbly to implore His protection and favor. And, whereas, both Houses of Congress have by their joint committee requested me to recommend to the people of the United States a day of public thanksgiving and prayer to be observed by acknowledging with grateful hearts the many signal favors of Almighty God, especially by affording an opportunity peaceably to establish a form of government for their safety and happiness.

"Now, therefore, I do recommend and assign Thursday, the twenty-sixth of November, next, to be devoted by the people of these States to the service of that great and glorious Being, who is the beneficent author of all the good that was, that is, or that will be. That we may then all unite in rendering unto Him our sincere and humble thanks for His kind care and protection of the people of this country prior to their becoming a nation; for the signal and manifold mercies, and the favorable interpositions of his providence in the course and conclusion of the late war; for the great degree of tranquillity, union and plenty which we have since enjoyed; for the peaceable and rational manner in which we have been enabled to establish constitutions of government for our safety and happiness, and particularly the national one now lately instituted; for the civil and religious liberty with which we are blessed, and the means we have of acquiring and diffusing useful knowledge, and in general for all the great and various favors which He hath been pleased to confer upon us."

Although Washington issued the first Presidential Thanksgiving Proclamation his example was not followed by all Presidents until after the time of Abraham Lincoln. From Lincoln's administration to the present, each Chief Executive has issued a proclamation which in spirit parallels that of George Washington.

For a good many years the celebration of Thanksgiving Day was a State rather than a national affair. In 1864, however, President Lincoln issued a proclamation setting aside the fourth Thursday in November as Thanksgiving Day.

The fate of Thanksgiving Day as a national holiday was jeopardized the very next year, however, as a result of the assassination of President Lincoln. In deference to the temper of the grieving nation, President Andrew Johnson was loath to issue a proclamation. "After being prevailed upon," however, he did so, naming the last Thursday in November as the occasion. That custom prevails to this day.

Many State Governors, upon receipt of the President's proclamation, still issue their own, naming the same day.

References to days of thanksgiving at this season are to be found in the earliest of writings, including the Bible. However, the American celebration of Thanksgiving Day bears perhaps closest resemblance to the Harvest Home Festival of England, stemming back to Saxon times. This is still marked in the old-time manner in some sections of England and with rather elaborate ritualistic customs. The festival takes place at the close of the reaping.

Except in times of great distress and need, Thanksgiving is a most joyous occasion and even when the past year has not been as beneficent as all would like the mood of the people on this day is a happy one in recognition of the blessings that have been bestowed and of the good fortune which lies before.

Intensely American in its implications and associations, Thanksgiving rightly has assumed its present rank as one of the greatest of our national holidays. That it is to hold an ever firmer grip upon the minds and affections of the people of this country seems to be its inevitable heritage.

Jasper Jimpson promised that he would come to do my dusting, prune my well-known family tree, and repair the broken doors; "I will come tomorrow morn," said this delegate to the forlorn, "just as sure as I can be in my smock and at the fours." On this Jasper I could depend, but he didn't come; instead some one offered to paint the house with 10 cents more a day; and my chores I have to do myself. I dig and hew, giving him the grain to chew, and the cows with hay. It is an ancient trick, that has long been in the shade; he is always prompt and quick to keep a promise made; on his word I can't depend, so he's without end, and he'll never make the grade. He is dated many things, of all trades but a jack; he can put new springs in a car that's all whack; well as any man he can lay a concrete walk, return bees to their hive, or repair the barn and shed; he can better mow a lawn, but that lawn requires a shave; will toil and sweat and strive, the grasses cease to wave. He has points, this stalwart pard, he has many points, indeed, but he likes to lay the dead to deep, untimely grave. He will promise this and that, and will swear by all the gods that be, come to shear the cat, or to ply the lighting rods; and if you wait and wait, for him, at your garden gate, and you curse that shiftless skate is the type of idle frauds. Jasper's like a forecast, and my mystic lore deep; sometime, in the day of blast, he will have no place to sleep; also, he will have the price of the grub that went to fice; through the year of storm and ice to the poorhouse he will creep.

ADS' BLESSINGS CITED ON RADIO

McKay Declares Results Worthy of Thanks

Coolidge and Hoover Views Quoted by Speaker

Southland Debt to Publicity Emphasized in Talk

Along with other agencies beneficial to mankind, advertising is entitled to a modicum of thanks today, Howard S. McKay sales-manager for Foster & Kleiser Company, yesterday declared in the latest broadcast on the value of advertising arranged by the Los Angeles Advertising Club and sponsored by the University of Southern California.

Mr. McKay, talking over the network of Station KMPC, quoted from an address by former President Coolidge as follows:

"Advertising ministers to the material side of trade. It is a great power for inspiring and ennobling the commercial world. It is all part of the greater work of the regeneration and redemption of mankind. When we stop to consider the role advertising plays in modern lines of production and trade we see that basically it is that of education. It makes new thoughts, new habits, new actions.

HOOVER QUOTED

"By changing the attitude of mind, it changes the material condition of the people."

Mr. McKay also quoted what President Hoover had said in his address on the 10th inst. before the convention of National Advertisers: "By the stimulants of advertising which you administer you have ended the lethargy of the old law of supply and demand until you have transformed cottage industries into mass production. From enormous diffusion of articles and services you cheapen costs and thereby become a part of the dynamic force which creates higher standards of living."

Mr. McKay, resuming his theme which was on the subject, "What Advertising Has Given Us to Be Thankful For," declared that the statement had been made that 95 per cent of humanity lives according to advertisements.

SHOULD GIVE THANKS

"If this is true," said Mr. McKay, "then we all should be thankful for the modern informative force which puts us in such an open and frank opportunity to select those services and commodities which go to make up our daily lives.

"The higher degree of selectivity found us by advertising makes it a most fascinating and democratic force in building civilization.

"To feed, clothe, house, educate, furnish and continue to raise the standards of living of 120,000,000 persons, approximately, in America, by production followed by mass consumption, must be the order of the day.

MASS INFORMATION

"Mass information can best be gained by advertising.

"Before our present era of mass production and consumption it was, in fact, more in reality than in fancy that 'If a man can write a better book, preach a better sermon or make a better mouse trap than his neighbor, though he built his house in the woods, the world would make a beaten path to his door.' How very different now, for unless folk are informed through advertising of the latest devices in mouse traps they will not go out of their way to purchase one.

"Untruthful advertising of any product cannot survive long in America today and the proof that any article possesses the merit claimed for it is traceable in the increased advertising over a period of years.

CAN FEEL AT EASE

"Of course, there are products that are new on the market, but fair-minding mediums study these products and their claims before accepting the copy and the sincerity of even these newcomers in the field, whose copy you observe, is usually generally be believed.

"Thus you can be thankful and feel perfectly at ease in letting modern advertising register with you whether you are conscious of its doing so or not.

"A rather amusing incident illustrative of this statement is that we are told that American tourists, while entering the Mediterranean, are enjoined to find that the agent of the Prudential Life Insurance Company is not actually perched on the Rock of Gibraltar. They get nearer home, for example, when California's progress is a splendid example of advertising achievement. I dare say advertising has brought many of you who are living in to Southern California, and will bring many others, and many of your friends yet to come.

"Again I repeat: It is fitting that at this time of the year we give thanks to advertising from which such wonderful blessings flow.'"

Railway Fares Will Be Cut

Railroads operating eastbound from California yesterday announced low rate summer excursion fares to all eastern territory during the summer season 1931, tickets to be on sale daily from May 22 to September 15, inclusive, bearing final return limit October 31, 1931. Fares will be only slightly higher than those for the round trip. Stopovers will be allowed at all points going and return trips and passengers may either use same route or different or return via different route than that used via going trip.

This is but another instance of what the railroads are doing toward offering excursion fares for the benefit of their patrons in California. Low fares will be made for visitors and others making westbound trips to California during the summer season 1931.

MISS DE VOE'S PLEA DATE SET

Clara Bow's ex-Secretary to Appear Monday

She's Freed in $1000 Bond After Arraignment

Taking $16,000 Charged to Former Assistant

Charged with thirty-seven counts of grand theft of funds asserted to belong to Clara Bow, Miss Daisy De Voe, former secretary to the actress, was arraigned before Superior Judge Wood yesterday and released under $1000 bond.

Judge Wood set Monday at 2 p.m. as the time for her plea. At that time the judge will fix the time of trial and name the court in which it will be conducted.

TRUE NAME GIVEN

While in court Miss De Voe stated her true name is Miss Daisy De Roe, explaining that she changed the name to De Voe while employed as Miss Bow's secretary because the similarity of their names caused considerable confusion.

The girl was indicted by the county grand jury Tuesday after she had appeared voluntarily and told her side of the story. The indictment came as a climax to a controversy between the actress and her former secretary, which has been in progress for more than a fortnight.

Existence of the quarrel between the two was first disclosed when Miss De Voe was taken into custody by investigators from the District Attorney's office and the contents of her safety deposit vault seized.

LARGE SUM INVOLVED

Miss Bow charged Miss De Voe had left her employ taking numerous personal effects which she did not own.

Miss De Voe in turn charged the officers had seized numerous personal articles when they opened the safety deposit box and filed a civil suit demanding their return and asking damages.

The grand jury inquiry followed. The true bill accuses Miss De Voe of misappropriating approximately $16,000 in small sums from Miss Bow's special bank account.

STATE CODE FUND PLEA RENEWED

Eastman Heads Group in Petition to County to Aid Building Program

Headed by George L. Eastman, a committee appeared before the Board of Supervisors yesterday urging the county to appropriate $10,000 to assist in the financing of a new State Building Code which is being sponsored by the State Chamber of Commerce. The formal request to the board for the money was made several months ago and was referred to County Counsel Mattoon to determine whether the county can make the appropriation legally.

Eastman was accompanied by David Witmer, president of the Architects' Association of Southern California; Melville Dozier, manager of the Associated General Contractors, and A. H. Beck of the State Chamber of Commerce.

"The work of compiling a new State building code has been going on for a year and a half," Eastman declared. "Some of the best brains in the architectural profession in California have been working on it. It is a piece of constructive work that will have a deep effect upon insurance rates and construction costs. It will not be necessary for the county to turn the $10,000 over in a lump. It can dole it out in portions as the work progresses."

PROMOTER STANDS ON CHARACTER

Gilbert Johnson Bases Fraud Charge Defense on Former Reputation

The case of Gilbert S. Johnson, wealthy California and Texas oil promoter now on trial before a jury in United States District Judge Cosgrave's court on a charge of using the mails to defraud in connection with the promotion of his various oil companies, yesterday resumed testimony by the presentation of numerous affidavits relating to the character and reputation of Johnson.

Among the affidavits introduced by David H. Cannon and H. L. Arterberry, defense counsel, were a large number from bankers and other business men of Fort Worth, Tex., in which the affiants stated that Johnson had always fulfilled his obligations with them and that they held him in high esteem.

Testimony in the case will be resumed on tomorrow, when it is expected that defense evidence will be completed.

BANDIT GAGS AND ROBS WOMAN IN HER HOME

Gaining entrance to the home of Mrs. Florence Orozco at 4553 Hammel street through a ruse, a Mexican bandit late Tuesday night bound and gagged his victim and escaped when he became frightened while ransacking the house. Mrs. Orozco reported to the Sheriff's office that the man inquired for her husband and on being informed he was not at home wrote a note, but instead of giving it to her grabbed her and bound and gagged her with a cloth. The intruder became alarmed and fled when a neighbor drove his automobile into the yard. Mrs. Orozco reported the loss of $5.

L HOLD IFT FOR CHRISTMAS DELIVERY

JURY RECESSES IN PORTER QUIZ

Investigators to Resume Hearing Monday

Mayor's Election Fund May Be Aired

Campaign Manager Put on Witness Stand

After apparently laying the foundation for its previously announced investigation of Mayor Porter's campaign expenses, the county grand jury adjourned at noon yesterday until next Monday, when, it was declared, more witnesses will be summoned as a part of the jury's inquiry into municipal conditions.

Witnesses yesterday included Albert Sherman, local attorney, who served as campaign manager for Porter during the last Mayoralty election; Miss Mamie Whitehill, Sherman's secretary, and Mearl Allen, also a Porter campaign worker and later a city investigator.

Sherman, it was learned, was questioned at length concerning a check for $500 that was written in August, 1929, by S. R. Roseberg, oil man, to make up a deficit in the Porter campaign fund. Miss Whitehill's name was declared to have appeared as an indorsement on the same check, and she was called to identify her signature.

The testimony of Sherman, Miss Whitehill and Allen was all assertedly taken by the grand jurors as they sought to ascertain if any contributions were made upon promises that certain appointments would be made to the Board of Harbor Commissioners.

"I told them all I knew," said Sherman when he emerged from the jury room. "Some checks were received to cover a campaign deficit, but I know of no promises of appointments made in connection with these contributions."

When the grand jury meets next week it was said yesterday that they also propose to investigate assertions that an irregular proceeding was indulged in in an attempt to obtain a license for a Hollywood pawnshop.

PLANTING OF TREES HELD PATRIOTIC

City Beautifiers Cite Need for Recovering Denuded Areas

Tree planting and the reforestation of waste areas was urged as one of the highest acts of patriotism by speakers at a meeting of the Los Angeles League of City Beautifiers at the Biltmore yesterday. Necessity for the preservation of the forests of the West especially was stressed.

The meeting was in charge of Mrs. Olga Shuey, head of the league, and among the speakers were L. E. Behymer and H. E. Rasmussen. Mr. Rasmussen, widely known horticulturist, asserted that the future of agriculture depends greatly upon the reforestation of denuded areas and the preservation of natural forests.

"For the cities I would advocate the planting of trees in every available space," he asserted. "There are many kinds of trees that would flourish in Los Angeles, which we do not now have. Every occasion should be taken to plant some kind of a tree in the yards of homes, along the streets and highways and along the railroad right of ways."

The next meeting of the league will be held at the Biltmore December 10. The musical program at yesterday's meeting was arranged by Mme. Emma Loeffler De Zaruba, founder of the Pleiades Club.

Half of Actor's 180 Day Term in Jail Suspended

Stafford C. Campbell, actor, of 1933 North Bronson street, was sentenced to serve 180 days in the City Jail by Municipal Judge Stafford yesterday following his conviction on vagrancy charges. Judge Stafford suspended ninety days of the sentence on condition that Campbell leave the city as soon as he has served the other ninety days.

In imposing the sentence the court declared it imposed the maximum "because the records show that this man has already been granted leniency on a similar charge and has failed to take advantage of the opportunity given him to straighten up." Campbell was convicted when several girls testified that he forced them to disrobe and made improper advances to them when they went to his downtown office seeking jobs as models.

'Announcer' on Trolley Cars Tells Streets

Persons unfamiliar with the location of Los Angeles streets no longer will have to inquire their whereabouts while riding in street cars, if a device demonstrated here yesterday is accepted as practicable by company officials. The device is an automatic street announcer and was tried out for the first time yesterday on a Franklin-avenue car of the Pacific Electric.

Mechanism of the contrivance is geared to the wheels of the car so that when they move a roll of motion-picture film moves proportionately with them. As the car approaches a street the street name appears at the lower part of two screens, one at either end of the car and visible to all aboard. The name moves slowly upward, disappearing only when the car resumes its journey after a stop. The next street then appears.

Walter D. Hawk, former Chicago attorney, now living here, is the inventor.

Of Interest to Women

Society

by JUANA NEAL LEVY

One of the prettily appointed weddings of the Thanksgiving season was that of last evening when Miss Dolly May Findlay, daughter of Mrs. Isabelle Findlay, became the bride of Edward Arnold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Arnold, the ceremony taking place in St. John's Church, West Adams and Figueroa streets, with Rev. George Davidson officiating. The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, William E. Kinsey, was charming in a gown of silver white satin, the veil of tulle being held in place by a ruche of rhinestones and orange blossoms. She carried a shower of white rosebuds, orchids and lilies of the valley. Miss Marginese Shoemaker, maid of honor, wore blue chiffon and carried yellow roses while the matron of honor, Mrs. Emilio de Lavigne, wore blue taffeta and carried peach sweet peas. Other attendants, Miss Louise Goodman, Miss Freda Mae Harvey and Mrs. Charles Breer, wore blue crepe and carried peach-hued rosebuds.

Louis Arnold served as best man and Emilio de Lavigne, Don Moses, Charles Kientop and Alfred Figueroa, ushered.

A reception and supper at the Mary Louise followed the ceremony, seventy guests being bidden, after which Mr. and Mrs. Arnold left on their wedding trip. They will make their home here.

The wedding is the culmination of a romance which started when both Mr. Arnold and his bride were students at Los Angeles High School, from which they were later graduated.

One of the charming features of the wedding was the two songs which Cardell Bishop sang preceding the ceremony.

Mrs. Arnold is the grand-daughter of the late John Robson, pioneer realty dealer and subdivider of Los Angeles, while Mr. Arnold is the grandson of the late Augustus Koppes, consul of Luxemburg.

Passing Winter Here

Mr. and Mrs. F. Harold Freman, who are passing the winter at the Los Angeles Country Club, will be the hosts at a dinner-dance Saturday evening at the club. Mrs. Freman entertained with a charmingly appointed bridge-luncheon last Friday. After passing a year abroad, the Fremans returned to their summer home in Oregon before their arrival in this city.

Old-Fashioned Party

The Los Angeles alumnae of Chi Omega will give an old-fashioned Christmas party the evening of December 3 at the chapter house, 708 Hilgard avenue, Westwood. Laurel McMahon is in charge of reservations for a buffet supper which will be served in the early evening with the Colorado and Southern chapters as hostesses.

Regular alumnae luncheons are given the last Wednesday of each month at the Aileen Tea Room in the Brack Shops.

For Bride-elect

Mrs. Reybock Lewis and Miss Marion Willoman were hostesses at a delightful tea given recently at Mrs. Lewis's Pasadena home in honor of Miss Dorothy Rousseau, fiancee of Hart Miller of San Diego. The guests, all members of Kappa Kappa Gamma, surprised the honoree with a linen shower. Those attending were the Misses Janet Boughton, Billy Youngworth, Lucy Guild, Emily Childs, Billy Belport, Helen Galbreth, Mary Morley, Margaret Miller, Virginia Sherman, Virginia Rowe, Katherine Brown, Melda Platt and Marion Munson.

The bride-elect was the honoree at a luncheon given Tuesday by Miss Louise Gair at her home in Van Ness avenue, and she will be complimented Saturday with a bridge-tea to be given by Miss Janet Boughton at the Wilshire County Club.

Betrothal Told

Pledges of Tri Zeta Sorority were hostesses at an informal bridge party given the 14th inst. for the active members at the home of Miss Dorothy Hensen, 1747½ West Thirty-eighth street, when announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Lilian Coryell to Frank Doyle. Another feature of the event was the presentation by the pledges of a gavel to the sorority president, Mrs. Margie Ford.

Luncheon

Phi Eta, national teachers' sorority, members of which are mothers of Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity men, enjoyed a Thanksgiving luncheon at the chapter house, 904 West Twenty-eighth street, the 20th inst., which was followed by a business meeting.

Hill-Harwood

Announcement is made of the recent marriage of Miss Eleanor Hill, daughter of Mrs. William Holman Hill, 2316 Observatory avenue, to Dr. Edwin Martyn Harwood of Hollywood. The marriage was solemnized by Dr. James Hamilton Lash at the home of the bride's mother in the presence of the immediate families. An attractive gown of peach lace was worn by the bride, and she carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies. Gold and rust chrysanthemums were used effectively in the decoration scheme.

The bride is the grand-daughter of the late John Robson, pioneer realty dealer of Los Angeles while Mr. Arnold is the grandson of the late Aughstus Koppes, Consul to Luxemburg, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Arnold, his father having extensive land holdings in Mexico.

The bride was graduated from Radcliffe College and Mr. Harwood's alma mater is Pomona College.

Chef Wyman's RECIPES

Every Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

GINGER COOKIES

Sift four cupfuls of flour with half a cupful of sugar, one level tablespoonful of ginger, one teaspoonful of cloves and half a teaspoonful of salt, add to this one-half a cupful of melted shortening, and one cupful of molasses, work to a smooth dough, roll out on a floured board, cut with a small cutter, prick with a fork and bake in a quick oven.

OYSTER BOUILLON

Take one quart of oysters and their liquor, and bring to a boil. Skim out the oysters, and chop fine, return to the saucepan, add four cupfuls of water, one teaspoonful of celery seed, and one tablespoonful of butter; simmer slowly for thirty minutes. Strain through a fine cheese cloth, pour into hot bouillon cups, season with salt and paprika, and serve at once.

SCALLOPED POTATOES WITH CHEESE

Four cupfuls of sliced cooked potatoes, three tablespoonfuls of butter, three tablespoonfuls of flour, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of paprika, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of dry mustard, two and one-half cupfuls of milk, one and one-half cupfuls of grated cheese, one-half a teaspoonful of salt. Place the butter in a double boiler, add the flour and when it bubbles, slowly stir in the milk, then add the seasonings and the cheese, and stir until dissolved. Oil a baking dish, place half of the potatoes in it, cover with half of the sauce than add the remainder of the potatoes and sauce. Sprinkle with brown buttered bread crumbs and bake in a moderate oven.

GINGER BREAD WAFFLES

Sift two cupfuls of flour twice with one and one-half teaspoonfuls of ginger, one-half a teaspoonful of cinnamon, and one-half a teaspoonful of salt. Heat until hot, but not boiling, one cupful of molasses and add to it one third of a cupful of butter, remove from the fire and beat in to the butter and molasses, one level teaspoonful of soda. Add half a cupful of sour milk, combine with the flour mixture, adding two well-beaten eggs, bake in a hot waffle iron.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

She Knows Her Business

The wise housewife tries to have a most attractive menu for dinner on the day she has spent galivanting. She prepares her vegetables, salad and dessert before leaving in the morning and the chops or sirloin steak for her quick-cooking meal. There seems to be a general slump about most husbands when Mrs. Wife goes on a day's outing, but a good meal just about makes things all right.

A Varied Menu

Make a list of the dishes most popular in your household and refer to it when puzzled over what to have for dinner. You will find your table will have more variety than when you trust to your memory and unconsciously get into a rut and have the same things over and over again.

Some Psychology

Don't get up each morning with an ugly, blue feeling about how much you must do that day. Plan your work systematically and go to it with some spirit, counting off the accomplished jobs, not the ones yet to do. Your mental attitude can seriously affect your physical work if you are beaten before you start.

Safer Ink

One mother who has several children of school age has discovered by buying a 5-cent box of bluing and mixing it very strong in a little water and placing it in an empty ink bottle, she has an ink that causes no damage if spilled on clothes or covers. It will wash out with one washing.

Health and Diet

ADVICE

by DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

SELECTING A RESTAURANT DIET

Those who are trying to eat their way to better health will usually find that the up-to-date restaurant or cafeteria offers an amazing variety of health foods. It is usually easier to select the right kind of food from a large assorted list than it is to eat in a boarding house, where there is only the choice of a few foods.

The home should be the place where you may obtain just the foods which are good for you, but unfortunately it often happens that other members of the family are not in sympathy with your diet and this makes it difficult to get the foods you wish, or unpleasant discussions arise while you are eating.

Many restaurant owners have installed McCoy menus in addition to their regular menus. They serve special dinners according to the menus published every Friday in this paper. In doing this, they give an added service to their patrons and undoubtedly attract many people who would otherwise spend their money in other eating places. Good food and good service are attractions which will cause people to walk or drive many blocks out of their way. Cafeterias are rapidly coming to the front by offering a wide selection of wholesome foods from which one may select those appear most appetizing and combine best.

Restaurants and cafeterias will be able to do an enormous amount of good by keeping up with the public's interest in vital wholesome foods. I think it would be a good plan for restaurant owners to hand their patrons small pamphlets, telling about the food values of the different foods they serve. A good curative diet calls for fresh salads and well-cooked nonstarchy vegetables and properly cooked meat. Meats baked in large pieces are more wholesome and better flavored than the small cuts baked at home.

Most restaurants keep a supply of lettuce, tomatoes and celery crisp on ice the year around and you can often in the winter season get a better salad at the restaurant than at home, for the restaurant is more likely to have the out-of-season vegetables.

Many people think they cannot follow a diet when they eat in restaurants. As a matter of fact, this is the easiest way to go on a diet, as hundreds of patients have found that they were able to overcome their troubles completely while taking every meal in restaurants. It is easier for them to stick to a diet when eating out than to adhere to the same diet at home. The reason is that while dieting at home there is always some one to say, "Come on, have a little taste of this, it won't hurt you."

While using a diet in a restaurant it is generally better to eat a la carte, as in this way you can get just what you want. You people who eat away from home should resolve to begin today to train yourselves into better eating habits. Use my menus which are published every Friday in this paper, and then go to your favorite restaurant, sit at your favorite table, and order wholesome foods. Eat them in a pleasant environment, and I believe you will be satisfied with your meal, confident that you have dined on the foods which will build a stronger, healthier body for you.

BULL GUMS UP STREET TRAFFIC

Police Officer Gets Bully Rough Ride

They Kept Him Out of China Shop
Policeman Richard Simon astride of stock show prize and Tex Madison of Board of Trade.

TRAFFIC jams are not infrequent in downtown Los Angeles, but the first one caused by a Hereford bull with a pedigree longer than an English Earl's took place yesterday morning at Seventh and Broadway. The bull had come from the stockyards, and was to have been introduced to the president of the Los Angeles Board of Trade. A wheel of his vehicle came off and the animal was precipitated out on the street car tracks.

There ensued plenty of confusion and trouble. The accident took place right in front of a safety zone and there were screams and scurryings. A street car was blocked in its progress and the traffic officers took a hand. The bull started to jaywalk and was arrested, but was finally released on promise of good behavior and more seemly conduct in the future.

The bull that played this major role is one of the prize animals to be shown at the Christmas live-stock show and rodeo, which will open Saturday at the Union Stock Yards. Twenty-four herds of Herefords, two of Shorthorns and two of Aberdeen Angus, fresh from triumphs in the show rings of the biggest stock expositions of the nation, are to be here. A train-load of these titled bovine aristocrats will arrive in Los Angeles at 9:30 this morning by special train direct from Kansas City, where they have been contesting for honors at the American Royal Stock Show.

This evening at 5 o'clock, W. T. Montgomery, president of the American Hereford Cattle Breeders' Association; R. J. Kinzer, secretary of the same organization; R. P. Lamont, Jr., son of the United States Secretary of Commerce, and other distinguished people will arrive to attend the show.

Word has been received that faculty members of the University of California left the college farm at Davis today for the Los Angeles show.

Elaborate arrangements are under way at the yards for the reception of both live stock and visitors by Saturday morning.

Military Unit of Manual Arts Highly Honored

With impressive military ceremonies attended by the justly proud student body, the War Department's ribbon of honor was presented formally yesterday to the Reserve Officers' Training Corps unit of Manual Arts High School. Maj. William R. Wilson, U.S.A., in charge of cadet training at the institution, presented the award, which was accepted in behalf of his battalion by Cadet Major John Ashford. The ribbon was then attached to the colors to ripple in the breeze with three other similar decorations awarded the unit in 1921, 1928 and 1929.

Preceding the presentation, the unit paraded in review before Maj Wilson and Arthur Gould, assistant Superintendent of City Schools.

Manual Arts High School's cadet corps is one of the eight R.O.T.C. units in the Ninth Corps Area awarded the honor rating this year, and the only one in the area which has been so acclaimed four times. Two other local high schools also rank as honor schools this year, namely, Los Angeles and Hollywood.

Veterans Select Beauty Winners

Beauty contest winners were picked last night at the ball given at the Alexandria by Camp No. 1, Independent Order of Veterans, when Miss Estelle Essex, 1819 West Twenty-fifth street, was awarded the first prize. Fritzi Ludwig, 6500 West Yucca street, was given second prize and Miss Hazel Zimmerman, 566 West Mar Vista avenue, was awarded third.

Rheba Crawford presented new stands of colors to the camp. Several hundred couples attended the affair.

ANGELENO TO ATTACK "INSULT WILL" OF IOWAN

A magnificent public library on whose premises no woman shall ever be permitted to trespass and on whose shelves no work of woman shall ever rest is provided for in the strange will of Townsend M. Zink, sometime Los Angeles visitor, who died in Le Mars, Iowa, last September. Zink's provision in the will that across the portals of the edifice shall be emblazoned the legend, "No Woman Admitted," is believed by his daughter, a resident of this city, to be an insult to womanhood and she will leave shortly for Iowa to invoke the law to stop the project.

Zink, eccentric attorney, student of philosophy and occasional Le Mars newspaper communist, died at the age of 72 years. Six weeks before his death he wrote the strange will. It devotes virtually his entire estate, estimated as upward of $50,000, to perpetuation of his hatred of woman. A trust fund is to be created and at the end of seventy-five years the several millions of dollars to which the fund shall have increased is to be used to set up in Le Mars this thing which his daughter Margretta believes to be a monumental insult to womanhood.

Into it will go his own splendid library of choicest philosophical works, valued at many thousands of dollars. No man who is a member of any religious organization is to be permitted to have anything to do with the creation of the library.

Zink was married twice. His first wife bore him his only child, a girl, and great was his disappointment. Always he entertained a dislike for most women, in maturing years it grew to hatred and finally to what the daughter described as an obsession. However, after some years as a widower he married a widow, but made a prenuptial agreement with her that neither should inherit the property of the other.

At an age when other little girls were reading Alice in Wonderland and later the Alcott stories, Margretta was handed the works of Voltaire, Haeckel and such to study at home. The revolt came when she was handed the philosophy of Nietzsche. In his will her father cut her off with but $5.

As to what started Zink upon his deep aversion to women, in the opinion of the daughter, now a woman of middle age and long since married and of another name, it is a question that had best be left to alienists.

THANKFUL SPIRIT SHOULD BE PRESENT DESPITE TEMPORARY MISFORTUNES

This past year has been such a difficult period that the spirit of Thanksgiving springs but feebly to life. Economic stress, sickness, general business depression, and fears for the future have laid their heavy burdens all over the land. If one is seeking to discover a beam of cheer and a real cause for thanksgiving, one can certainly give heart-felt thanks that these somewhat dubious blessings are in the past. The future looks brighter.

It is human nature for each person to look upon his own misfortunes as insufferable. We all want to know why we should have trouble, why we should not be able to afford fur coats and luxurious cars and winter trips, why the Joneses should have it all while we have only enough to eat, why we should be sick and others healthy.

MRS. LESSING'S STORY

When one is inclined to sing a peevish song of discontent, it might be profitable to consider Mrs. Lessing. Mrs. Lessing was a widow who did washings. She had been a widow from the time her children, two beautiful daughters, were 4 or 5 years old. She told vividly of those past days when she had had to go to work in the morning, shutting those two babies in the house, leaving a pot of coffee on the stove and hunks of buttered break and jam for their lunch. The 5-year-old took care of the 4-year-old and some way they escaped disaster and grew up into delicate, black-eyed sprites of girls, the almost holy pride of their devoted mother. Her life revolved about them, and she was even prouder than the average mother, for their survival was the result of her own tireless effort.

Gisella, the younger, was afflicted with diabetes. At 15 the disease grew by leaps and bounds. In those days insulin was still unknown and the preservation of her life depended upon daily weighing and measuring every mouthful she ate, and on a constant vigilance to keep the sugar from reaching alarming proportions. Her mother worked all day, energetically turning out huge washings and ironings, and then hurried home to give the child this really scientific care.

STARK TRAGEDY

Eventually Mignon, then 17, sickened, and the doctors advised a removal to another less severe climate. Mrs. Lessing gathered her poor belongings, gave up her customers, and hied herself to an unknown city to start out all over again. In a year Gisella was dead. Then Mignon, the dread consumption having got too firm a hold, died also. Perhaps the long years of grinding poverty, insufficient food and fresh air were all responsible, but the fact remained that in two years this poor widow was bereft of all that had made life worth living and struggling for.

It seems to me that no one should have to suffer that much in one life. The desire for material possessions and keeping up with the Joneses become silly and wicked in the face of such stark, unrelieved tragedy. Almost any of us, if we ponder upon the Mrs. Lessings of the world, can find innumerable things for which to be sincerely thankful.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

A Bedtime Story

JERRY GROWS MORE SUSPICIOUS

'Tis often true the more you know
The faster will suspicions grow.
—Jerry Muskrat.

Jerry Muskrat daily grew more suspicious. He would have told you that he was too old and had lived through too much not to be suspicious. Anyway he didn't like the way a certain boy hung around the Smiling Pool and along the Laughing Brook when Farmer Brown's boy wasn't about. Usually it was very early in the morning or just before dark when Farmer Brown's boy was busy with his chores that the stranger was seen by Jerry Muskrat.

Always after the stranger left Jerry visited the places where he had seen the stranger and with the greatest care looked for traps. He had a feeling in his bones that sooner or later he would find traps. The fact that he didn't find them didn't make him any the less suspicious.

Then after one of these late afternoon visits by the stranger Jerry found some pieces of apple at one of his favorite landing spots. Patiently and carefully he searched for a trap. Satisfied that no trap was there he landed and sampled the apple. And while he nibbled he did a lot of thinking and his suspicions grew. Why had that apple been put there?

He said nothing about it to Mrs. Jerry. Why worry her? He said nothing about it to any of his children. He knew that they would not heed a warning of possible danger and would be only too eager to share in the feast should more apple be placed there. After the next visit of the stranger Jerry found more apple there. That same evening one of the young Muskrats reported a find of the same kind near a certain half-sunken log.

"What did you do with it?" asked Jerry.

"Ate it," replied the youngster promptly.

"You would," replied Jerry, "but did you first look for traps?"

"Traps!" exclaimed the youngster scornfully. "Why should I look for traps? Never has there been a trap there, so why should I look for one now?"

"Never has there been apple there before, so why should there have been any there tonight?" retorted Jerry. The youngster pretended not to hear this.

A few nights later some pieces of carrot were found along the Laughing Brook, and the finders feasted on them. Jerry's suspicions and uneasiness grew. He knew that these good things were left by that strange boy. Farmer Brown's boy had often left goodies in this manner, usually in hard times. Perhaps this strange boy was also doing it out of kindness. Perhaps, but Jerry had a feeling that it was nothing of the kind.

So Jerry kept watch and did his best to make his children feel as he did. This, however, he couldn't succeed in doing. Secretly they laughed at him. They said that he was growing old and nervous. They were unafraid, for nothing serious had ever happened to any of them. So they said nothing when they found apples and carrots near favorite landings of theirs, but greedily ate what they found without taking time or trouble to look for traps.

"We never have seen one and we wouldn't know one if we saw it, so why bother to look?" said one young Muskrat, and his brothers and sister seemed to feel the same way. Only one, a timid one, took any particular care when scrambling up at one of these landings in quest of the goodies so often found there these days.

Meanwhile the weather was growing colder and Jerry and Mrs. Jerry were looking forward to the day when the Smiling Pool would be covered with ice and the youngsters would have little opportunity to go where traps might be.

Chef Wyman Will Feature Request Dishes

Although some housewives won't be particularly interested in the preparation of food on the day after Thanksgiving, still Chef Wyman is giving a "request program" at the Los Angeles Times free cooking school tomorrow, which contains much of interest to every home maker.

As the feature of the demonstration she will make an angel food cake and after watching its preparation every woman will be able to duplicate it with a deliciously light and fluffy cake. On her program is an uusual pudding, a farina fruit pudding, and two very substantial dishes, Spanish macaroni and a meat loaf that can be served either hot or cold. She will also make a persimmon salad. This class begins promptly at 2 p.m. and The Times will be glad to have every woman interested in cooking come to the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway, tomorrow.

At this class the printed recipes for the complete Thanksgiving dinner demonstrated at last Friday's cooking school will be given out, and they contain unusual recipes which are suitable for any holiday menu.

Mayan Explorer to Give Lecture

Robert Stacy-Judd, architect, engineer and explorer, will give his first public lecture on his recent trip through the jungles of Yucatan December 5 at 2:30 p.m. in Barker Brothers auditorium. "Exploring Mysterious Yucatan" is the name he gives the travelogue in which he shows with motion pictures and stills the Maya district.

In the spring of 1930 Stacy-Judd with two Maya guides went into the wilds of Yucatan in order to investigate the ruins of the Maya civilization. He obtained pictures of many of the gigantic structures that never before have been photographed.

STENCH-BOMB PLOTTING TOLD

Asserted Confession Links Theater Union With Job

Officer-Witness Gives Story at Preliminary Hearing

Five Charged With Being Principals in Conspiracy

Charles E. Rogers confessed that Assistant Business Manager Thomas W. Armentrout of the motion-picture projectionists' union, gave him chemicals for and helped him prepare stench bombs placed in a downtown theater, Police Officer Phelps testified in Municipal Judge Baird's court yesterday.

Armentrout, Rogers, his brother-in-law; Charles Gray, Frank S. Higgins and Mrs. Cora Lane are undergoing preliminary hearing on conspiracy charges.

Armentrout told Rogers to hire persons to place the stench bombs, and promised to pay $5 for each bomb placed, Phelps said Rogers admitted. According to Detective-Lieutenant Hynes, head of the police intelligence division, the outrage was perpetrated after the proprietor of the theater refused to accede to a demand by Armentrout's union that he employ five union men instead of two to operate his projecting machines.

Catherine Reynolds, ticket taker at the theater, told of the "terrible odor" which followed the exploding of the stench bomb on the 15th inst. Mrs. Grace Blandford, manager of the hotel where all of the defendants except Armentrout resided, declared a similar odor pervaded her hotel on the same day and that officers who investigated found traces of the bombs. Next day, she said, she found in the trash can the materials from which the bombs were made.

The hearing, unfinished yesterday, was continued until tomorrow morning by Judge Baird.

ARGUMENTS IN KIRK CASE UNDER WAY

Hearing of Son's Petition for Guardianship of Mother Approaches Close

Argument began late yesterday in the hearing of Norman T. Kirk's petition to have a guardianship appointed for his 80-year-old mother, Mrs. Laura Jane Kirk, widow of John E. Kirk, inventor of harvesters. Both sides rested following conferences in Superior Judge Hazlett's chambers which gave rise to a report that a compromise has been effected. This report was contradicted when the final examination of witnesses was resumed, Kirk and his wife, Mrs. Theresa Kirk, taking the stand.

Attorney Earl Wakeman began argument for the son, dwelling on his contention that the elder Mrs. Kirk is incompetent to manage the remnant of her inherited fortune, which he asserts has shrunk from $250,000 to $85,000. The son's attorney contended that Kirk had treated his mother with dutiful kindness and that in return she had vanished from his home in 1929, hiding herself for five days.

Mrs. Kirk is confined by a hip fracture to the home of Assistant Postmaster Andrews of South Pasadena, at 1030 Stratford avenue, and has not been in court during the current sessions. Judge Hazlett held hearings Monday and Tuesday in the Andrews' home, at which Mrs. Kirk testified, seated in a wheelchair.

She testified readily regarding dates and incidents and particularly concerning sending her son Norman sums totaling approximately $30,000. These were to be loaned out at interest, she contends. The son asserts the money was a gift. At yesterday's session he was put on to testify that the dates his mother named so glibly were erroneous, but Judge Hazlett ended this line of testimony and called for argument.

Mrs. Kirk's attorney, W. C. Snyder and John C. Stick, will conclude argument tomorrow.

RULING ON WILL REVERSED

Court of Appeal Grants New Trial in Battle Over $200,000 Estate of Charles Yale

Litigation over the division of the $200,000 estate of Charles Yale, who died September 6, 1927, at 81 years of age, is decided in favor of the proponents of the will in a decision handed down yesterday by Division One, District Court of Appeal.

The appeal arose out of a petition for the revocation of an order admitting Yale's last will and testament to probate. The will bequeathed sums of $100 and $1000 to various relatives and the remainder of the estate to business associates of the deceased man.

A jury in Superior Judge Archbald's court decided in favor of the contestants on the issue of mental incompetency. The Superior Court dismissed the contest as to two of the contestants because they were not parties interested therein, granted a motion by the will proponents for a new trial and denied a motion, also by the will proponents, for a judgment, notwithstanding the verdict of the jury. These court rulings and other parts of the judgment were attacked in the appeal.

The Apellate Court found that the record failed to show any mental incompetency, or, at least, any incompetency to make a will. It also found that there was no proof in the record to sustain the contention of the contestants that Ethelyn Miller Grisier or Richard Miller, children of Yale's sister, are parties to the contest.

The upper court also affirmed the motion granting a new trial and reversed the Superior Court's order denying a judgment in favor of the will proponents notwithstanding the verdict of the jury.

Justice York wrote the opinion. Presiding Justice Conrey and Justice Hollzer, pro tem, concurred.

PORT FUNDS TO BE ASKED IN CONGRESS

Federal Improvements at Harbor Proposed by Chamber Directorate

Early improvement in certain of the United States government's facilities at Los Angeles Harbor, was urged yesterday by the board of directors of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, who suggested immediate Congressional appropriations to cover the expense of the needs outlined.

Following are the recommendations:

Increase in the personnel of the local United States Public Health Relief Station and the local United States Immigration Station;

Purchasing land and erecting a marine hospital in the harbor area;

Erection of an adequate quarantine station;

Increased detention and office facilities for the local United States Immigration Station.

In submitting the matter before the directors, Eugene Overton, chairman of the harbor and foreign commerce committee, said that his group has been working on a study of harbor problems for several months in association with the Marine Service Bureau, the organization composed of vessel operators at the port. The latter organization recently passed resolutions similar to those indorsed by the chamber yesterday.

Better Business Outlook Sighted

Continued improvement in the Los Angeles business situation was prophesied yesterday by George W. Stackman, western division manager of American Bosch Magneto Corporation.

"I find a very healthy condition all through the country back of Los Angeles, which will, of course, quickly be reflected in local sales," said Stackman.

"We are much encouraged at the general situation," said Stackman. "In radio, we believe an informed public is rapidly making unsound business methods unprofitable."

Bosch radio officials are well satisfied with the situation in the West, Stackman said.

Little Cripples Feted by Shrine

Eighty crippled children in wards of the Los Angeles General Hospital yesterday afternoon were treated to a Thanksgiving dinner and entertained with a program sponsored by Al Malaikah Shrine.

A twenty-pound turkey with all the Thanksgiving "trimmin's" was placed before the little cripples while Mrs. Maurice Raymond entertained them with harp selections.

Later, her husband, Raymond the Great, magician, mystified the youngsters with his full program of tricks. Members of the Shrine who directed the afternoon program are M. W. Lillard, P. S. Beiger and C. A. Hawley.

Schools Called Thanks Cause

"There never was a period in our national life when there is more to be grateful for than there is today," Dr. C. N. Thomas told a group of students and teachers at Washington High School yesterday. "Our nation, with its republican form of government, is becoming more efficient every year. Our educational system is bigger and better than at any time in our history.

"In all the centuries there never was a youth so well developed physically, and so capable and full of promise as the youth of today. Another thing for which we should be grateful is that our courage and ideals still are deep rooted in us as a nation and in our hearts as individuals."

TIA JUANA MARRIAGES LAID OPEN TO ATTACK

All hasty Tia Juana marriages were opened to attack yesterday by a decision of Superior Judge Gould granting an annulment of the Mexican marriage of Roger M. Coe, scion of a wealthy Santa Barbara family, and Margaret H. Coe. They married in Tia Juana September 13, 1929, going there that day from Los Angeles, according to Coe's statement. Judge Gould annulled the marriage after evidence was presented that the contracting parties must reside for six months in the district where they marry and the witnesses must be two-year residents.

"None of the requirements were complied with in this marriage," said Judge Gould. "The contracting parties were residents of Los Angeles, and neither witness had known either of the contracting parties as long as three years.

"The validity of a marriage is determined by the laws of the place where such marriage is performed. If valid there it will be valid anywhere, and, conversely, if invalid by the law of the State or country where performed, it will be held invalid wherever the question may arise."

Judge Gould's decision and opinion upheld in effect the memorandum of law submitted by Attorney Scott McReynolds, who cited Mexican law to show that Mexico bars eloping to another district.

"The ceremony is as void as if it had been celebrated by a shoemaker in the presence of a herd of cattle as witnesses," this memorandum sets forth.

C. Caxiola Andrade, former judge of the Supreme Court of the State of Sinaloa, testified in corroboration of this interpretation of Mexican law.

Hotel Official Dies Suddenly

Alonzo B. Clark, western representative of the Hotel Association of the United States and Canada, with headquarters here, died suddenly yesterday on a southbound Southern Pacific train near Kennett.

Clark, who had offices at 458 South Spring street, was returning from a business trip to Seattle. The body was removed at Redding to a mortuary to await advices from his family residing at Santa Monica. He was 65 years of age and before coming to California some years ago was prominent as the operator of hotels in the Middle West. Earlier in life he was engaged in newspaper work.

What, for instance, could be more luxurious or desirable than a set of blankets, thick, soft, warm and in attractive colors. Whether the gift budget suggests a single number or a complete set—bed blanket, throw blanket and silken comfort, all in matching tone, they may be obtained at this store.

Then there are both sets, too, some bearing the desert scene, exclusive with Coulter's, this in lavender, in green, in apricot—most artistic and so suggestive of California as a send-away.

Then there are both sets, too, over colors or with the colored hems, in dainty tints. These come packed in attractive chests, adding to the Christmas effect.

Evening wraps, always a gift desirable for any woman or girl, are displayed in all the season's modish materials and silhouettes. And, speaking of silhouettes, the new silhouette cards and seals and inclosure cards at Coulter's are especially interesting and varied.

BULLOCK'S

A novel idea in effect at Bullock's is that of assisting the gift-shopper by bringing within small compass offerings from the many sections through the store, and allowing a choice from these, the girl in charge assembling the articles, thus saving time and steps for the gift-purchaser.

In the Gift Bureau, as the section here is termed, are shown articles distinctive and exceptional, articles selected for novelty and for beauty rather than those merely useful. Here are noted the new Sunday supper bags in black flat crepe, intricately beaded in pearls. Very small and dainty, these. Handbags of rare design for all occasions here are on display; bags for street in fine leathers, with pristal fastenings; evening bags in luxurious fabrics, enhanced with petit point, embroidery, beads and paillettes.

Imported perfumes, in containers that are masterpieces of the glass-maker's art, speak for a gift place upon the dressing-table of the discriminating woman.

Ornaments for the radio console are singularly gift-worthy; quaint figures from the deft hands of Swiss wood-carvers; lifelike characters represented pursuing their peasant-tasks or pleasures.

Costume jewelry of the better sort, semiprecious stones framed in unique ways and cased giftily, form appropriate gifts for girl or woman.

Artistic wares in glass, in pottery, in china, Dresdens, enamels, pewter; hand-tooled leather articles from Italy; hand-embroidered and hand-drawn linens from many foreign lands; framed pictures, quaint modernistic grotesqueries for smoking-room and living-room; any, all are here in assist in gift selection.

The Oriental Gift Shop—up a few steps—as everyone recalls—is, perhaps, one of the most popular in the store. Here are interesting articles from Far Eastern lands; rugs, brasses from China, Cloisonne and enameled wares; odd lacquers—hand-carved and softly colorful; brocaded and embroidered table runners; charming baskets, kimonos from Japan; oriental jewelry of strange and fascinating design. Materials for Christmas wrappings, fine tissues in unusual coloring, celophane, paper ribbons, decorative fruits and flowers for completion of holiday packages, here are shown in great array.

Children visiting Bullock's linger long in the toy section, where they feast fascinated eyes upon the Candy Castle, with its ice cream cone turrets and sweet brittle balconies. Grown-ups, also, are reluctant to leave the store, where they are sure to compliment the lovely decorations, the silver fringes on the pillars, the silver pipes o' Pan, the groups of graduated candles—altogether forming a decorative scheme chaste and beautiful.

MAY CO.

With miles of gaily festooned, gift-laden aisles and elevators banked high with bricks and candles to resemble Santa-awaiting fireplaces, the May Company is in readiness to serve the thousands who will respond to the call to "Shop Early and Well" between the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons.

Even the shoe department, catering as it does to the lower extremities, has gone highly esthetic, with its towers of gift-slipper shelves shining like silver by day and a fairy tale of illumination by night. Christmas sale-planning on an unprecedented scale has been going on in this spacious store where the slogan of "Choice Gifts and Fashions Without Extravagance" will be carried out to the practical letter of their meaning throughout the buying season.

Lingerie packages and compacts for the sophisticated miss, and attractively boxed flannels for milady of 75 up, are among the innumerable gifts on display. Blankets and shawls, tapestries and Paisleys, pewter sets and silverware, pictures and pottery, china and glassware, furniture and furnishings, are included in the displays.

"Our buying departments in every part of the world," says B. L. Strauss, general merchandise manager, "have searched for and found almost every conceivable novelty or object that is saleable in a department store. We have something to suit every taste, no matter how discriminating. Our newly enlarged grocery and meat market has also collected the most extraordinary aggregation of food delicacies from every part of the globe. This will indeed be a gift Christmas of the unusual and novel."

CHRISTMAS TREES LEND CHARM TO CITY STREETS

Their Brilliant Colors Give Hint of Gift Wonders Which Wait for Shopper Inside Stores

THE BROADWAY

Gift aisles, the aisles of the blessed at holiday time in the Broadway Department Store offer attractions innumerable to the shopper. Along these aisles, the candle motif lights the way to selection. Here are shown such novelties as bath salts in modernistic containers, dainty sets of colorful bags, quaint bottles, animal shapes, later to become useful in the household regime for book-ends, door-stops, etc. Cunningly contrived beverage sets wherein the purpose of their existence is well concealed, here offer a hospitable suggestion.

Electrical appliances are here, comprising the full range of useful articles from toasters and waffle irons to corn poppers and juice extractors.

Accessories for man's use present wallets and billfolds, in fine leathers, phone-book covers in hand-tooled work, travel accessories in latest mode, together with handkerchiefs, scarves, gloves and neckwear.

Pewter objects such as vases, card stands, trays, bon-bons and coffee sets vieing with silver articles for use and for ornament. The season's popular mail coach is shown here in many period designs and in various sizes.

Costume jewelry is featured in the gift aisles, notable being the simple numbers for children — the Florentine flower patterns especially appropriate. Cedar chests in miniature, hold sets of sheets and pillow-cases with colored borders for the home-lover.

The store throughout is bright with Christmas greens and reds, the toy department especially attractive to the children and to their grown-up friends who pilot them toward Santa's fascinating ship.

WALKER'S

"The Friendly Store," the slogan at Walker's, (Fifth street,) has taken on new and deeper meaning, this season, when, beginning several weeks ago, the big auditorium there was thrown open to children. The Santa Claus quarters in Toyland has proven an equal magnet, for thousands of little ones.

A full program from Pantages, carried out by children, has been freely offered to visitors at Walker's on each Saturday and that it has been appreciated, no one could doubt. Entire families gathered there and seats—yes, even standing room—was at a premium long ere the opening hour.

The store throughout, beautifully decorated in holiday effects, exhales the very spirit of Christmas.

"The tree," said T. C. Palmer, vice-president of Walker's, "seems to be the trade-mark of Christmas; seems to express the spirit of the holiday season; as the hallmark upon certain fine productions attests their character. "And that is why, for this season we have chosen the tree for the most important feature of downtown decoration. Because, this season, more than in many years, it seems as though we each should endeavor to express the real Christmas spirit—the spirit of altruism, of generosity—not only to friends, but to many whom we do not know—to all, in fact, who may be in need of cheer."

That this thought is genuine, has been proved by the many offerings at Walker's; expressed, too, by the collection of gifts both practical and reasonable in price, found in the many sections throughout the store.

B. H. DYAS CO.

The B. H. Dyas Company stands in readiness for the holiday season, the store glowing with holiday cheer, in the way of bright decorations, every section replete with gift ideas.

New accessories of feminine attire are offered, such as neckwear, gloves, handkerchiefs, costume jewelry, perfumes; lingerie and negligees, quaint frocks and coats and hats for the little people, and in the baby section is an inviting array of gifts for the small child's first Christmas, or for those succeeding.

Especially designed as a gift mecca is that new section devoted to articles from the far land of Morocco. Here, hand bags in hand-tooled leather may be chosen in the exact tint to match any costume. Here are beautifully executed designs in leather portfolios, in book covers, in runners, oh, in an endless variety of objects done in colorful leather. Here, also, are brasses of unique design and fine antique shading. In the Hollywood store, the Morocco importations are further projected to comprise an extensive line of rugs, all sumptuously gift-worthy.

JACOBY BROS.

Gift seeking at Jacoby Bros. is doubly productive, for after visiting the All Nations' Gift Shop, where imported novelties of all descriptions greet you, a visit to the toy section will help to a choice of many articles both for playtime and for practical daily use for children. Here one discovers unusual high chairs, dolls of foreign and domestic make, doll furniture in similitude of that for the grown-up home, small blackboards, instructive as well as pleasing to the little one who will use it; sets of dishes for Dolly's dinner table, for her tea and supper, these imported in aluminum; toy kitchen sets, imported teddy bears and other popular animals; cuddle toys of all descriptions, and for the air-minded boy planes of many kinds and sizes.

Indian and cowboy suits, intriguing to the imaginative urchin. For the little girl who has enjoyed every other kind of doll and has yearned for one of those expensive Italian creations there are replicas of such dolls, made in Germany and hence less costly than the coveted ones first introduced.

The All Nations Shop, on the mezzanine, presents a glorious array of gifts from many lands. Potteries from Czecho-Slovakia and from Italy, lamps of many wares and varied designs, together with appropriate shades; ship models and mail coaches. The latter, among the most modish of the season's gift objects, are here in many sizes and at less than usual prices.

Glasswares, colorful as the rainbow, entire sets and single articles, charming for gifts, are found in this interesting shop.

Quaint objects in china of modernistic design, magazine racks, occasional tables, Italian wood carvings, French make-up boxes—all gifts suggestive for both men and women, for young and for those more advanced in years.

PARMELEE-DOHRMANN CO.

The Parmelee-Dohrmann Company store on Flower street, near Eighth street, is ready with four floors literally teeming with gift suggestions of china, glass, silverware, artwares, radios and home essentials.

On the fourth floor are electrical gifts such as waffle irons, percolators, toasters, coffee-urn sets, all finished in nickel or chromium plate. The vacuum carafe desk sets, including the bottle, glasses and tray, would make a suitable gift for dad. An electric refrigerator would prove a thrill gift and one from which the entire family will reap benefits.

The third floor, with its gorgeous china and glassware, offers a myriad of suggestions. Many thoughtful husbands this year are giving their wives a service from the open-stock dinnerware display, with the idea in mind of adding to the set on future gift occasions.

In the dinnerware department are such gifts as service plates, fancy cake plates, imported biscuit jars and tea sets to gladden the heart of the recipient. The glassware department offers many gift suggestions and the display of famous glassware is comprehensive. Gifts of the ultra-modern black glassware will be very much in vogue during this Christmas season.

ALEXANDER & OVIATT

To solve that most difficult of all the gift problems, the gift for the "man who has everything," is the especial mission of Alexander & Oviatt. Here one may find that something so very different that he, however discriminating he may be, is sure to be surprised and as pleased as surprised.

Not only in the realm of fine habiliments, luxurious accessories of dress, leisure garments, such as lounging robes, pajamas fashioned from exceptional materials; but smoking paraphernalia of rare artistry, cellarettes cunningly devised, unusual motor-car accessories such as emblems by Lalique.

Here are such unusual gift articles as cocktail books, war albums,

Each has had only one defeat to mar an otherwise impressive season. Both invaded the East and came back with flying colors, St. Mary's defeating Fordham and Oregon taking the measure of Drake.

The Oregon team, coached by the hefty Doc Clarence Spears, arrived today and took a short workout at Kezar Stadium. All of the players were in good shape, with the exception of Johnny Kitzmiller, halfback star, who is handicapped by a bad leg. Coach Spears, however,

THE WASHINGTON FLASH

AX FALLS AT BRUIN QUARTERS

U.C.L.A. Athletes Are Dropped; Robb, Schulte Tabbed Ineligible

BY FRANK ROCHE

The well-known faculty ax which dropped upon Southern California and California recently fell yesterday at the University of California at Los Angeles. Almost on the eve of the final conference game of the season for the Westwood football team and Idaho University which takes place Saturday, the athletic meat chopper severed two of U. C. L. A.'s most promising prospects.

BILL SPAULDING

Dean Miller of the Bruin institution announced yesterday afternoon that William Robb, a halfback, and Albert Schulte, a tackle, both freshmen stars, had been declared ineligible at the Westwood school. Schulte registered under the name of his brother Albert from Franklin High School. He has been expelled from school. Robb, who had previously entered the University of Oklahoma but withdrew before football season is out for next year. He may be able to play in 1932.

Robb played with Oneonta Military Academy last year. This past season he was the outstanding halfback on freshmen squad. Schulte was the best tackle the Bruins uncovered this season.

Just where the information came from that caused the upheaval at U.C.L.A. no one was ready to say yesterday at the Westwood institution. For sometime there have been rumors about Robb but up to yesterday nothing definite has been done to bring the matter to light.

Bill Spaulding, coach of the U. C. L. A. team, had no comment to make last night about the ruling on the two players, who were considered among his leading prospects for next season.

COLISEUM TO BE SCENE OF THANKSGIVING DAY GAME

Jimmy Phelan Makes Local Debut as Washington Coach Today; Locals Heavy Favorites

Rain, which started falling last night, will have no effect on the playing of today's football game between Southern California and the University of Washington, it was announced by S.C. authorities. The kick-off is scheduled for 2 o'clock sharp.

BY PAUL LOWRY

The question of whether University of Southern California is 2 or 61 points better than the University of Washington on the football field will be answered this afternoon.

The Huskies of the Northwest and the Trojans of the South furnish the Thanksgiving Day dish at the Coliseum, and their game will be almost the final one of an ebbing conference season.

JIMMY PHELAN

Idaho and U.C.L.A. ring down the curtain next Saturday.

Today's struggle has the dopesters guessing badly. Washington beat California, 13 to 0, and the Trojans routed the same team, 74 to 0, a difference of 61 points.

But Washington State defeated Southern California, 7 to 6, and Washington held State to a 3-to-0 score, a 2-point difference.

VAST CHANGE IN TROJANS

However, there has been a vast change in the team that Howard Jones took north to Pullman to suffer its only loss of the season.

It developed over night, and came on to bury both Stanford and California under record scores, 41 to 12, and 74 to 0, respectively.

It has capable, experienced boys in every position, boys who have played long enough together to click as a team, and under smart general-

GEORGE DEFEATS KOLOFF

Balkan Lion Takes Opening Fall but Drops Two Other Stanzas and Match at Olympic

Don George, known as the Michigan Wolverine in the ranks of the heavyweight wrestlers, defeated Dan Koloff, the Balkan Lion, last night in the main event at Olympic Auditorium, by taking two out of the three falls.

DON GEORGE

George was the aggressor all the way, Koloff only being able to clamp on three holds all evening, one of which was good enough to give him the first fall. The hold was a crotch and head body slam and came after 6m. 23s. of wrestling.

George had just finished a barrage of head locks and was on the verge of clamping on another one when Koloff gained the fall.

The Michigan youngster came back strong and took the second fall with a flying tackle in 29m. 6s. and the third and deciding fall with an arm over body slam in 8m. 22s.

Koloff was on the offensive all the way with George's edge being very apparent.

Long Beach and San Diego Meet Today for Grid Championship of Coast Leagu

JACKRABBITS DEFEND TITLE

Hobbs Adams's Crew Picked to Win Contest

Warburton Is Star Threat of Southerners

Walt Schell in Good Shape for Redondo, Covina Tilt

BY IRVING ECKHOFF

Two of the outstanding prep elevens in Southern California will collide this afternoon at Long Beach, when the San Diego Hilltoppers and Coach Orian Landreth's Poly Jackrabbits meet in a game that will decide the Coast League 1930 football championship.

HOBBS ADAMS

Long Beach Poly is not only the defending league champion, but the defending Southern California crown holder as well. Despite that, however, Coach Hobbs Adams's southern eleven will take the field favored to win.

San Diego's attack is based around the flashy Irvin Warburton, State quarter-mile champion in 1928. Warburton, who is a little fellow, makes up in speed and fight what he lacks in weight. His sensational dashes and flashy open-field running have been sensational all season.

To offset Warburton, Long Beach has two exceptional good halfbacks in Red Franklin and Capt. Russel Sweet. Franklin is the best of the two, being able to pass and kick as well as run, while Sweet's forte is in eluding the opposition on end gallops.

The Jackrabbits have only been defeated once in two years, dropping a 19-7 decision to Manual Arts early this year. That was no disgrace, however, as there is little doubt in the minds of those who have watched Jim Blewett's Toilers play this season, that Manual Arts has the best team in the Southland.

Last year, Orian Landreth's crew after tying two early season practice games, walked right through their league opposition with the exception of Santa Ana, to take the Coast League title. Tex Oliver's Saints held the Jackrabbits to a scoreless tie.

In the Southern California C.I.F. play-off last year, Long Beach humbled Huntington Park in the semi-finals and trounced Santa Barbara in the finals.

The winner of today's game will meet the winner of the Orange-Whittier game, on December 6, next, in the semifinal round of the C.I.F. play-off.

Whittier and Orange tangle this Saturday on the Whittier College field in one of the C.I.F. play-off games scheduled, while Covina and Redondo tangle on the Seahawk gridiron.

Word from Redondo brings the good news that Walt Schell, the Seahawks' all-around backfield ace, is in good shape and that the rest of the club as well, are ready to tangle with the Colts.

Redondo has one of the best high-school stadiums in Southern California, and with new bleachers being added, 8000 fans can be accommodated.

Coach Lloyd Waller has a strong veteran team and will take the field an even-money bet to drub the Colts. On the other hand, Batter Gerrel has a smooth-working machine that is liable to break loose and score most any time.

Both teams have been defeated this year, Bakersfield defeating Covina, 32-0; while Inglewood turned back Redondo, 19-13.

Other Thanksgiving Day games will find Fullerton at Santa Ana, Burbank at Hoover High in Glendale; Muir Tech at Monrovia, Anaheim at Huntington Beach and South Pasadena at Alhambra.

All the above will be played in the afternoon, but El Monte and Cathedral will collide on the Lions' field this morning at 10 a.m.

Newsboys Eat Turkey Today at Alexandria

Three thousand Los Angeles newsboys will have their Thanksgiving Day dinner at the Alexandria Hotel today. Eight years ago Carlo Curtis, then a newsboy, inaugurated the idea of an annual dinner. Through his efforts the affair has grown from one serving 200 plates. Funds for the dinner were raised by means of a boxing and vaudeville show at the Main Street Athletic Club Monday night.

The dinner is sponsored by Jack Doyle, Tom Doyle, James Woods, Tom Gallery, Dean Snyder, Dan Tobey and a large number of other sportsmen and business men.

The dinner will start at noon and will last until every Los Angeles newsboy has been served. An eight-piece orchestra from the Florence Mills Theater, will furnish music throughout the dinner.

SOUTH PASADENA IN CROSS-COUNTRY WIN

South Pasadena High School's cross-country squad, coached by Gerald Ayers, won from Monrovia and Muir Tech in a cross-country jaunt held on the Tigers' grounds yesterday afternoon. Rothschild, South Pasadena, finished first in 10m. 7s. He was followed to the tape, in the order named, by Henville, South Pasadena; Westcott, South Pasadena; Asquith, South Pasadena; Keyes, Monrovia; Shatford, Monrovia, and Bialock, Muir Tech. South Pasadena scored 18 points; Monrovia, 41; while Muir Tech failed to have five men finish the race, so they did not get any points.

Army Caravan Pulls Out for Chicago; Rockne Will Start First String Against Soldiers

WEST POINT (N. Y.) Nov. 26. (AP)—Army's football caravan, bound for Chicago and Saturday's major battle with Notre Dame, pulled out of West Point tonight with the disappointed cadet corps cheering them on their way.

The squad of thirty-eight men, all in good condition, worked hard this afternoon, scrimmaging for half an hour against the scrubs equipped with Notre Dame plays. Capt. Humber, guard; Suarez, tackle; Carlmark, end, and Bowman, quarter, were kept out of the scrimmage to prevent possible aggravation of healed hurts.

MAJOR RALPH SASSE

The corps of cadets, not permitted to make the trip, gave the team a big send-off. At the gym before their departure each player was cheered and forced to speak.

The Army scrubs, having taken their beatings for the season, will be taken to Chicago to see the battle in Soldier Field, but their train does not leave until Friday. Maj.-Gen. Smith, commandant at the military academy, will accompany them with his staff.

The varsity will stay at a country club outside Chicago and practice in the big stadium Friday afternoon.

Maj. Ralph Sasse, head coach, had no word to say of his starting line-up. He had Glattly, a big fullback, and Prentzel, a halfback, practicing punts and placements much of the afternoon, while Charley Broushous, Army's one-play, drop-kicking specialist, was busy at another end of the field lifting boots over the goal posts. His record in practice this week is twenty-eight successive goals without a miss from the extra-point distance.

Army's starting backfield is expected to have Bowman or Carver at quarter, Stecker and Kilday at the halves, with either Glattly or Sebastian at fullback.

ROCKNE FEARS CADET ELEVEN

SOUTH BEND (Ind.) Nov. 26. (AP) Notre Dame's regulars will start against the Army Saturday and the probability is the shock troops will remain on the sidelines throughout as they did in the Northwestern contest.

Before their first drill of the week today, Knute Rockne told his men the Army would be about as tough as Northwestern and that the weather would make the going even tougher. Rockne was so concerned about the playing conditions of Soldier Field that he planned a trip to Chicago to inspect the grounds after the benefit game between Notre Dame all-stars and former Northwestern aces Thanksgiving.

A foot and a half of snow on the Notre Dame practice field caused Rockne to hold today's practice indoors. Every regular was present, even Tom Kurth, whose face was banged up in the Northwestern battle. Two hours of signal drill and a rehearsal of plays which have not been employed in previous games kept the squad busy.

Dan Hanley and Larry Mullins, who are dividing the work at fullback, were given a lot of attention and Rockne indicated that Hanley, a sophomore, might be in the starting line-up against the Cadets.

La Barba 2-1 Favorite to Trim Taylor

BY JACK FARRELL

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (Exclusive) Those Broadway sharpshooters, who after being scorched thrice in as many weeks when their top-heavy favorites failed to come down at the Garden to upsets, are playing with fire again. They are laying 2 to 1 that Fidel La Barba licks Bud Taylor, the Terre Haute blond, when they meet for ten rounds Friday night in the same place.

Sending $1 after $1 on La Barba is not a particularly hazardous risk. The former world's flyweight champion earned a high rating among the featherweight title contenders when he licked the highly touted Kid Chocolate here several weeks ago. But events of the last few weeks indicate that the boys who play from and consult the chart on part performances can be wetter than a submerged walrus.

A good, rough, lion-hearted battler like Taylor isapt to walk out and make anybody look bad. He has done it before and may possibly do it again when he climbs in with La Barba. However, inasmuch as Bud has already declared that he will toss the gloves on the mantle after a few more fights, his intentions would seem to corroborate the opinion of fistic experts that he is about at the end of his rope—and knows it.

La Barba has worked for this fight as he perhaps has never worked before. He figures a win over Bud will put him within reaching distance of the title and if Chocolate licks Champion Battalino next month the Fiddler will be in a spot where nobody can overlook him.

DYNAMITE JACKSON KAYOS ERICKSON

"Dynamite" Jackson, local hard-hitting heavyweight, scored a two-round knockout over "Man Mountain" Erickson last night before a capacity house at the Wilmington Bowl. Erickson, a highly touted battler from Chicago, was staggered in the first round and counted out in the second when he ran into many of Jackson's terrific right crosses. Big Gregory won a close decision over Joe Bell in the six-round semi-wind-up. Al Cruse stopped Henry Cruse in the third round of the special event. In the preliminaries, Pete Pina and Joe De Lara fought a four-round draw, while Fred Garrett put Jack Spears away in the second round of the curtain raiser. Jack Dempsey refereed.

Grid Games Called Off by Cold Weather

CHICAGO, Nov. 26, (Exclusive)—Because of snow and near-zero temperatures in the Middle West, several football games scheduled for Thanksgiving Day have been called off. At Peoria, Ill., Bradley Tech and Cornell College were scheduled to play, but it was announced today that the game had been canceled.

At Carthage, Ill., the scheduled game between Carthage College and Western State Teachers was canceled because of a scarlet fever quarantine on members of the Carthage team.

Lane Tech High School of Chicago was scheduled to play Benton Harbor High School at Benton Harbor, Mich., tomorrow, but the game was called off on account of a heavy snowfall.

A game between Luther College of Decorah, Iowa, and Columbus College of Dubuque, scheduled for Decorah tomorrow, was canceled because of zero weather

The cold wave extended as far south as West Virginia and the game between Davis and Elkins and the United States Marine Corps team from Philadelphia at Grafton was called off.

Will Rogers and Son Team in Polo Game

With Will Rogers and son again teaming up in the scoring positions, the Rovers are expected to carry the battle to the Buccaneers in the second game of their series on the Uplifters' polo field next Sunday afternoon. Rogers's team has been further strengthened by the addition of Clair Brunson at back, Lionel Pedley moving up to No. 3 in place of Charles Crawford, who has been drafted for the No. 1 position on the opposition.

Steve Strelich, the Terrible Swede, and Les Grimes from Australia, wrestled to a thirty-minute draw in the opener.

SANTA MONICA BABES WIN OVER WHITTIER

Two evenly matched teams battled all over the Whittier gridiron yesterday with Santa Monica High's crack lightweight football aggregation finally winning out over the Whittier babes, 7 to 0. The deciding marker was scored in the second quarter when Newton plowed through the line for a touchdown after a series of bucks and end runs had placed the ball in scoring position. Fowler converted the extra point. By losing Whittier was eliminated from C.I.F. play-off and Santa Monica advanced to the semifinal round as a result of its triumph.

"GREEN" HOPES RISE WITH RAIN

Dartmouth Coach Happy With Change of Weather

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Nov. 26. (AP)—Driving rain greeted Dartmouth's football squad today as it went through heavy practice for the game with Stanford, Saturday.

JACKSON CANNELL

The change in weather was particularly suitable to Coach Jack Cannell, who figures if it rains the day of the game, his heavy Dartmouth line will have a big advantage. The first part of the practice was devoted to fundamentals, tackling, blocking and clipping. Coach Cannell indicated he was through with scrimmage, Dartmouth having had plenty in the week following the Cornell game.

Stanford continued to work secretly, on signals and passes. In case of rain, Rothert and Caddel probably will start in the backfield, otherwise Simkins and Clark will be in for a passing attack.

Probable starting line-ups were announced today by Coaches Cannell and Glenn Warner as follows:

Pomona Frosh Lose, 27-6, to Soph Eleven

CLAREMONT, Nov. 26.—With the sophomores still supreme over the freshmen, by virtue of a 27-6 victory yesterday in the annual interclass tilt, football-playing activities at Pomona College ended today when suits were turned in for another year. The banquet for grid men is scheduled for early next month.

The second-year men showed an unexpected offensive drive in the second half yesterday to roll up four touchdowns, while their rivals tallied once. The first half was scoreless.

Bob Carr scored for the frosh to start the third quarter, when he intercepted a pass and galloped 80 yards to the goal line. The sophomores drove up the field soon after this and Jordan scored. Capt. Somfeld accounted for the second sophomore touchdown when he retrieved a blocked punt behind the goal line.

Pollard opened scoring for the winners in the fourth period when he intercepted a pass and dashed 40 yards to a touchdown. Dick Miller, playing his first game, accounted for the final tally, bucking the ball over from the 3-yard line to culminate a 50-yard drive in which he figured largely.

The tilt found those old teammates, "Poke" Hartman, captain of the 1929 Sagehen varsity, and Al Putnam, skipper of the '30 eleven, arrayed against each other — this time from the coaching bench. Hartman, assistant frosh coach throughout the season, handled the first-year men, and Putnam guided the sophomores.

Triplett and Quinn to Race in Long Grind

Ernie Triplett and Francis Quinn, who waged a bitter battle for first honors in the 100-lap race at the Legion Ascot Speedway last Sunday, yesterday signed to drive in the century grind December 7. Triplett undoubtedly will again tool the red and black No. 40 belonging to Champion Billy Arnold, while Quinn will have the same No. 3 Gabhart Special.

A. C. Pillabury of the A.A.A. stated yesterday that Quinn had filed no formal protest of Triplett's winning last Sunday. Such a written objection was expected from Quinn by many racing men as a result of the Pacific Coast champion's oral outbursts following the event last week when he declared that Triplett had violated the rules by not moving aside and giving him a chance to pass when Starter Fred Wagner signaled him to do so. Triplett, according to Quinn, refused to "give the overtaking car the right of way," as the rules read, until he had received four flags.

Ralph De Palma yesterday announced that he will race again December 7. The great Italian driver is greatly dissatisfied with his showing last Sunday when he finished fifth.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 26. (AP)—John Grabowski, catcher for the St. Paul baseball club of the American Association, has been sold to the Detroit American League club for Pitcher Johnny Prudhomme, two unnamed players and a cash consideration, it was announced today. Plans Ready for Olympic Aquatic Pool

The Olympic swim stadium for the swimming, diving and water polo events of the games of the tenth Olympiad, which are to be celebrated here July 30 to August 14, 1932, will be built in Olympic Park, according to plans of the organizing committee.

In Olympic Park already are the Olympic Stadium, the Olympic fencing pavilion and the Olympic fine arts building. The construction there, of the Olympic swim stadium will centralize, as much as possible, all Olympic activities in one area.

Final plans for the swim stadium have been completed and the organizing committee will build it in strict conformity with Olympic requirements as to size and equipment.

Ample accommodations will be provided for spectators, officials and representatives of the world press. Adequate dressing-rooms, showers and lounges for the athletes, will be incorporated into the plans.

The location for the swim stadium, which has been selected tentatively by the organizing committee, is directly in front of a grand stand near Olympic Stadium. This grand stand is of concrete and steel construction and suitable dressing-rooms, showers and lounges for athletes can be built in it. Earth excavated from the stadium, can be utilized as a foundation for additional seats for spectators. The swim stadium will be suitably controlled.

Numerous swimming pools are ready in the clubs, gymnasiums and schools for the training of the athletes.

Semifinals on Program in Net Event

Play continued yesterday afternoon in the first annual Beverly Hills Tennis Club open junior tennis tournament, which is being held on the club courts, with the semifinals being reached in most events. The finals will have to be postponed until next Sunday, according to club officials as the schedule was slowed up due to the terrific wind last Sunday. Semifinal matches feature today's play.

Harold Steiner, seeded second in the junior boys' singles, 18 years and under, and Jess Millman put on a battle royal in their match yesterday. Steiner won the first set, 6-3, while Millman took the second at the same score. The match was then called because of darkness, and will be finished this morning.

In the same division of the girls' singles, Dorothy Workman, seeded first, entered the semifinals by virtue of her brilliant straight-set win over Virginia Andrews, 6-0, 6-0. A feature quarterfinal match of the girls' singles 15-years-and-under was the battle between May Doeg and Patricia Deane, Miss Doeg winning by scores of 6-2, 7-5, to enter the semifinals. Yesterday's complete results and today's schedule follow:

said Kitsmiller would see plenty of service.

The St. Mary's squad numbers one casualty, Ad Weisgerber, guard, but Coach Ed Madigan said today he was less alarmed by the injury than by the attitude of his men. "Since the boys went back and knocked over Fordham," said Madigan, "they've been more or less up in the clouds. If they come back to earth, we should give Oregon a good run for the money. Doc Spears has a better team than a lot of critics give him credit for. It will be a hard game."

The contest will wind up the season for both teams. St. Mary's lone defeat was by California, while Oregon lost to Oregon State. Last year, Oregon ruined what otherwise would have been a perfect record for St. Mary's by scoring a touchdown against the Gaels. The six points were the only ones scored against the Gaels during the season.

Probable starting line-ups:

Oregon.		St. Mary's.

Morgan	L.T.	F. McNally
Colbert	L.G.	Fischer
Forste	C.	Peebles
Schultz	R.G.	Steponovich

LOUGHRAN, MANAGER HANDED SUSPENSION

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 26. (AP)—Suspension of Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia, former light-heavyweight champion, and his manager, Joe Smith, for thirty days by the State Athletic Commission was announced today. They had been ordered to appear before the commission to give their version of the alleged double contract signed for the Dave Maier bout here in October.

PEE-WEE GOLF IN SPOT

TORONTO (Ont.) Nov. 26. (AP)—The status of miniature golf in Canada will be taken up at a meeting of the Royal Canadian Golf Association's executive committee, December 9, next, at Montreal, the official call for which was issued today. The committee will attempt to decide whether to class it as a "recognized sport" in the Dominion and whether playing the game for money will professionalize those competing.

CORBETT BOUT FISTIC PRIZE

Winner of Walker-Jackson Go to Face Southpaw

Matchmaker Wad Wadhams may make a trip north this week to book Young Corbett for a December show here. The star southpaw would box the winner of the Sammy Jackson - Paulie Walker bout scheduled for Tuesday night.

YOUNG CORBETT III

Corbett is reported to be practically recovered from his recent illness from an infected tooth and soon will be ready to work.

Two clubs hold contracts on Corbett — the Olympic here and Louis Parente's in Oakland. But Corbett's postponed date here with Walker has priority over his bout with Jackson in Oakland.

The Olympic could use Jackson or Walker with Corbett on December, 16. Many fans, who watched Walker in action yesterday at the Main-street gymnasium are tabbing him to defeat the highly touted Jackson when they meet.

Walker puts more stuff into his training than most fighters. He is paying $20 a day for sparring partners and makes them earn it. The Italian is a two-handed puncher and has as much confidence in himself as a Primo Carnera.

Jackson trains an hour later than Walker at the Curtis club. The Negro is just as sure of himself as Walker. The bout will be a natural build-up for a Corbett gigantic.

Louis Avery, Tulsa lightweight, will come back again next week in the semi-wind-up. He meets Rito Punay, Filipino. Avery looked like a good puncher in his bout with Teddy Palacios. He had to get off the floor to win the decision.

Tommy Huffman and Wilford Berglund box the special. The two fours are Warren Farrell vs. Joe Ruiz and Young Ralph Vasques vs. Leo Domingo.

DOUBLE MAIN EVENT ON MAIN-STREET CARD

Carlo Curtis completed Saturday night's Main street boxing card late yesterday when he lined up three four-round bouts to back up the double main event in which Joe Guerrero meets Stafford McCoy and Joe Pimenthal takes on Louis Ramos. Both features are six-round affairs. The preliminaries are Vincent Martinez vs. Damaso Anchustegin, 150 pounds; Pete Saavedra vs. Henry Garbell, 126 pounds, and Eddie Bagio vs. Pete Pina, 120 pounds.

Guerrero will be favorite over McCoy. The colored boy is considered a great prospect but he has had but eighteen bouts. He has won all of them but Guerrero figures to be too experienced for him.

Pimenthal will be favored to win over Ramos. It is a rematch, Pimenthal having taken the decision in a tough four-round bout a couple of weeks ago.

Pirates and Bears Clash in Ice Game

Los Angeles hockey fans will be given a Turkey Day treat tonight at the Winter Garden when the Union Oil Pirates meet the Sunfreze Bears in a Southern California Amateur League game. With the Los Angeles Millionaires heading north for a series of four games in the bay section, play is being resumed in the amateur circuit.

The Bears and Pirates are hectic rivals, both trying to knock the Shell Oil Tigers out of first place. The Sunfreze team can tie Shell with a victory tonight, while a win for Union would put the Pirates right on the heels of the Bears.

Tom Carrigan takes his Millionaires north today to engage the San Francisco Black Hawks, Oakland Checkers, San Francisco Tigers and Oakland Sheiks in that order. The team will return to the Winter Garden next week to face the Sheiks, last year's champions, a week from tonight.

PRESIDENT ACTS TO CURB FIGHTS

Determined to put a stop to unnecessary roughness, President M. R. Koster of the Senior Ice Hockey League has ordered Referee Bill Phipps to hand out major penalties for infractions of the rules in tonight's game at the Palais de Glace. The contest will bring together the Hollywood Monarchs and the Maple Leafs and, due to the rivalry between the teams, a hot siesta is predicted.

Jack Roland, Monarch wingman, will be back on the ice tonight under orders from officials to refrain from further rough tactics. The 17-year-old French-Canadian star was sent to the penalty box three times Monday night when the Monarchs and Bruins tangled. The contest will get under way promptly at 8:30 p.m. Exhibition skating will be held between periods.

All-Stars to Face San Luis

An all-star nine composed of players from the Kelley Kar and Commercial Club nines in the Winter League will tangle with the San Luis Giants, champions of Mexico, in a Thanksgiving Day baseball bill today at the San Luis Park on Brooklyn avenue. Several new players, including Rothrock of the Boston Red Sox, Charley Dorman of Indianapolis, and Wright, Montreal, will make their first appearance in the All-Stars' line-up. The San Luis Giants are a Cuban aggregation but they defeated all rivals last summer to win the championship of Mexico.

FIREMEN ELEVEN TO MEET CLUB GRIDDERS

Fire Department football players swing into action against the Arroyo Grande Athletic Club team Saturday evening at Wrigley Field. On the team are a number of players who formerly cavorted for Oregon State and Santa Clara. The Firemen, however, will rule heavy favorites to win the game.

RABBIT PUNCHES

BY PAUL LOWRY

THANKSGIVING HASH

THANKSGIVING settles the hash of many things, including a New Year's Day football game. In this case it is the identity of the eastern representative that hangs in the balance.

Washington State is the standard bearer of the West, and sits idly by while Georgia and Alabama scrap it out at Birmingham to determine the outstanding team in the Far South.

But even after that issue is settled it is by no means certain either Georgia or Alabama will get the bid.

Tulane has been champion of the South for two years, is undefeated in the Southern Conference this year, and has lost one game this season—that to Northwestern, 14 to 0, early in the fall.

If Georgia beats Alabama today Tulane will still be champion with both Alabama and Georgia defeated once in their own conference, Tulane unbeaten and an easy 25-to-0 victor over Georgia.

Then, why not the Green Wave, as they call Tulane, rather than Alabama's Crimson Tide or the Georgia Bulldogs?

WASHINGTON STATE'S WORRY

AS POINTED out before, the Tournament of Roses Association at Pasadena has had things easy this year. Washington State went through the Coast Conference season undefeated, and was the natural western selection.

And when that much is accomplished, Pasadena can sit back and begin to worry about the rose floats.

The quaint old custom is to let the western representative pick its eastern opponent, which makes it Washington State's worry from here on in.

Mr. Earl V. Foster, graduate manager at Washington State, and a staff member or two are already on the job, and it seems they have begun to worry.

Mr. Wallace Wade, head coach at Alabama for the last year, has twice brought teams to the Coast for New Year's Day games.

He knows something of the customary procedure in inviting teams to play in the annual classic.

Therefore you can't blame him for trying to cinch the selection of Alabama before the game with Georgia today. Mr. Wade is reported to have said: "Pick us now or never."

THE COMMERCIAL ANGLE

HOWEVER, it is presumed that as at other educational institutions the head coach does not have the final say in such matters.

Generally, an athletic board or council of some nature is the court of last resort.

So, if it is Alabama the boys want it is probably Alabama they will get.

Certainly, Mr. Wade's boys will not be performing before a $300,000 to $400,000 gate in any other part of the country on New Year's Day.

And, after all, college organizations do have slightly sordid commercial leanings.

MICHIGAN MAYBE?

ON THE other hand, the possibility of a Midwest team coming to the Coast is still held in the background.

Michigan is unbeaten and tied with Northwestern for the Big Ten championship.

Michigan hasn't developed quite the scoring team that Hanley has at Northwestern, but on the other hand Northwestern has been beaten once, even if it was by Notre Dame, 14 to 0.

Some of the sideline inviters keep insisting there is a chance to get a middle western team, but this is hard to believe.

It has never been possible since Ohio State broke over the traces to meet California ten years ago, and the traces were cinched by the Big Ten after that incident.

There have been several invitations in the ten-year span since the Buckeye invasion—but no acceptances.

to tie Nebraska but fell before Kansas when the Jayhawkers hit their gait last week. Oklahoma has not borne out the promise of its opening game against Nebraska but the Sooners should take a close game.

The only other Big Six contest brings Nebraska and Kansas Aggies together at Lincoln and is of importance chiefly for ranking in the valley as it has no bearing on the title. Nebraska's line should hold the Aggies, but the game may be a tight one.

Marquette, coached by Frank Murray, has won seven games and tied with Detroit and should defeat Butler. This would give the Milwaukee team an undefeated record.

Oklahoma Aggies are likely to take Creighton at Omaha.

Oregon State and West Virginia are strangers in our midst, playing a Shriner's benefit game in Chicago for a worthy cause, crippled children. We don't know much about these teams but on paper Oregon State seems to be superior. This is the team that upset New York a couple of years ago.

Oklahoma-Missouri: Oklahoma victory for Oklahoma means a tie for the Big Six championship.
Nebraska-Kansas Aggies: Nebraska. A tight game with Nebraska's line probably the deciding factor.
Creighton-Oklahoma Aggies: Oklahoma Aggies.
Marquette-Butler: Marquette. A chance for an undefeated record.
Oregon State-West Virginia (at Chicago): Oregon State.

FOURTEEN TEAMS IN POMONA CAGE PLAY

CLAREMONT, Nov. 26.—With fourteen teams entered in the two divisions, the intramural basketball season at Pomona College will open Monday afternoon. The tourney is divided into leagues for fraternity and house teams, the winner of each division playing off for the title.

The annual competition usually is close, and Sigma Tau fraternity, winner last year, is expected to find the going tough to retain the crown. The two winning teams will meet similar quintets from Occidental, Willard Larson, junior manager in charge, announced.

HORWEEN QUITS AS COACH AT HARVARD

CHICAGO, Nov. 26. (AP)—Arnold Horween today insisted he was through with active football and would not return again as coach at Harvard.

"No, I won't go back to Harvard next year," he said. "I've been playing hookey from our leather business long enough to coach. I must go on here. I've been saying that every year, of course, but they've always asked me to come back, although it was understood at the start I was to coach for but a year or two."

BRUIN ATHLETES ARE GIVEN GATE

Idaho University players will arrive here tomorrow morning for their game with the U.C.L.A. Bruins at the Coliseum Saturday. The Vandal contingent is due on the Padre at 9:19 on Fish Day. The Bruins and the Vandals wind up their season with the game here. The game really settles the "cellar championship" of the Coast Conference.

To date, the Bruins and Idaho have each lost four games to conference rivals. The Bruins have shown nothing that resembles an offense against "big league" teams. Perhaps, the Westwooders will go on a rampage and win a conference struggle on Saturday. This much has been promised by Bruin attaches, but Head Coach Spaulding is not of that turn of mind. Big Bill expects to win, but he is not as optimistic as some of the hired help about it.

The Vandals will make their headquarters at the Beverly Hills Hotel, while in town. Calland, an old Trojan star, has the Bruins well scouted. Otto Anderson has been here for some time taking notes on the U.C.L.A. outfit. Whether he has a full notebook or not is problematical as the Bruins have not uncovered anything that would cause any flutters among the best football minds.

Spaulding is drilling the Westwooders on offensive plays. The Bruin coach is set on winning one game from a conference rival this season. Hugh McDonald, the genial line coach of the Bruins, recently returned from a scouting trip on Idaho and he has turned in a good deal of information over to Spaulding on the matter.

The all-Americans as the Bruins call their scrubs have been working the Idaho plays against the Bruin varsity all week.

Spaulding will start the same line-up that faced Oregon State last Friday night at the Coliseum.

FRIEDMAN, DANIELS IN FISTIC REMATCH

BOSTON, Nov. 26. (AP)—A return bout between Al Friedman, Boston heavyweight, and Dick Daniels of Minneapolis, for December 15, next, was clinched today by Eddie Mack, Argonne A. A. boxing promoter. This pair of heavyweights clashed here Monday night and Friedman, though floored for a nine count in the first round, came back strong to outpoint his opponent in a wild-slugging match.

FREEMAN BOUT LOOMS

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 26. (AP)—Tommy Freeman, world welterweight champion, will meet Buck McTiernan, local fighter, in a nontitle bout here Christmas Day, provided an agreement can be reached on the weights.

SOCCER TEAMS HELP CHARITY

England, Scotland Meet in Feature Game Today

Soccer does a good turn today for the unemployed and the needy. Two teams picked from the cream of the City League clubs and representing England and Scotland will tangle at Loyola Field at 2:30 this afternoon. The game is expected to produce a good many thrilling moments for socker fans.

HARRY PURNELL.

Sunday afternoon at Loyola Field the league is staging a double-header in which the Hollywood Sheiks lock horns with the Sons of St. George and the Richfield Oilers play the Magyars. The Sons and the Shieks take the field at 1 p.m. and the Oilers face the Redshirts at 1 p.m.

Tournament Park, Pasadena, will also be the scene of two games Sunday. The Los Angeles A.C. eleven will battle the Victorias and the Vikings clash with the Scots. The Mercury team opens the program with the Vics. The Mercury team is out to trample over the Victorias if they can Sunday. Manager Oscar Kozma has steamed up his players today. He believes the club team should not be beaten in any games from now on in. The Victorias are new in City League circles and they are just getting their feet under them. They are liable to give the Mercuries a stiff battle.

WHITTIER AND REDLANDS MIX

they turn in a victory over Lee Trines's battling Redlands Bulldogs.

Chief Newman's Poets and the Bulldogs will collide on Hadley Field this afternoon, with the home team given a slight edge.

After a poor start, Whittier finally came through toward the latter part of the season, beating Pomona badly and running all over La Verne.

Handicapped by injuries during the first part of the year, the Bulldogs broke into their stride in the last three games, beating San Diego, 6-0; Cal. Christian, 19-0, and La Verne, 39-6.

Whittier's last three contests show a 19-13 win over San Diego, Pomona on the short end of a 33-6 score, while La Verne was routed, 54-0, last Saturday.

With Hank and Pete Beiden working their famed aerial attack, Chief Newman's eleven will have a chance to show its defense against passes. Redlands and Caltech have the best passing attacks in the conference, with the Bulldogs' formations being wider and their heaves much longer than Caltech's plays.

Some of Hank Beiden's heaves are fifty yards in the air.

Today's game will no doubt be a peach of a battle as far as the spectators are concerned, with the Bulldogs working via the air, while Newman's gang is figuring on making its touchdowns on lengthy gallops by Merle Mashburn and Bill Krueger.

Krueger is one of the fastest men in conference ranks and was the main reason why the Pomona score was so large. Mashburn ran wild against La Verne, scoring no less than three times, all on runs ranging from forty to twenty-five yards in length.

The Caltech-San Diego contest is a toss-up, with Walter Herreid's Aztecs given a good chance to win. The San Diego team is one of the mysteries of the circuit. Starting out the season with victories over Pomona, Occidental, Cal. Christian and La Verne, the dopesters were counting on the southerners to bring San Diego its first conference championship. However, Herreid's outfit dropped its last three games, losing to Whittier, Redlands and the San Diego submarine base.

The Aztecs have everything to gain and nothing to lose today and conference fans are expecting Herreid to shoot the works against the Engineers.

The Whittier-Redlands line-ups:

California's General Manager Given 'Advisory Committee of Four to Select New Coach

BERKELEY, Nov. 26. (Exclusive)—The appointment of an advisory body to act with W. W. Monahan, general manager of the Associated Students of the University of California, in the selection of a new football coach, is the next move in the storm which has wrought the resignation of Coach Clarence (Nibs) Price, the dismissal and reappointment of Arthur Arlett, editor of the Daily Californian, and placed the California student body in such a turmoil as it has not been for more than a decade.

Following yesterday's special session of the student body executive commission, in which Monahan was empowered to "recommend" a new coach, and it was further decided to name an advisory committee to act with Monahan, speculation was rife on the campus today as to the personnel of the committee.

"NIBS" PRICE.

Two members of this committee will be appointed from the student body athletic council and two other members after consultation with university authorities, Joe Hickingbotham, chairman of the athletic council, and Dean Thomas M. Putnam, faculty representative on the executive committee, are persons prominently mentioned in connection with the new committee. Late this afternoon no word was forthcoming as to official appointments or as to how soon the committee will be named. As for Monahan's looking over the field of available coaches, he will leave for the East on December 12 after attending a meeting of the Pacific Coast Conference. Many names were in circulation on the campus, but nothing of an authoritative nature was given out to the press. The names of Knute Rockne, Slip Madigan, Tad Jones, Dick Hanley were still suggested today.

Price is not as yet decided as to the future. At the present time he is neither basketball nor football coach, since his contract calls for coaching both teams, the student body bought up his contract, which still has a full year to run. General opinion on the campus today favored the retention of Price as basketball coach. In fact, the consensus of opinion had it that the university will suffer a distinct athletic loss if Price will not accept a basketball contract.

In view of the implied demand for his football resignation on the part of some alumni and students, if not openly stated, Price may withdraw entirely from athletics on the campus of his alma mater. As matters rest, he need take no definite action until the present semester is concluded, for in the past he has not started practicing with the basketball team until the Christmas holidays. It is also suggested, as far as Price himself is concerned, that other schools may make more tempting offers for the coaching of both basketball and football than California would make for basketball alone.

The signed statement of senior football players to the effect that they have the highest respect for Price's ability as coach and that the disastrous season just concluded is traceable to factors over which he had no control, may result in Price's securing offers from another institution, it is felt. Those senior players who agreed with the above sentiments include Capt. Carl Handy, Russell Avery, Ted Beckett, Herman Eickmeyer and Frank Medanich.

HOFF, GIBSON SUIT HEARING ADJOURNED

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (AP)—Supreme Court Justice Wasservogel today adjourned until Friday a hearing on a motion by Max (Boo-boo) Hoff, Philadelphia sportsman, who seeks to examine Billy Gibson, Gene Tunney's former manager, in connection with a $500,000 suit Hoff has filed against the former boxing champion.

Hoff declares Gibson, although legally incompetent, is able to tell circumstances under which Hoff says Gibson and Tunney agreed to pay 10 per cent of the boxer's earnings to Hoff.

OREGON STATE IN BIG GAME

Meets West Virginia Today on Turkey Day Program

CHICAGO, Nov. 26. (Exclusive)—West Virginia's football team arrived here this morning for its part in the Thanksgiving Day double-header at Soldier Field, receipts from which are to be donated to the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children.

RALPH BUERKE.

The Mountaineers will meet the Oregon State College eleven in the second game of the Turkey Day double-header to follow a preliminary contest between former stars of Notre Dame and Northwestern. The players will be handicapped by cold weather. The mercury dropped to 10 above today and a further drop to around 5 above is predicted for tomorrow.

Upward of $125,000 will be turned over to the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children as the result of the double-header. It has been estimated by officials of the show that more than 60,000 will see the bargain attraction.

The Notre Dame-Northwestern contest will begin at 10 a.m. following a spectacle of parades, music by the Shriners, West Virginia and Oregon State bands and a salute to the crippled children, who will benefit by the spectacle. The second game, featuring the intersectional warfare, will go on immediately following the encounter of ex-stars, so that the entire program should be concluded by 1:30 p.m.

The probable line-up:

Oregon State.		W. Virginia
McCullvrey	L.E.	Joseph
Kent	L.T.	Martin
Thompson	L.G.	Gorson (C.)
Hammer	C.	Plaster

been delegated the task of selecting the successor to Nibs Price, has indicated he will not do any scouting until after the next conference meeting in Los Angeles, so the Spears boosters will have time, at least, to get in a few licks for their favorite.

Since his graduation from Dartmouth, Spears has coached West Virginia, Minnesota and Oregon. He is a native of Illinois and had a wide reputation in midwestern football circles before casting his lot with the outfit at Eugene, Or. One of the sentiment feelers his friends let get out is their opinion his record justifies serious consideration by the University of California.

INJURED HAND KEEPS McLARNIN ON SHELF

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (AP)—An injured right hand probably will force Jimmy McLarnin out of action for four months. Jimmy plans to return to Vancouver and undergo treatment by a Canadian bone specialist.

McLarnin's hand was injured in the second round of his recent bout with Billy Petrolle and at the end of the fight was swollen to twice its normal size.

Cougar Fans Laud Triumph of Statemen

The great Northwest is celebrating its first conference victory in five years, in every possible extravagant fashion. Not since 1925, when George Wilson and the Washington Huskies rushed to the title, has the great Northwest had a chance to celebrate, and now with Babe Hollingbery's Cougars on the top of the heap they're doing it in proper fashion. The latest is a gorgeous silver and gray ribbon that is being exhibited by the triumphant citizenry in Washington. Charley Borah, former Trojan sprint star, and track captain, received one yesterday from an exultant friend up Pullman way. The ribbons are inscribed "Washington State Cougars 1930 Pacific Coast Conference Champions," and are being flaunted violently in the faces of all Californians, Oregonians, and others.

SUGGEST CZAR TO RULE RING

more successful than the present commission rule.

Ancil Hoffman, San Francisco fight promoter, told the board Charles Traung, San Francisco commissioner, intervened to cause Hoffman to give promoters of Dreamland rink 50 per cent of the net receipts of the Mickey Walker-Jack Willis fight in February, 1929. Hoffman claimed he promoted the fight and signed the principals, after which Traung informed him the Dreamland promoters also had been working to secure the fight, and were entitled to half the proceeds.

Hoffman said Traung gave him the impression the fight would not be staged unless the Dreamland promoters shared in the profits.

William Hanlon, Sacramento member of the commission, testified regarding the granting of licenses to Hoffman and other promoters.

Rudy Hickey and Steve George, sports editors of the Sacramento Bee and Sacramento Union, respectively, gave their impressions of the fight game in Sacramento and of the workings of the commission in general.

Other witnesses were State Senator J. M. Inman and Assemblyman Roy Nielsen of Sacramento.

DEMPSEY TO REFEREE PASADENA RING BOUTS

Jack Dempsey still retains his hold on the boxing fans. The former champion packed the Wilmington Bowl when he appeared in the role of referee last night and figures to turn the same trick tomorrow night when he works the main event at Morrie Cohan's Pasadena arena. The Pasadena main bout will be an eight-round affair between Judy Zuniga and Alfred Imperial. Five four-round bouts make up the preliminary program. They are: Young Ralph vs. Pedro Adoho, 124 pounds; Henry Gatten vs. Jimmy Burrows, 168 pounds; Roy Pollock vs. Manuel Divila, 160 pounds; Bob Douglas vs. Joe Skube, 145 pounds, and Dutch Hardt vs. Connie Haynes, 145 pounds.

JAYSEE TEAMS END SCHEDULE

Three Grid Contests on Tap This Afternoon

Closing the Southern California Jaycee Conference schedule, three games are on tap for followers of junior college football teams today. Long Beach will travel to Pasadena in one game. Compton entertains the Glendale squad and San Bernardino plays host to Riverside in the other battles.

The Pasadena-Long Beach and Compton-Glendale games are being picked as the most important. Compton and Riverside have already cinched the pennant in the western and eastern divisions of the conference, respectively and the outcome will have little bearing on the standings. Pasadena will be out to win from the Long Beach Vikings in order to get revenge for a very disastrous defeat which the Vikings handed the Bulldogs last year. With the pennant practically in the Bulldogs' hands, the Long Beach team scored a surprise victory which gave the 1929 gonfalon to Santa Ana.

Compton has yet to meet a defeat and will be out to keep its record clean in this game against the Buccaneers. Glendale scored an upset victory over the Tartars in 1929 and the latter will also be out for revenge. The Riverside Tigers, who have swept the eastern division, should find little opposition from the San Berdoo Indians, who have failed to show any class this year.

BELL FIVE WINS FIRST GAME FROM BANNING

In the first basketball game of the Marine League, Coach Nobel Waite's Bell High quintet trounced the Banning five, 35 to 12, in a game played on the Bell floor yesterday afternoon. Roedigier, with 14 points, and Lyman, with 8, were the outstanding scorers on the Bell team. Bell displayed excellent teamwork and established itself as a good contender for the title. In the preliminary encounter, the Bell Class B squad defeated the Banning five, 26 to 10. Poetner of Bell was high-point man with 10 digits, while Fyon of Banning with 7 was a close second.

ROCKNE WIRES DINNER ACCEPTANCE AT CLUB

K. K. Rockne, the sage of Notre Dame, wired Charley Keppen, L.A.A.C. athletic director, yesterday the news that the Notre Dame football team will accept the invitation to be the guests at the Mercury club at dinner the night of the Trojan-Irish game at the Coliseum. The alumni association of the South Bend institution will tender the dinner at the club. Leo B. Ward is in charge of the dinner arrangements.

Eastern Grid Rivalries Renewed

CORNELL, PENN TANGLE TODAY

Dobie's Eleven Has Chance to Grab Victory

Pitt and Penn State Also Collide Today

Brown and Colgate Tangle in Annual Game

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (AP)—Thanksgiving Day football slate brings renewal of four eastern traditional rivalries and that between Penn and Cornell need yield to none of the others in point of age or glamour.

In the last six years the best Cornell has been able to achieve in its historic turkey day game has been a 10-10 tie in 1926. The other five have gone to Penn by scores varying from 7-0 in 1925 to 49-0 in 1928. Cornell is conceded at least an outside chance to stop the rush of the Red and Blue this time. Gil Dobie has developed a good eleven at Ithaca this year with a strong line and two good backs in Handleman and Viviano. Of the thirty-six games played since 1893 Penn has won twenty-seven and Cornell seven with two ties.

Pitt and Penn State meet in another traditional game which closes the season for both. Pitt, holding a wide edge in the series since it was started in 1904, again will be heavily favored. The Panthers have won seventeen of the twenty-six games played. Penn State seven with two ties. The Nittany Lions have not beaten Pitt since 1919 although they gained scoreless ties in 1920 and 1921. All eight games since then have gone to Pitt, usually by decisive margins.

Syracuse and Columbia have played nine games since 1901 and Columbia's best has been one victory and one tie. Columbia's Lions probably will be short-enders again although they may spring a surprise if both Ralph Hewitt and Manuel Rivero, backfield stars, are available for full-time duty.

One of the most gruelling of all rivalries has been that between Brown and Colgate. Four times these rivals have battled to ties while Brown has won seven times and Colgate three since 1908. Colgate, with a great punch and the country's leading scorer in Len Macaluso, will be picked to win.

WILDCATS TO MEET AGGIE ELEVEN TODAY

TUCSON (Ariz.) Nov. 26. (AP)—The University of Arizona Wildcats went through a final drill here today in preparation for their meeting tomorrow with the Colorado Aggie gridsters. The Farmers worked out on the Phoenix High School gridiron, and will remain in Phoenix tonight.

The Rocky Mountain Conference team was given a slight edge over the Wildcats despite dismal predictions of its coach, Harry Hughes, who complained his team was less effective than the 1926 aggregation which came out of its Arizona game with a 3-to-3 tie.

ROCKNE'S METHODS BRILLIANT

Industry and Efficiency Fundamentals of Knute's Coaching at Notre Dame; McGrane Tells How Northwestern Wildcats Were Stopped

This is the second of a series of studies of Knute Rockne and his Notre Dame football team, contributed to The Times by the N.A.N.A.

Bert McGrane has just spent a week with his old friend Knute Rockne at Notre Dame, living with that magic football squad of Rockne's. This is the second of several dispatches by McGrane in which he presents a study and estimate of the famous coach and his methods.

BY BERT McGRANE

SOUTH BEND (Ind.) Nov. 26. (NANA)—Here in Knute Rockne's football factory industry and efficiency are fundamental requirements.

KNUTE ROCKNE

There is no wasted effort, no lost motion, no shirking. If the soul of the artist is reflected in the picture he paints, then the soul of the dynamic Rockne is reflected in the team he coaches.

The Saturday preceding the Notre Dame-Northwestern game, for the first time since that memorable Carnegie Tech reverse in 1926, Rockne intentionally absented himself from his team. Turning his men over to Hunk Anderson he went to Evanston to personally scout Northwestern. He charted no plays. He brought back nothing but mental notes. He noted the Northwestern wing back formations and paid particular attention to the individual characteristics of the Northwestern players.

Back home the next week, Rockne visualized Northwestern's style of offense and manufactured a defense. Wednesday before the game, Rockne gave the defense to his men and the task of arousing Notre Dame for the terrific collision ahead began unconsciously. It is something to see Rockne give his men serious instruction. It is then that the ingustry and efficiency of the Notre Dame football factory become most apparent.

Scores of football players girded for the combat stand at ease in midfield as Rockne arrives.

HAMBURGER SQUAD

"I want that hamburger squad that has been using Northwestern plays," says Rockne, without preliminaries. The hamburgers, composed largely of varsity ineligibles, play an important part in Notre Dame efficiency. The hamburgers in white jerseys detach themselves from the varsity squad, Rockne assigns them to their positions.

"All right," says Rockne, "let's have Carideo's gang." The first-string combination, most of them famous athletes, trots out. Rockne walks into the hamburger backfield. "You're Rudsell," he tells one man. "You're a little light, but you'll do. You're Lee Hanley," he tells another. "You represent Bruder," he says to a third, "and you, on the end, are Baker." Rockne walks over behind the varsity line.

Each man individually gets his instruction on just how he is to play his position against Northwestern. Rockne's instructions are not general; they are highly specific.

"On first down, you ends smash in this far," says Rockne, demonstrating. "Don't lose your man, but watch. Keep your eye on that halfback." Then the tackle gets his instruction. He comes to Bert Metzger, probably the lightest and smallest guard on a major college team in America and a virtual cinch for all-American recognition.

"Metz, if their guards pull out, get over and back up the end. If they stay in, watch for a smash."

Dynamite, destruction. Every man knew his assignment and carried it out. Down went the defense, invariably, and away went the ball carrier.

Physically these mighty men of Notre Dame seem only ordinary. But, Rockne might recruit a team of young giants if he cared to. There are some of them around—maybe enough to make a formidable team.

But he does not want beef. He demands speed and timing. It has been said that his line is a wall of halfbacks and the statement is not far wrong.

Take Bert Metzger, as the outstanding example. He is five feet eight inches tall and weighs 153 pounds. About the size of Lynn King of Drake. Metzger weighed 128 pounds when he played high-school football at Loyola Academy and he had difficulty making the freshman team there because of his size.

But he made the varsity, and how he made it! He is probably the most dependable in the line and Notre Dame guards have difficult assignments. He can take all the punishment that comes his way and never makes a tactical error. He is a watch-charm guard, the lightest and scrappiest in Notre Dame history.

The fighting Irish, as applied to Rockne's team this year, is a misnomer. The first string to go against Northwestern included a Polish end and an Irish end; tackle of old English descent and one of German descent; an Assyrian guard and a German guard; a center of Irish-Indian descent, an Italian quarterback, a Jewish-Irish half and a halfback of English stock, and an Irish fullback.

TROJANS MEET HUSKIES TODAY

ship are equipped with plays varied enough to bewilder any team in the country.

Every team Southern California has played since midseason has been badly baffled by the swiftness and attacking turns of the Trojan offense.

With all due respect to Coach Jimmy Phelan, who last year produced the Big Ten champion at Purdue, it is doubtful if his boys can stand off the rush and the drive of the Trojans short of four or five touchdowns.

And when any team makes that many, the toll is likely to run higher. However, you never can tell about these underdogs, and Phelan's boys have the same long chance on which others made good this year, such as Harvard against Yale, for example.

WASHINGTON RECORD

Washington's record this year includes victories over Whitman, 48 to 0; Montana, 27 to 0; Idaho, 27 to 0; California, 13 to 0, and Puget Sound, 60 to 0.

Losses have been met at the hands of Oregon, 7 to 0; Stanford, 25 to 7, and Washington State, 3 to 0.

Southern California has beaten U.C.L.A., 52 to 0; Oregon State, 27 to 0; Utah Aggies, 65 to 0; Stanford, 41 to 12; Denver, 33 to 13; California, 74 to 0, and Hawaii, 52 to 0. Washington State registered the only Trojan setback, 7 to 6.

After meeting the Trojans this afternoon Jimmy Phelan will have sent his team against every team in the Coast Conference with the exception of U.C.L.A. and Oregon State.

This is Phelan's first year at Seattle and the experience he gains in conference circles this year will be invaluable in future contests.

He stepped into a bad spot at Washington. The late Enoch Bagshaw had just been ousted, the alumni were on the outs, and a newcomer had to be a diplomat.

HAS CARRIED ON WELL

Phelan has carried on creditably. The Huskies have a new turf field; Phelan, an old Notre Dame man, has installed something of the Rockne system, the boys wear the gold silk panties invented by Rockne for speed, and bear not the slightest resemblance to the old Bagshaw power machines.

Washington has a good, strong, beefy line with lighter backs, chief of whom are Merle Hufford, speed merchant, and Marsh, a good kicker. Schwegler, tackle, and Wentworth, center, are the bulwarks in the line.

If Wilcox is in shape Coach Howard Jones probably will start the same line-up that opened the Stanford and California games—Wilcox and Archelbide at ends, Hall and Smith at tackles, Baker and Shaw at guards, Williamson at center, Pinckert and Apsit as backs, Musick in the fullback berth and Duffield at quarter. If Wilcox has to stay on the side lines Sparling will take his place.

The game is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock.

OFFICIAL FIGURES ANNOUNCED SOON

Compilation of the Pacific Coast League official batting, fielding and pitchers' records at the office of President Harry A. Williams was completed a little later this year, owing to the late ending of the season and the playing of the championship series. The task has now been completed by Statistician Leo Moriarty and the manuscript forwarded to the printers. The figures, which contain many items of interest will be released for publication in two or three weeks.

WASHINGTON GAME OFF

The Marine League game between Washington and Gardena high schools was postponed yesterday to a later date because of the death of one of the Gardena athletes.

PORT INDUSTRY FACES SETBACK

Plan Afoot for Shutdown of Packing Plants

State Association Meeting to Consider Matter

Van Camp Fish Company Leader of Move

BY WAYNE B. CAVE

The sardine-packing industry on which thousands of employees at the harbor depend for a livelihood during winter seasons faced a setback yesterday when the Van Camp Sea Food Company, Inc., largest packer in the State, announced it would discontinue packing December 1. The local season is barely started.

"We will close until markets improve so we can make a profit," declared Frank C. Van Camp, president of the company.

There were evidences other canneries would follow the lead of the Van Camp firm and a meeting was opened at San Francisco yesterday of all sardine packers in the State for a radical curtailment of the season's pack.

If the proposal is adopted at this meeting the Northern and Southern California plants will restrict their output to one-half that of last year, when the all-time record of more than 4,000,000 cases of forty-eight one-pound oval cans were packed in the State.

The proposal was made by Bismarck Houssels, president of the newly formed State-wide California Fish Canners' Association.

"The world consumed only 3,000,000 cases of last year's pack," he explained, "leaving 1,000,000 cases surplus. I believe consumption of this year's pack will certainly not be greater than last year's, and if we are to filter in the 1,000,000-case surplus only 2,000,000 cases should be packed this year. It is vigorous medicine, but the industry is a very sick patient."

Mr. Houssels suggested agreements allowing the Monterey plants a total output of 1,100,000 cases, Southern California 900,000. Monterey plants already have packed their quota and indications were yesterday the curtailment program will be accepted.

"I will close whether other companies do or not," declared Van Camp, adding that every can put up at present prices means a loss to the packer.

ESPEE ASKED TO PUT PRICE ON HARBOR STRIP

Harbor Commissioners yesterday voted to ask Southern Pacific Company for its minimum price on a ten-block strip of San Pedro water front, with a view to buying the strip and improving it with passenger and freight terminals and a slip for a modern municipal ferry system between San Pedro and Terminal Island.

Recent appraisals for the city placed a value of $762,025 on the frontage between First and Tenth streets, and $332,000 on a parcel away from the front needed for a vehicular viaduct and transit shed development. Appraisers for the railway company are said to have set a figure twice as high, but railway officials are said to have indicated their appraisal would not be their final price, that they were desirous of disposing of the tract to the city.

The city appraisal followed a year's work by a committee of Los Angeles and harbor leaders, who recommended a ferry after discarding proposals for a bridge or a tube across the main channel as too costly.

Robert Dollar's climb in American shipping will be symbolized by the last rivet to be driven into the new $3,000,000 Dollar liner President Hoover, just before it is launched at Newport News, Va., December 9. That rivet will be fashioned from the bell of the little Newsboy, the first steamer owned by the Dollar Line more than thirty years ago. The Newsboy, dismantled in 1906, was 120 feet long; the President Hoover will be 653. The Newsboy's speed was six knots, the new liner twenty-one. The Newsboy carried a crew of eleven; the President Hoover will boast a crew of 300 and will carry 1260 passengers. Christening will be by Mrs. Hoover from waters of the seven seas cruised by Dollar world liners.

Lassco cabin liner Calawaii which sailed from Honolulu late the 20th inst., is due at Los Angeles Harbor with passengers and freight either late tonight or tomorrow morning, according to advices received yesterday. Aboard are 109 passengers, and the liner has a large consignment of pre-Christmas mail, express and island products. In preparation for the altered schedule of sailings calling for a departure weekly after the first of next year, the Calawaii will cut this lie-over here, and sail back to Hawaii Saturday noon.

The whaling factory tanker Lansing of the California Sea Products Company, is due in port for fresh water today, from the Santa Barbara Islands, to which the whaling fleet moved from San Nicolas Island a month ago. The tanker has aboard more than 10,000 barrels of whale oil, the season's reduction, but will not discharge until the close of the season, to be determined by the scarcity of whales. Plans are underway to dispatch the fleet to Peruvian waters in February.

Harbor Department revenues for October were $187,997 compared to $198,266 for the corresponding month last year, according to a report to the Harbor Commission yesterday. Principal items included dockage $16,000, wharfage $85,943, storage $5347, pilotage $23,913, rents $27,183, Belt Line $8302, warehouse receipts $2392, interest on money in banks $7714. The latter item hereafter will go into the city's general fund, following the electorate's adoption of Municipal Proposition 2A, November 4. The Harbor Department will lose $7000 to $10,000 monthly by this transfer, it was reported.

AIR TOURIST RIDES WOOD STEED HERE

Daughter of Britain's Finance Minister Guest of Breakfast Clubbers

From sitting at the controls of a speedy little sport plane to taking the reins of a wooden horse is quite a contrast, but Mrs. Adele Spencer Cleaver, who soloed from London to India and from New York to Los Angeles, had to ride the Breakfast Club's wooden mount yesterday morning as part of her introduction at the club meeting.

Mrs. Cleaver is the daughter of Hugh M. Pollack, Minister of Finance for England. She is in Los Angeles on a leisurely tour of the United States in the same single-seated Gypsy Moth biplane which she flew to India from England via Bagdad.

Advantages of the use of air mail for building business were pointed out in a talk by A. W. Leonard on behalf of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. R. Lee Heath and Ely Schwartz were hosts, while J. P. L. O'Connor presided.

Guests included Constantine Mackrtiah, Indian broker; Charles F. Bearsley, Bridgeport, Ct.; Barbara Stanwyck, Eddie Lambert and Annette Farrand.

Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher, Jr., pastor of the First Baptist Church of Glendale, spoke on "California Gives Thanks."

SOUTHERN PACIFIC TO OFFER HOLIDAY RATES

Announcement of holiday low-fare excursion rates between Pacific Coast points during the Christmas and New year's holiday season was made here today by the Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Santa Fe. For Christmas homegoers, round-trip tickets at the special low rate will be on sale from December 18 to 23, with return trip to be completed not later than January 6. The New Year's special excursion fares will be in effect from December 30 to January 1, the return trip to be completed before midnight of January 6. The rate applies between points west of El Paso.

ACTRESS LOSES SUIT ON BEACH CLUB FEE

Judgment against Gloria Gray, film actress, for $60, asserted due as membership fee in the Deauville Beach Club, was handed down by Municipal Judge Fields yesterday. The judgment was rendered in favor of A. B. Clever as assignee for the Deauville Holding Company. Miss Gray admitted signing an application for membership and a note covering the fee, but said that she did not know she had been elected to membership and had never visited the club.

BUILDING DEMOLITION CONTRACT ANNOUNCED

The contract for demolishing the buildings in the line of Spring street, extended from Temple street to Sunset Boulevard through the Civic Center, was awarded yesterday by the Board of Public Works to R. C. Marns for $26,080. He is allowed sixty days to complete the job.

CITY USHERS IN HOLIDAYS WITH BRILLIANT DISPLAYS

French prints by celebrated artists, D'Argy Rousseau glassware, hand-moulded, colorful, imported potteries and chinas.

For her, costume jewelry created by French modistes, lingerie, gloves to match the jewels and the shoes, hand bags embroidered in exceptional designs—even personal stationery produced in Bouvais, Feine Sarasen bags, exquisite flattering gifts feminine.

MYER SIEGEL CO.

Gift-beauty greets one at the very entrance of the Myer Siegel Company, 733 South Flower street.

Gift-beauty in profusion is housed in the handsome glass cases wherein repose the array of hand bags, so appropriate as feminine holiday remembrances. Bags for street, bags for afternoon, bags for evening are there. Hand bags in every popular leather, in all best-liked fabrics, bags for formal occasions, jewel-like affairs are these—done in petit pointe, in embroidery of pearls, in sequins and colors to match the evening gown with which they are to be carried.

Gloves, also, claim gift-worthiness, gloves for street, gloves formal and gloves informal, gloves of tailored flavor, gloves ornately decorative. Neckwear, also, calls for a place on the gift lists for her, and sportish scarves, come in for a full share of gift attention.

Lingerie, so very femininely appropos, here is featured always in the highest expression of the mode; as also are negligees, garments for the leisure hours—robes, pajamas.

And the gift of fur, here finds full recognition, whether the gift is to be large or small, the long luxurious coat, the jaunty jacket, the flat fur scarf, a season's favorite.

DONAVAN & SEAMANS

Having in mind the fact that the holidays are a time for fine table settings, Donavan & Seamans are featuring for the Yuletide the largest and finest selection of sterling silver in their entire history.

So important a gift item has silver become that this firm has brought to Los Angeles the wares of Samuel Kirk & Son of Baltimore, America's oldest silversmiths. These worthwhile craftsmen first wrought their wares by hand in Baltimore 150 years ago, and are said to be the only surviving American silversmiths who have their pieces in the old silver exhibits of the American and Metropolitan museums.

Perhaps the most famous of decorative patterns in sterling is Kirk's repousse, a pattern which has survived and flourished for more than ninety years. Scores of articles in this exquisite design range from the tiny lemon fork up through the entire service.

Each item in flatware has a different decorative motif, which has a pleasing effect when on the table. The bowls, plates and all hollow-ware pieces are hand decorated, and although no two carry exactly the same decoration, yet when assembled there is throughout a delightful harmony.

MONTGOMERY BROS.

"Time to lay in your Christmas stocks!" So seems to say the big clock in front of the gift-brilliant store of Montgomery Brothers, 635 West Seventh street.

Windows here are resplendent with those gifts supreme, diamonds, and other jewels, rare examples in jade, in chrysoprase, in amethyst and other precious and semiprecious stones, conforming to the mode in jewelry to harmonize with the feminine costume.

Clocks in many novel versions, here are shown; and new articles, produced this season, to meet the demands of progress.

Here one notes, with pride, that smoking and card table objects, also illustrated in late editions of eastern magazines, are evinced—proving that Los Angeles is au courant of the latest fads.

Here we observe the newest of rings: the anniversary set, the single stone representing the number of the year, since marriage, the guard ring set in similar stones—a fine gift suggestion.

A. E. LITTLE COMPANY

"From Little's," she remarks with satisfaction as she cons her gifts; for Little's is a gift shop distinguished for good taste.

One seeking greeting cards that are different makes this shop an objective, a place certain to offer cards and emblems of exceptional artistry. The revived vogue of pictures in the home brings into prominence the fine etchings here, well-chosen examples, both in colors and in black and white.

Objects of art, fine potteries, rare glass, articles in hand-tooled leather, book ends in wide variety, coffee tables and imported china sets for serving the favorite beverages. Any gift from Little's attests the discrimination of the donor and is sure to find warm welcome from the recipient.

PETERSON'S

Just because mother happens to be cast in larger mold, she need not be neglected.

At Peterson's Gray Shop garments and accessories designed especially for the woman not small are plentiful.

And beautiful enough to find a prominent place on Santa's lists are the gowns, sportswear, stockings, hats and shoes shown in this gray shop.

COLBURN'S

Colburn's, Inc., 716 South Flower street, are featuring jackettes as particularly suitable for the season's gifts.

Caliak, especially favored among the flat pelts for the trig little garments, loved of young girls and women, are here shown in bronze, in brown, in beige and in white.

This popular little coat in black—which is so important a part of every woman's wardrobe this year, comes in broadtail, in caracul and also in caliak.

Any one of these would form an excellent gift for her; while an evening wrap would be welcomed as a gift de luxe. Ermine, of course, has the lead, in wraps for evening; ermine in white, and in the three-quarter or in the short cape effect—the wrap imperial.

Flat scarfs also are popular and a gift of such would be received with open arms, particularly by the tailored girl—and there are many of her at present.

A gift from Colburn's always bears the insignia of excellent taste, and such a gift is seasonably practical as well as elegant.

SWELLDOM

What more appropriate feminine gift than one selected from the woman's corner?

Such is the name which has been given to that store so favored by women—Swelldom.

"Where style is inexpensive"—the slogan of this house—never has been more appropriate than at present—never so desirable as now the opportunity to purchase, whether for the gift or for oneself, as to obtain the wished-for costume, at the lowest cost compatible with quality.

It is to further bear out the truth of the long-since adopted slogan that Swelldom is offering especial gift-prices on merchandise fitted for feminine delight.

In hosiery it is here that the practical advice is given: In buying stockings, purchase two pairs alike, thus extending their wear indefinitely. Any girl or woman would rejoice over a gift such as this, for she never has too many.

BIRCH-SMITH FURNITURE CO.

In the store of the Birch-Smith Furniture Company the home atmosphere is stressed for the holidays.

"After all," said an official of this company, "when home is made attractive the family is more united and parents who provide pleasant and interesting homes for their growing children are doing much toward civic righteousness."

Calling attention to many articles of furniture especially suitable for the use of children and of college students, this official said that this season more attention is being given to the matter of providing especial articles for the rooms of younger members of the family. Especially attractive desks here are shown, desks practical for studious use and beautiful as well, being finished in fine woods. The secretary type, serving both as desk and as bookcase, for holding the favorite volumes are being chosen as gifts for young men and girls.

In addition to such gifts for the home, as entire suites for bedroom and for living-room, many pieces of occasional furniture are helping out the gift lists, at present; and with the modish fad for all things decorative and amusing, objects of this class are shown in endless variety.

Lamps of all shapes and in every style are appropriate gifts; tables, for many purposes, in the lists of which coffee tables hold first place, are among first thoughts in gifts for the home. Pictures, mirrors, radios, and seldom-thought-of but very giftful ferneries, for growing plants and vines; all providing excellent home-gifts.

Bedding is not to be left out when making gift lists, since many lovely numbers in this line are offered—blankets, spreads, and for a gift singularly practical—the entire bed, provided with best of springs and mattresses. This season, more than for many years, the gift practical finds a prominent place on gift lists.

SLAVICK'S

One of the nation's leading financiers has advised, as a practical help toward restoration of prosperity, that all who can do so purchase on the installment plan.

The extended payment idea as put forth by the Slavick Jewelry Company, 427 West Seventh street, is similar to that suggested by the financier in question.

A fine jewel unquestionably is the gift supreme, the dream of all who prize the better things of life. While it may not always be convenient for one desiring to make such a gift to pay cash, through the well-thought-out plan of the Slavick company he may obtain it for presentation to friend, relative or the lady of his choice.

To do this in advance of the holiday rush is to embody in the gift that thoughtful choice which projects the personality of the donor, as no hurried selection, or last-minute purchase can accomplish.

A gem, ring, bracelet, watch, brooch or ear-rings may be selected and the payment extended according to arrangement. The Slavick quality is unquestioned, with a range of design that allows free expression of taste.

LOGAN THE HATTER

It is a mistake to think that Logan the Hatter deals only in hats for men; many other useful and gift-worthy articles are housed there.

While hats are Logan's especial domain—it was he who advised that a man should not expect a single hat to do service with all kinds of dress—much attention is given to other items of masculine attire. Cravats, for example, are found here in utmost quality and of latest patterns and materials. Quality in men's neckwear proves itself valueful long after price is forgotten and men in the know, well know this. Logan long since learned and has proved to his patrons that silk of quality, wrought into men's cravats lasts longer, does not wrinkle and in fact that a really good necktie lends to a man's appearance that final touch of grooming not conferred by any other article of his costume. Hence, the offering of gift neckwear at Logan's is worthy the attention of any woman seeking gifts for her male friend; or of any man to man. Many cravats of high class found here are in designs exclusive with this shop.

G. D. DAVIDSON CO.

The G. D. Davidson Company in their beautiful store at 645 South Hill street, recognizing the persistent vogue of costume jewelry, and the requirement of colorful gems to complete the ensemble, are stressing in their collection semiprecious stones, such as jade, turquoise, carnelian and amethyst. Necklaces, bracelets, pendant brooches in these stones are framed sumptuously, true art being brought to bear in settings and in paving in harmonious tints, which serve to bring out the beauty of the stones.

Fine crystals of unusual cutting and design are shown in necklaces both long and in choker effect. Carved jade is combined with coral in an exceptional necklace; carved turquoise, interset with crystal, in long chain effect, offer a suggestion finely gifty.

Silver and enameled dressing-table sets claim a place on the feminine gift list, and silver in objects both decorative and practical proclaims itself especially gift-attractive. Again we are reminded that not in many years has silver been so inexpensive, never so popular, never brought forth in more lovely patterns.

In articles appropriate as gifts for men, attractive numbers in gold and in silver cigarette cases, combs and other things for personal use vie with sets for formal evening dress, and watches, rings and chains. A novel chain for the man's watch is in the serpentine weave in green or yellow gold, a very popular effect.

With the revival of pins for the man's cravat a great variety of precious and semiprecious stones are shown, framed daintily in platinum or in gold. Personal greeting cards of distinctive character are a feature with the G. D. Davidson Company.

SILVERWOOD'S

The twin Santa Clauses at Silverwood's have wrought a happy combination of their favorite colors throughout the Silverwood twin stores. Christmas red and silver in wreaths, festoons and pine cones, emblematic of the season, decorate Silverwood's downtown store on Broadway at Sixth street, and also gladden the Silverwood store on Wilshire Boulevard.

When choosing for the man such practical articles as cravats, sweaters, scarfs, dress-suit sets, gloves and hosiery, the gift searcher cannot fail to observe the imported novelties in wood, any of which would form apropos holiday remembrances, either singly or companioning other gifts.

Hand-carved and tinted nut-crackers; brushes for hats and for clothes; cigarette boxes, some of which are musical; all the ingenious products of foreign peasantry; each fraught with gift suggestiveness.

A novel cigarette case is shaped like a Zeppelin and is finished in enamel of brilliant coloring.

Many quaint ash trays are noticed here, among them one upon which is perched a saucy monkey holding in his tiny hand a cigarette extinguisher.

Many beautiful dressing-table articles also are obtainable, items certain to please the woman of fastidious tastes.

Tie racks in various designs; bill folds and fitted dressing-cases are among the more ambitious gifts. In the line of sportswear and smart habiliments for the college man Silverwood's excels.

JAEGER'S

"Insulation" is the watchword at the shop of the Jaeger Company, Inc., at 713 West Seventh street.

A clever thought, this, for a house dealing exclusively in fine woolens for both exterior and underwear.

Internationally—yes world-famous—for many years, this establishment has been, for woolens of quality.

Camel's-hair coats from Jaeger's are hall-marked with modishness. Scarfs for men and for women, garments for children and for grown-ups, everything wearable, wherein fine unquestionable woolen texture is a requisite, if purchased at Jaeger's, is certain to be as represented. For which reason, gifts along these lines are welcome gifts, at the holiday season, or at any time.

Luxurious motor robes and smart sportswear apparel, particularly, are handsome and timely gifts from this shop.

BEDELL'S

The Bedell company, 605 South Broadway, holding its annual National Bedell's Month Sale, is offering especially attractive prices in every line of feminine apparel and this is felt to be a holiday celebration in keeping with the spirit of the times.

From the many departments throughout the store, especial price making appears, suggesting gifts for feminine friends and relatives. Evening gowns for holiday festivities; evening wraps; fur jackets, appropriate offerings for the debutante; hats in latest mode; street dresses, lingerie, hosiery, lounging robes, coolie coats and pajamas, vie with hand bags and sportswear as seasonable gifts for both the sophisticated miss and for older members of the family and friends.

Rossetti Buried in Forest Lawn

Final rites for William Bunker Rossetti, 28-year-old athlete and local securities salesman, who dived to his death from the sixth floor of the Jonathan Club last Monday, were conducted yesterday afternoon from the Wee Kirk o' the Heather, Forest Lawn Memorial Park. Interment was in the park on Sunrise Slope.

Rossetti resided here with his wife and 1-year-old son at 3443 West Fourth street. He also leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Rossetti, of New York City.
